FRENCH statesmen are having a hard time with the drowning franc. Herriot, head of the government which held office less than 48 hours, planned a levy on French capital, disguised. Capital would see through the disguise.

Small French people don't want to be taxed. The statesmen fear their numbers. Very rich Frenchmen don't want their capital confiscated and government fears their financial power.

Many deputies demand a financial dictator, but what could he do? You cannot lift yourself by your boot straps, financially or physically. But the French, however, will find a way out. They are industrious, thrifty, brave and determined, men and women both.

The French have vitality. Ninon de L'Enclos, at 72 young and beautiful, had very young men in love with her. Now Madame Despres, of Roubaix, aged 87, establishes a new swimming record. You can't beat the French, and you don't want to.

What we call genius today will be the commonplace of future ages. When life on this earth came out of water onto the land, and some of the reptiles began to fly, the birds that flew a few feet were probably considered geniuses by the others.

A white child of ten is a genius compared with some full grown savages. The men of a million, and ten million years hence will all be geniuses compared with our greatest minds, and far above them. We are barbarians, not yet standardized.

LLOYD GEORGE warns church societies that "the most horrible, devastating war will come unless young people on the world prevent it." Europe has greater armies than ever before, and horrible war is inevitable unless the rising generation "substitutes organized justice for organized violence."

If war comes, it will have to come. The old gambler said as he "raised the pot" that the way to discourage vice is to make it expensive. The way to discourage was is to let men learn what it costs. The thing for this country is to keep out of it, build flying machines and submarines enough to protect itself, and when war comes "neither a borrower nor a lender be" —nor a participant.

FLORENZ ZIEGFELD, who continues "glorifying the American girl," but insists that she be "modestly dressed," says "the plumper girl is coming in." He predicts disappearance of the prevailing type that looks half starved as a result of dieting.

That's good news for the tired businessman who sits in front. Still better news for the other man who wants the next generation to be worth while, and fears trouble when the halfstarved

Ice Shortage is Relieved by Alliance Shipment.

COOLER WEATHER

Death Toll in State is Placed at 40.

With a death toll of at least 40, including one Columbiana county victim, the heat wave in Ohio was broken today.

Robert, four-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Heltzel is dead at his home in Salineville, today, a victim of the torrid spell that held the state in its grip for four days. The baby was found dead on a bed.

Showers Brief Relief.

Showers, which fell yesterday afternoon and night, brought relief from the intense heat which ran the mercury up to the 98-degree mark in East Liverpool and immediate vicinity.

Shower Party Called Off.

Peak in the hot weather yesterday, according to records at Dam No. 8, was reached at noon when the mercury registered 92 degrees. Breezes, which arrived with showers in the central and western part of the county early in the afternoon, caused a drop to the 89-degree mark at 3 o'clock, about nine degrees cooler than at the same hour Wednesday afternoon.

Ice shortage, which developed with the heat wave, was relieved this afternoon with a shipment from Alliance. The normal daily summer output of the Crockery City Ice and Products company's plan here jumped from 65 and 75 tons daily to 100 tons, but all the demands could not be filled.

"We managed to keep butcher shops, stores, hospitals, soda fountains and confectioners supplied, but were forced to cut down on the the amounts delivered to private consumers for a day or two," said A. E. Webber, manager of the company, today. "We will have plenty of ice to meet all demands after the rail shipment arrives this afternoon."

The heat wave developed just as Fire Chief Thomas Bryan was arranging for a children's shower party on Broadway, either Friday afternoon or Saturday morning. The party was called off last night, but will be staged on Monday afternoon should the heat again become oppressive.

Half of Casualties Drowned.

Firemen Answer Two Calls; Flint Mill is Damaged

While firemen were extinguishing a blaze at the Golding & Son flint mill at the foot of West Fourth street at 1 o'clock this afternoon another call came in from the home of Mrs. Ernestine Parsons, East Third street.

Captain Ruhe, of the Northside station, who was" filling in" at the Central station in the absence of the Central department, answered the call from Third street.

The blaze at th eflint mill was in the roof above the engine room. The sprinklers were working when the firemen arrived and the blaze was easily subdued with chemicals. The loss amounted to about $100.

Minor damage was done by the fire at the Parsons home. Chemicals were used by the firemen.

Pottery Owners Discuss N. B. O. P. Wage Proposals

Tentative Date for Joint Conference Will be Suggested at Meeting of Manufacturers' Labor Committee.

Members of the labor committee of the United States Potters' association conferred at the office of the Homer Laughlin China company, Newell, today for the purpose of considering the proposals submitted by the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, for the new general ware agreements to become effective on October 1.

The committee, of which W. E. Wells, secretary-treasurer of the Laughlin company, is chairman, met at the headquarters of the potters' association, Fourth and Market street, this morning, but adjourned to the Laughlin company's main offices in Newell.

Brotherhood proposals, drafted at the annual convention held in Atlantic City, early in July, are in the hands of the manufacturers. Purpose of today's meeting was primarily to consider the demands. Counter proposals probably will be prepared by the manufacturers, to be considered at a joint conference with representatives of the union.

Tentative date and place for the conference probably will be suggested, subject to approval of Brotherhood officials. This parley probably will be held next month.

AUTO CRASH TIES UP TRAFFIC ON PENN AVENUE TROLLEY LINE

Judge J. C. Hanley's and Joseph Simballa's Cars Sideswipe — Mrs. Mildred Simballa Receives Minor Injury.

Traffic over the eastbound main line street car tracks between the Ravine street cross-over and Mulberry street was tied up for 45 minutes shortly after 10 o'clock last night, when automobiles driven by Municipal Judge Jesse C. Hanley, College street, and Joseph Simballa, Grant street, Newell, sidewiped near the "Red Steps" on Pennsylvania avenue.

Hanley, driving a coach, was traveling in the direction of East End, while Simballa, in a sedan, was headed west. Hanley claimed that both machines were traveling at a speed rate of about 20 or 25 miles per hour and that neither he nor Simballa allowed the other space enough to pass. Simballa said that Hanley was traveling too far toward the center of the road and that he did not have room to pass.

Mrs. Mildred Simballa, wife of the driver of the sedan, received a minor scalp laceration, but her husband and four other passengers in their car were unhurt. The left front tire and wheel and front and back fenders and running board on the Simballa machine were damaged. The Hanley car lost a hub cap and one fender was damaged.

The force of the impact forced one of the automobiles onto the eastbound railway track and cars were operated over one track until the obstruction was removed.

Patrolman Herman Roth made an investigation of the crash, but his report was not available at the police station this morning.

Judge Hanley's machine was driven away under its own power, but Simballa's car was towed to the Buckeye Motor Sales garage for repairs.

DON R. MELLETT SLAYERS' HUNT NOW IN CHARGE OF ORA SLATER

Search for Canton Assassins Assumes Military Aspect.

CHECK UP CLUES

General Headquarters Established in Newspaper Building.

CANTON, July 23.—Precautions were taken today by investigators in the Don R. Mellett murder case to prevent the execution of anonymous threats that have been received by them during the past 24 hours.

Although they had little to say about the menacing notes, some of the cleuths admitted they thought that a few of the letters came from sources that were unfriendly to the slain publisher. Others, they said, were thought to have been sent by fanatics.

CANTON, O., July 23.—The hunt for the slayers of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, today assumed a military aspect with Ora Slater, famous Cincinnati detective as commander-in-chief of all investigations now under way into the killing.

"G. H. Q."—General headquarters—have been established in a suite of offices in the Daily News building. Here will be a clearing house for all clews uncovered by any of the searchers and from here Generalissimo Slater will direct the activities of every phase of the complicated hunt.

This important development is expected to bring rapid fire results on clues obtained by any of the several probing agencies.

Detective Slater will be in charge of the office and either he or one of his assistants will be there continuously to check all leads that are brought to their attention.

Similiarity Between Two Crimes.

One of the strongest theories that was being advanced by several private detectives is that the turmoil caused by Mellett's crusading efforts to enforce prohibition and narcotic laws inspired vengeful vendors of illicit wares to take his life a week ago today.

This theory is borne out, they say, by the fact that Mellett had been relentless in his campaign against certain of the operators in the Canton "jungle."

The sleuths pointed out the great similarity between the Mellett slaying and the unsolved murder of Paul E. Kitzig, whiskey runner who was murdered five years ago.

Kitzig was killed with a single shot in the head shortly after he had told in federal court about the ramifications of a huge liquor ring. Two or three names which have been used in connection with the killing of Mellett were also heard in reference to

WOMEN FORFEIT BONDS OF $15.80

Bonds of $15.80 each were declared forfeited today when Mrs. Ethel Lomax, Wellsville, and Miss Cecil Brown, Claybourne avenue, failed to appear before Municipal Judge Hanley in municipal court to answer to charges of disorderly conduct by fighting.

The women were arrested at Patterson field by Captain of Police Conley at 9:20 o'clock last evening after they are alleged to have participated in a hair pulling. Friends posted bond for their appearance in court.

GREENVILLE POLICEMAN SHOT WHEN HE ARRESTS CHICKEN COOP RAIDERS

Gunman Also Wounds Another Officer When Trapped as He Returns to Automobile in Which Were Two Bags Filled With Poultry, Believed Stolen in District.

PISTOL WIELDER ESCAPES BUT HANDCUFFED COMPANION IS JAILED

Two Shots Fired, One Penetrating Victim's Stomach, as Special Policeman Attempts to Shackle Prisoner After Latter Approaches Parked Car—Fugitive is Not Identified.

GREENVILLE, O., July 23.—Special Officer Simon Penny, 54, was shot and killed at 3 o'clock this morning and Officer Ora McClellan, 50, was slightly wounded in a fight with two chicken thieves in the south end of the city. The man who did the shooting made his escape but his companion, Harvey Seymour, 45, of Laura, a small village in Miami county, was arrested. Seymour told the officers that he does not know the name of the man who did the shooting and claims that he was on his way to Detroit and had accepted a ride from him.

Shortly after 2 o'clock this morning a call came into police headquarters that an automobile had driven into an alley in the south end and two men had left it parked there. The informant did not give his name but Officers Penny and McClellan were dispatched to the scene. They found the automobile, a Ford touring car, and in it were two bags filled with chickens.

Hiding in a thicket of weeds, the two officers waited for the men to return. In about 10 minutes the men were heard coming back and as they started to get into the car, Penny and McClellan covered them with their guns and ordered them to throw up their hands. They did so and McClellan put handcuffs on Seymour. As he went toward the other man to shackle him the fellow whipped out a gun and opened fire. The second shot took effect in Penny's body, the bullet passing through his stomach.

Fires at Assailant.

Mortally wounded, Penny fell to the ground, but continued shooting at his assailant. In the darkness the gunman escaped and McClellan went back to assist his brother officer. He was taken to the city building and a physician called but he died within few minutes after his arrival.

Penny was regularly employed as a janitor by the Greenville National bank but had acted as special officer at various times. He had recently been employed on the Greenville force in place of Clifford Husnagle, who is on his vacation. His wife died some time ago. Three grown children survive.

Seymour is believed by the officers to be covering up the name of his companion but it is thought his identity will be established. The Ford car which the men occupied had an extra set of license plates inside. No reports of chicken thefts had been received late this morning and it is not known where the men had secured those found in the car.

Police Warn Many Dogs are on Verge Of Madness Here

Many dogs are on the verge of madness as result of lack of drinking water, according to reports reaching police headquarters during the heat wave.

"If housewives will set a pan of water in their yards where it can be reached by dogs, many a mad dog scare will be prevented," said Chief of Police McDermott, today.

Ohioan Shot by Deputy Sheriff.

NEW LEXINGTON, O., July 23.—George Notestone, 25, of South Perty, O., was in Cherrington hospital today, shot through the hip by Deputy Sheriffs Joseph Farbean and G. Chaplan when he tried to escape. The officers said Notestone had been arrested for bootlegging.

Strange Suicide Pact Between Two Youngsters Hinted

ELLSWORTH, Me., July 23.—A strange suicide love pact between two youngsters in their early 'teens was revealed today when authorities joined in a search through the dense woods in this section for David Coughlin, 14, and Nellie Piper, also 14.

The love-sick youngsters, according to the authorities, vanished two days ago, taking a gun and chloroform, and leaving behind a note stating they would spend a blissful week together and then kill themselves.

FOUR DIE AS GANGLAND ACTS

Cafe Owner, Detective, Watchman and Bandit Are Killed.

CHICAGO, July 23.—A millionaire cafe owner, a detective, a watchman and a negro bandit were dead here today after another gangland upheaval.

Philip Piazba, owner of the Milano cafe, Chicago Heights, was assassinated by gunmen in the doorway of his establishment.

Theodore Anderson, detective, was slain by two negroes who tried to hold him up. Fifteen minutes later his slayer was shot and killed by police.

Harry Kind, watchman, was beaten to death with an iron bar when he tried to resist safe robbers.

Chester Man Who Told Murder Story Goes to Asylum

Orin Steel, colored, former resident of Chester, who was arrested at St. Albans, Vermont, a few weeks ago, where he was said to have told authorities that he had murdered a man in East Liverpool, has been committed to the Massillon state hospital for the insane.

Steel was brought back to Lisbon by Constable Clarence Wetzel, of Center township, on a warrant issued by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle. An examination by a lunacy commission followed.

Police made an investigation of the murder story and found it to be without foundation.

WELLSVILLE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION WILL HEAR HARRY F. HURD'S APPEAL ON MONDAY

Harry F. Hurd, former Wellsville patrolman, dismissed from the service on charges of gross neglect of duty and drunkenness, filed by Mayor W. L. Fogo, will go on trial Monday night at the city hall, Wellsville, before the present civil service commission, consisting of Dwight McLean, chairman, and Members Harry Hammond and A. C. Fogo.

Acting upon the advice of Solicitor S. C. Luccock, the present commission, which holds the power by law, as interpreted by the state civil service commission, to appoint a new trial board, if necessary, will itself hear the case.

The fact that the time limit to begin the hearing of the case, as prescribed by law, will elapse within the next few days, it was impracticable, Solicitor Luccock said, to institute proceedings for the organization of a new commission as suggested in a report of the state civil service commission.

The state commission's report points out that there is nothing in the statutes to prevent the case from being heard before the present triumvirate.

The civil service commission this morning notified Hurd of the date for the trial proceedings. Hurd will be represented by Attorneys Frank E. Grosshans and Ben L. Bennett, of East Liverpool, and W. A. O'Grady, of Wellsville.

State Board's Report.

The complete text of the state commission's report of the investigation relative to enforcement of the civil service laws follows:

"Hon. Wallace L. Fogo,
"Mayor of the City of Wellsville, O.
"Dear Sir:—

"Under the provisions of the civil service laws of Ohio a representative of the attorney general of Ohio and the state civil service commission conducted an investigation under date of July 16, 1926 at Wellsville, Ohio, of the situation relative to the enforcement of the civil service laws which had been officially referred to this office.

"It is desired to point out that throughout the investigation the mayor evidenced a genuine desire to comply, and willingness to cooperate with the ruling or recommendation of the state civil service commission.

"With reference to the case of Harry F. Hurd, formerly a patrolman, it was found that the mayor acted entirely within his rights in suspending Mr. Hurd as provided by Section 446-17 for a period of thirty days which period of suspension expired May 28, 1926. However, the mayor was in error in continuing this suspension to June 26, 1926, inasmuch as the above referred to statute explicitly provides —'Nothing in this act contained shall limit the power of an appointing officer to suspend without pay, for puposes of discipline, an employe or subordinate for a reasonable period not exceeding thirty days; provided, however, that successive suspensions shall not be allowed.' Accordingly this commission finds that Mr. Hurd is entitled to the salary of his position from the period May 28th to

Search for Canton Assassins Assumes Military Aspect.

CHECK UP CLUES

General Headquarters Established in Newspaper Building.

CANTON, July 23.—Precautions were taken today by investigators in the Don R. Mellett murder case to prevent the execution of anonymous threats that have been received by them during the past 24 hours.

Although they had little to say about the menacing notes, some of the cleuths admitted they thought that a few of the letters came from sources that were unfriendly to the slain publisher. Others, they said, were thought to have been sent by fanatics.

CANTON, O., July 23.—The hunt for the slayers of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, today assumed a military aspect with Ora Slater, famous Cincinnati detective as commander-in-chief of all investigations now under way into the killing.

"G. H. Q."—General headquarters—have been established in a suite of offices in the Daily News building. Here will be a clearing house for all clews uncovered by any of the searchers and from here Generalissimo Slater will direct the activities of every phase of the complicated hunt.

This important development is expected to bring rapid fire results on clues obtained by any of the several probing agencies.

Detective Slater will be in charge of the office and either he or one of his assistants will be there continuously to check all leads that are brought to their attention.

Similiarity Between Two Crimes.

One of the strongest theories that was being advanced by several private detectives is that the turmoil caused by Mellett's crusading efforts to enforce prohibition and narcotic laws inspired vengeful vendors of illicit wares to take his life a week ago today.

This theory is borne out, they say, by the fact that Mellett had been relentless in his campaign against certain of the operators in the Canton "jungle."

The sleuths pointed out the great similarity between the Mellett slaying and the unsolved murder of Paul E. Kitzig, whiskey runner who was murdered five years ago.

Kitzig was killed with a single shot in the head shortly after he had told in federal court about the ramifications of a huge liquor ring. Two or three names which have been used in connection with the killing of Mellett were also heard in reference to

WOMEN FORFEIT BONDS OF $15.80

Bonds of $15.80 each were declared forfeited today when Mrs. Ethel Lomax, Wellsville, and Miss Cecil Brown, Claybourne avenue, failed to appear before Municipal Judge Hanley in municipal court to answer to charges of disorderly conduct by fighting.

The women were arrested at Patterson field by Captain of Police Conley at 9:20 o'clock last evening after they are alleged to have participated in a hair pulling. Friends posted bond for their appearance in court.

GREENVILLE POLICEMAN SHOT WHEN HE ARRESTS CHICKEN COOP RAIDERS

Gunman Also Wounds Another Officer When Trapped as He Returns to Automobile in Which Were Two Bags Filled With Poultry, Believed Stolen in District.

PISTOL WIELDER ESCAPES BUT HANDCUFFED COMPANION IS JAILED

Two Shots Fired, One Penetrating Victim's Stomach, as Special Policeman Attempts to Shackle Prisoner After Latter Approaches Parked Car—Fugitive is Not Identified.

GREENVILLE, O., July 23.—Special Officer Simon Penny, 54, was shot and killed at 3 o'clock this morning and Officer Ora McClellan, 50, was slightly wounded in a fight with two chicken thieves in the south end of the city. The man who did the shooting made his escape but his companion, Harvey Seymour, 45, of Laura, a small village in Miami county, was arrested. Seymour told the officers that he does not know the name of the man who did the shooting and claims that he was on his way to Detroit and had accepted a ride from him.

Shortly after 2 o'clock this morning a call came into police headquarters that an automobile had driven into an alley in the south end and two men had left it parked there. The informant did not give his name but Officers Penny and McClellan were dispatched to the scene. They found the automobile, a Ford touring car, and in it were two bags filled with chickens.

Hiding in a thicket of weeds, the two officers waited for the men to return. In about 10 minutes the men were heard coming back and as they started to get into the car, Penny and McClellan covered them with their guns and ordered them to throw up their hands. They did so and McClellan put handcuffs on Seymour. As he went toward the other man to shackle him the fellow whipped out a gun and opened fire. The second shot took effect in Penny's body, the bullet passing through his stomach.

Fires at Assailant.

Mortally wounded, Penny fell to the ground, but continued shooting at his assailant. In the darkness the gunman escaped and McClellan went back to assist his brother officer. He was taken to the city building and a physician called but he died within few minutes after his arrival.

Penny was regularly employed as a janitor by the Greenville National bank but had acted as special officer at various times. He had recently been employed on the Greenville force in place of Clifford Husnagle, who is on his vacation. His wife died some time ago. Three grown children survive.

Seymour is believed by the officers to be covering up the name of his companion but it is thought his identity will be established. The Ford car which the men occupied had an extra set of license plates inside. No reports of chicken thefts had been received late this morning and it is not known where the men had secured those found in the car.

Police Warn Many Dogs are on Verge Of Madness Here

Many dogs are on the verge of madness as result of lack of drinking water, according to reports reaching police headquarters during the heat wave.

"If housewives will set a pan of water in their yards where it can be reached by dogs, many a mad dog scare will be prevented," said Chief of Police McDermott, today.

Ohioan Shot by Deputy Sheriff.

NEW LEXINGTON, O., July 23.—George Notestone, 25, of South Perty, O., was in Cherrington hospital today, shot through the hip by Deputy Sheriffs Joseph Farbean and G. Chaplan when he tried to escape. The officers said Notestone had been arrested for bootlegging.

Strange Suicide Pact Between Two Youngsters Hinted

ELLSWORTH, Me., July 23.—A strange suicide love pact between two youngsters in their early 'teens was revealed today when authorities joined in a search through the dense woods in this section for David Coughlin, 14, and Nellie Piper, also 14.

The love-sick youngsters, according to the authorities, vanished two days ago, taking a gun and chloroform, and leaving behind a note stating they would spend a blissful week together and then kill themselves.

FOUR DIE AS GANGLAND ACTS

Cafe Owner, Detective, Watchman and Bandit Are Killed.

CHICAGO, July 23.—A millionaire cafe owner, a detective, a watchman and a negro bandit were dead here today after another gangland upheaval.

Philip Piazba, owner of the Milano cafe, Chicago Heights, was assassinated by gunmen in the doorway of his establishment.

Theodore Anderson, detective, was slain by two negroes who tried to hold him up. Fifteen minutes later his slayer was shot and killed by police.

Harry Kind, watchman, was beaten to death with an iron bar when he tried to resist safe robbers.

Chester Man Who Told Murder Story Goes to Asylum

Orin Steel, colored, former resident of Chester, who was arrested at St. Albans, Vermont, a few weeks ago, where he was said to have told authorities that he had murdered a man in East Liverpool, has been committed to the Massillon state hospital for the insane.

Steel was brought back to Lisbon by Constable Clarence Wetzel, of Center township, on a warrant issued by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle. An examination by a lunacy commission followed.

Police made an investigation of the murder story and found it to be without foundation.

WELLSVILLE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION WILL HEAR HARRY F. HURD'S APPEAL ON MONDAY

Harry F. Hurd, former Wellsville patrolman, dismissed from the service on charges of gross neglect of duty and drunkenness, filed by Mayor W. L. Fogo, will go on trial Monday night at the city hall, Wellsville, before the present civil service commission, consisting of Dwight McLean, chairman, and Members Harry Hammond and A. C. Fogo.

Acting upon the advice of Solicitor S. C. Luccock, the present commission, which holds the power by law, as interpreted by the state civil service commission, to appoint a new trial board, if necessary, will itself hear the case.

The fact that the time limit to begin the hearing of the case, as prescribed by law, will elapse within the next few days, it was impracticable, Solicitor Luccock said, to institute proceedings for the organization of a new commission as suggested in a report of the state civil service commission.

The state commission's report points out that there is nothing in the statutes to prevent the case from being heard before the present triumvirate.

The civil service commission this morning notified Hurd of the date for the trial proceedings. Hurd will be represented by Attorneys Frank E. Grosshans and Ben L. Bennett, of East Liverpool, and W. A. O'Grady, of Wellsville.

State Board's Report.

The complete text of the state commission's report of the investigation relative to enforcement of the civil service laws follows:

"Hon. Wallace L. Fogo,
"Mayor of the City of Wellsville, O.
"Dear Sir:—

"Under the provisions of the civil service laws of Ohio a representative of the attorney general of Ohio and the state civil service commission conducted an investigation under date of July 16, 1926 at Wellsville, Ohio, of the situation relative to the enforcement of the civil service laws which had been officially referred to this office.

"It is desired to point out that throughout the investigation the mayor evidenced a genuine desire to comply, and willingness to cooperate with the ruling or recommendation of the state civil service commission.

"With reference to the case of Harry F. Hurd, formerly a patrolman, it was found that the mayor acted entirely within his rights in suspending Mr. Hurd as provided by Section 446-17 for a period of thirty days which period of suspension expired May 28, 1926. However, the mayor was in error in continuing this suspension to June 26, 1926, inasmuch as the above referred to statute explicitly provides —'Nothing in this act contained shall limit the power of an appointing officer to suspend without pay, for puposes of discipline, an employe or subordinate for a reasonable period not exceeding thirty days; provided, however, that successive suspensions shall not be allowed.' Accordingly this commission finds that Mr. Hurd is entitled to the salary of his position from the period May 28th to

Thomas Jefferson, Advertising Man

A lot of folks look upon advertising as something that helps sell a man a pair of socks or a woman a new hat—and nothing more.

A little reflection will show that all history abounds in examples of advertising that have changed the destinies of the world. Thomas Jefferson was an advertising man of the first rank. One piece of copy alone—and he wrote many others—gives him a place in the publicity Hall of Fame. The declarations of Independence was the first and greatest advertisement of the American nation. It advertised and sold the principle that all men are created free and equal. It challenged monarchic competition and drove the royal product from the market. It sold the world on a principle, and furnished inspiration for its backers to maintain that principle.

The advertising of this store is founded on the principle that the truth about good merchandise and good service will interest people in both.

BROOKE OFFICERS CONDUCT RAID

What the sheriff's office termed the biggest liquor raid in the history of Brooke county was staged late yesterday afternoon when federal and county officials swooped down on a farm between West Liberty and Bethany and surprised a fair sized distillery in action.

Seven men, 3,000 gallons of mash in 56 barrels, one ton of sugar, two stills and two Studebaker automobiles constituted the toll. When the officers arrived a 125-gallon still was in operation, and all 3,000 gallons of mash were working.

All seven men were lodged in the Brooke county jail pending preliminary arraignment. They are Charles Rayle, the only American in the gang; Ernie Eisordi, Joseph Bordoni, Pergzillio Lestni, Joseph Erilei, Rastsg Mariani and James Regni.

Officials were at a loss to identify the owner of the farm or the leader of the gang. When they arrived all seven men were busy at work with no apparent leader. Subsequently they all deny leadership, merely stating that they were hired.

The raid was conducted by Federal Officers Alonzo Prince and George Heide, Sheriff Robert Lowe and a number of deputies.

CRITICS LAUD "NELL GWYN"

British Feature Picture Wins Approval in New York.

"Nell Gwyn," said to be the first British feature picture presented in New York, is one which British National Pictures, Ltd., may well be glad to sponsor. It is entirely English in production and cast, with the exception of the lead, which is happily played by Dorothy Gish. The faults of most historical pictures, cluttered up as they usually are with scenery which producers seem to think the audience should see because it existed at the time in which the story is placed, is conspicuously absent, and "Nell Gwyn" is a smoothly developed and charming presentation of one of the most picturesque persons who ever intrigued the British court.

The brattish, lovable, whimsical and generous nature of Nell, mistress of the king and idol of all London, gives the picture its flavor. It is impossible to think harshly of her. She found her way out of an alley to the theatre, where her droll humor made the city laugh, by the only means at her command. She never forgot her friends, her charities were boundless, she loved her royal patron and, if history is to be credited, remained faithful to his memory after his death. It is this Nell which the picture shows, a delightful hoyden, even in Whitehall. Majesty never had any terrors for her; she retained her fascination by being herself.

With such a character it was possible to produce a picture full of whimsy and drollery. Nell meets the king at the door of the theatre in Drury lane, that quaint old street full of pushcarts and theatrical history, and presents him with an orange "to sweeten the company he keeps." Her vivacity attracts him, and when the audience is driven from the unroofed building by the rain he invites her to the inn opposite. Nell dines sumptuously, waving a chicken bone under the nose of her royal companion or poking him in the ribs with her elbow with a frank camaraderie which appeals to his weary senses.

And when his companions have not sufficient money to pay the bill, Nell does so with an amusing appreciation of her position, which is infinitely attractive to Charles. He promises that she shall have her chance to be an actress, and sends her silken substitutes for her torn stocking, and buckled shoes to take the place of her shabby footgear.

Whether Nell entered the theatre through Charles, or received her opportunity through earlier admirers, hardly matters. Once in the theatre her fortune was made, for her fame as a comedienne is fully as great as her fame as the King's favorite. She used the stage as the means to discountenance her rivals, and one of the most amusing scenes in the pictures is the way in which she subjects Lady Castlemaine, her chief antagonist, to the ridicule which no favorite can withstand. Nell has been forgotten at a reception in Whitehall, where she had been lately installed, embarrassed and unhappy, while her royal lover hastens to the side of Castlemaine, gorgeous in a huge hat which is the centre of attraction. Nell pouts and then laughs, and the next night at the play comes on dressed in a hat so huge it might be an umbrella, under which her antics reduce her rival to impotent anger.

But that is not all of Nell. When two of her old friends visit her at the palace she drags in the King to make him promise that he would give the palace he was building for her at Chelsea to the disabled soldiers of his kingdom. Tradition has it that that is the origin of Chelsea hospital. And on Charles' deathbed, when with a wry smile he apologizes to his brother for taking so long to die, it is Nell who hurries to him and comforts him.

"Don't let poor Nell starve," he tells his brother, and then asks her as the tears stream down her cheeks, to laugh one of her gay laughs for him, and to that laugh, joining in its infectious merriment, he dies.

That was the end of Nell's career. For although King James obeyed his brother's wish and provided for her, she did not long survive her lover. But the picture of Nell ends with her scornfully disdaining King James' outstretched hand, and blowing a kiss to the bust of Charles.

Whatever may be the shortcomings of English motion picture producers, if they can put together other pictures as simply and with as much dramatic effect as this story of Nell Gwyn they should have no difficulty obtaining a showing for them anywhere. The story moves quickly and surely, with nothing to strain one's credulity, and the acting of Miss Gish and Dandie Ayrton, who takes the part of Charles, is excellent. So is that of Juliette Compton as Lady Castlemaine. The immorality of the period is suggested without being offensive, and for the second time this summer a good picture has not been spoiled by prudery. The titles are unusually good and frequently amusing, that dear old gossip Pepys being resorted to for purposes of versimilitude.

Vacations in Canada are more popular this year than for some time and transportation companies report summer bookings on an extensive scale.

Dictator Albert

King Albert of Belgium, recently made responsible for saving the Belgian financial situation, is a dictator with a difference. He derives his authority from parliament itself and not from any group attacking the parliament's powers. He will work with the aid of parliament toward a specific end, to meet a national emergency.

There is another novel feature of this dictatorship, aside from the fact that it is established by the government. This is the fact of the dictator's kingship. Mostly European kings are finding themselves relegated to minor roles in government. Dictators may kindly consent to let the kings continue wearing some of the insignia of royalty, but they don't let the kings have much say about anything of any importance.

With King Albert, it was different. He has long been regarded as the true leader of his people in the best sense of kingship. It was confidence in his loyalty to the Belgians as well as in his outstanding ability that made the Belgian parliament place this great authority in him.

Other kings in other places could learn much from Albert of Belgium.

No Cancellation

Secretary Mellon's letter in defense of the government's position in regard to debt cancellation will go far to clarify the situation both in this country and abroad. He argues against cancellation on broad grounds.

The secretary points out that the European countries which have obligated themselves to make payments on these loans have been asked for much less interest than the United States is paying on the same money to its own citizens; that the voluminous Wilson correspondence which preceded the advance of money makes plain that these loans were not regarded as gifts or designed as such; that much of the money was paid over after the signing of the armistice and was borrowed to meet domestic rather than military needs.

There must, of course, always be those who for sentimental or other reasons will hold that cancellation would have been not only the graceful but also the proper policy, but the time for considering such action is passed now. Further agitation to this end can only serve to postpone some kind of settlement and in view of the political crisis in France, and conditions in half a dozen other countries, a settlement of the terms of repayment is really more important than the terms themselves.

June Bug Silk

The June bug in the role of silk worm is something new to think about. Two German scientists have been experimenting with the June bug and have succeeded in developing silk threads from chitin.

"Chitin," in case you didn't know, is the horny substance forming the harder part of the outer integument of insects, crustaceans, etc.

The silk threads made from the June bug chitin are said to have greater strength and resistance than the regular silk-worm product. Textiles made from those threads are expected to prove virtually indestructible.

Of course this discovery will revolutionize the textile industry. Most discoveries of any importance revolutionize something or other. It is sad to contemplate what the June bugs will think of this sort of progress, but human kind will find plenty of uses for the new cloth.

The Thompson Mission

It would not be easy to find a well-informed American who does not regret the purchase of the Philippines, and the responsibilities which their possession entails.

The $20,000,000 paid to Spain and the millions more invested in pacification, administration and education have paid no dividends, and although we have reason for honest pride in what has been accomplished, it is only too apparent that the great mass of Filipino population is by no means ready for anything approaching true self-government. The time when we can decently wash our hands of the whole troublesome and expensive business seems very far away.

Under the circumstances the tour of investigation undertaken by Col. Carmi Thompson at the instance of the president becomes more than ordinarily interesting. Col. Thompson is looking into the possibilities of making the islands a source of crude rubber supply which the United States needs so urgently, yet American capital will be slow to venture to the islands while our occupation is recognized as temporary and we continue periodically to assert intention to let them go.

Sadder, but probably a little wiser, is the vacationist who tries to get a whole summer's accumulation of tan in two weeks.

There really ought to be a sesquidollar to pay for admission to that Sesqui-centennial.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 23. — Thoughts while strolling: Five a. m. at Grand Central. Why do people take early morning trains? Manhattan's dawn comes early, flashing fire from windows of lofty minarets. Slumping figures on park benches, stirring to another day of self pity.

Youths with university blazers and wide biscuit-colored pants swinging off to tennis courts. Milk wagons rumbling home. Their day is over. Sign polishers whistling at their tasks. Whatever became of air-holes in derbies? The medley of rattling ash cans.

Early Victorias with their plug-hatted jehus. Shops begin to open. Strawberry short cake—short a few berries. A miniature Taj Mahal in white soap. Winking trays in the jewelry windows. An exchange shop — filled with flutes, saxophones and radios.

Breakfast sign: "Knobby waffles!" No odor so tantalizing as that of frying bacon. Bellboys promenading with dogs. The timid pigeons that flutter from Broadway eaves. The outrush of humanity from subway kiosks, with heads buried in newspapers.

The Rialto poise, sangfroid and other theatrical virtues. Skirts even shorter. The human race is about done for, I guess. Glad I'm near-sighted. That is, partly glad. Wonder if Abe Erlanger gets to his office this early every morning.

Why do Oriental rug sellers travel in pairs? Cafes with kitchens in the window. Cinnamon rolls—there's a dish. A Bide-a-wee Home dog ambulance. The Ninth Avenue employment agency where decrepit old men go to carry banners and pass advertising bills.

A butcher shop heralds "meat for the cat free." Like the good old days. Who remembers when the kerosene can had potato stoppers? And with 25 Arbuckle coffee signatures you got a collapsible silver toothpick? Women jabbering from upstairs windows when they should be dusting the parlor.

A man of evident education writes to a New York newspaper this advice after two years futile search for a job: "Get out of New York if you are more than 40—and jobless."

And this strikes me as a rather sweeping assertion from my home town paper: "Boiled onions are fine for toning up the stomach and sweeping out the colon. You can, however, get the same effect with spinach, which has been called the broom of the stomach."

There are three men who seem essential to every public dinner in New York — Mayor Walker, ex-Ambassador Moore and Otto Kahn.

The three best after-dinner speakers New York has had in my time, I believe, are Irvin Cobb, the late Rennold Wolf and Wilton Lackaye.

Rennold Wolf left a deep gap in Broadway life. He was an accomplished critic as well as play-wright and speaker. He was usually seen at first nights—generally with his gray-haired mother. Tortured by a physical affliction, he became almost a recluse during his last year. Broadway saw little of him, but he continued to work until the final few days. Next to Alan Dale, he had seen more plays bloom and wither away than any of his fellows. He was a brilliant wit, but his barbs were velvet-sheathed, and everybody was his friend. His collection of first editions was among the finest in town.

A band of gypsies came to the upper reaches of Riverside Drive recently and camped for several days. None of them had ever been in New York and not one would venture into its hubbub. Wise people, the gypsies.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

AVIATION TO THE FORE.

III—Commercial Air Development.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 23. — While the army and navy secured five year aviation programs from the recent session of congress, and thus found the air branches of the national defense stabilized and advanced to a place of new importance, the greatest forward step in aviation sanctioned by congress was the passage of the Air Commerce Act. This law is the first in our history which recognizes aviation as a business proposition and accords it government control and regulation.

Aerial transportation is recognized by this law as a business of national importance, a means of interstate and international commerce, and an asset in the industrial progress of the nation. The secretary of commerce is given specific authority to deal with many phases of commercial aviation, and the appointment of an assistant secretary of commerce who shall deal especially with aviation matters is authorized. President Coolidge and Secretary Hoover are in accord with the principles of the new law, and Mr. Hoover has already set about the preliminary work of administering its provisions.

A few of the things which the Department of Commerce is either permitted to do or commanded to do under the Air Commerce Act are to list, map, and encourage the development of airways, encourage the establishment of landing fields with equipment, examine and license pilots, examine and register aircraft as to their airworthiness, collect and publish data regarding possibilities of air commerce, concerning inventions, safety methods, weather conditions, airports, and other matters of value to the industry.

Other branches of the government are directed to cooperate with the secretary of commerce in the tasks assigned by the new law. The United States Weather Bureau, which is operated under the Department of Agriculture, is to furnish the weather and meteorological reports. The Lighthouse Bureau is not mentioned by name, but under the general authority given will be available to cooperate in the lighting of airways with signal beacons; the Post Office Department, operating the air mail, is authorized when and if it seems wise, to turn over the airways, emergency landing fields, and other facilities, excepting airports or terminals which it now operates, to the Department of Commerce.

The law not only recognizes these and other probable developments of domestic aviation, but provides that if international flying transportation is established, the Treasury Department shall designate ports of entry for foreign goods to be handled as in customs houses, and the Department of Labor shall designate aerial ports of entry for immigrants, so that we may have an Ellis Island for immigrants coming via the air. Control over visits by military or naval craft of other nations is vested in the Department of State, which may, with the approval of that department, be tendered the use of facilities handled by the Department of Commerce.

Congress Foresighted.

These phases of the new law indicate that congress was looking well toward the future in laying out what will be the basic national law on aviation. Details of government aid or regulation will have to be handled as they arise, but the fundamental step has been taken, and the basic authority has been placed in the hands of

THE SIMPLEST OF REMEDIES

In Owen county, Ky., there formerly resided a self-ordained oracle on all questions pertaining to subjects of farming, horse raising and hog guessing. To him one day, as he sat on a horse block facing the public square at Owenton, came a pestered young husbandman from the knobs along the Kentucky river with this question:

"Uncle Hamp, how am I going to get shet of sassafras sprouts? The pesky dern things have jest about took an old field of mine. I've tried choppin' 'em out and plowin' 'em under and burnin' 'em over, but they keep on gittin' thicker and thicker all the time. It seems I can't git rid of 'em noway. What would you advise?"

"My son," said the wise man, "I don't want to brag, but I reckin you ain't made no mistake in comin' to me—you've struck on to one man that's fitten to advise you in this here matter ef anybody on this earth is. Man and boy, I've been givin' the subject of sassafras sprouts my earnest attention fur goin' on sixty years. And it's my deliberate judgment that when sassafras sprouts starts to takin' a farm the only way you kin git rid of 'em is jest to pack up and move off and leave 'em!"

A few of the things which the Department of Commerce is either permitted to do or commanded to do under the Air Commerce Act are to list, map, and encourage the development of airways, encourage the establishment of landing fields with equipment, examine and license pilots, examine and register aircraft as to their airworthiness, collect and publish data regarding possibilities of air commerce, concerning inventions, safety methods, weather conditions, airports, and other matters of value to the industry.

Other branches of the government are directed to cooperate with the secretary of commerce in the tasks assigned by the new law. The United States Weather Bureau, which is operated under the Department of Agriculture, is to furnish the weather and meteorological reports. The Lighthouse Bureau is not mentioned by name, but under the general authority given will be available to cooperate in the lighting of airways with signal beacons; the Post Office Department, operating the air mail, is authorized when and if it seems wise, to turn over the airways, emergency landing fields, and other facilities, excepting airports or terminals which it now operates, to the Department of Commerce.

The law not only recognizes these and other probable developments of domestic aviation, but provides that if international flying transportation is established, the Treasury Department shall designate ports of entry for foreign goods to be handled as in customs houses, and the Department of Labor shall designate aerial ports of entry for immigrants, so that we may have an Ellis Island for immigrants coming via the air. Control over visits by military or naval craft of other nations is vested in the Department of State, which may, with the approval of that department, be tendered the use of facilities handled by the Department of Commerce.

Congress Foresighted.

These phases of the new law indicate that congress was looking well toward the future in laying out what will be the basic national law on aviation. Details of government aid or regulation will have to be handled as they arise, but the fundamental step has been taken, and the basic authority has been placed in the hands of

THE SIMPLEST OF REMEDIES

In Owen county, Ky., there formerly resided a self-ordained oracle on all questions pertaining to subjects of farming, horse raising and hog guessing. To him one day, as he sat on a horse block facing the public square at Owenton, came a pestered young husbandman from the knobs along the Kentucky river with this question:

"Uncle Hamp, how am I going to get shet of sassafras sprouts? The pesky dern things have jest about took an old field of mine. I've tried choppin' 'em out and plowin' 'em under and burnin' 'em over, but they keep on gittin' thicker and thicker all the time. It seems I can't git rid of 'em noway. Whut would you advise?"

"My son," said the wise man, "I don't want to brag, but I reckin you ain't made no mistake in comin' to me—you've struck on to one man that's fitten to advise you in this here matter ef anybody on this earth is. Man and boy, I've been givin' the subject of sassafras sprouts my earnest attention fur goin' on sixty years. And it's my deliberate judgment that when sassafras sprouts starts to takin' a farm the only way you kin git rid of 'em is jest to pack up and move off and leave 'em!"

STATE PAYS COMPENSATION

Widow of Slain Patrolman Receives $6,500.

Mrs. James M. Kenney, widow of former Patrolman Kenney, who was slain by a band of unidentified assassins last February in Commerce street, while on duty, today announced the receipt of a check for $6,500 compensation from the state industrial commission.

The money represents the maximum payment, inasmuch as the patrolman was murdered while on duty.

Mrs. Kenney is the mother of two children, one of which is less than six months old.

Kenney, who regularly was employed as a member of the fire department here, was called for police duty in February during the 30-day suspension period of a regular member of the force.

He had but two or three days to work when he was brutally murdered.

Request for the compensation was filed by Mayor W. L. Fogo a few days after Kenney's death.

PRISONER SENT TO COUNTY JAIL.

J. Donohue, proprietor of a restaurant in Main street, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, arrested by local police recently on a charge of assault and battery, was fined $100 and costs at a hearing before Mayor W. L. Fogo.

In default of payment, Donohue probably will be sent to the county jail today.

One hundred children from two Jefferson county institutions will be the guests of the Kiwanis club under the "big top" next Monday afternon at the John Robinson Shows, at Steubenville, the circuc company acting in partnership with the Steubenville service club in entertaining the children from the home at Yellow Creek. Sixty-five children will be brought in a special car through the courtesy of the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company. Five Kiwanis will bring 35 children from the Bethel in their own motorcars. They will be brought in early enough to view all the delights of the menagerie in the entrance and will be treated to the full circus show and copious quantities of ice cream.

WOMEN'S AID SETS RECORDS

Helpfulness and Service Motto of Pennsy Group.

New records in helpfulness and service were established last year by the Women's Aid of the Pennsylvania railroad. This is shown in the annual report just issued by Mrs. W. W. Atterbury, director, and Mrs. Elisha Lee, associate director of the organization. Mrs. Atterbury, as wife of the company's president, exercises general supervision over the activities of the Women's Aid, while Mrs. Lee, as wife of the vice president in charge of operations, is Mrs. Atterbury's principal associate in carrying on the administrative work.

During 1925 this group of women workers, consisting chiefly of wives, daughters, mothers and sisters of Pennsylvania railroad employes, visited 27,727 railroad families, giving assistance where required in the from of money, medical attention, food, clothing, fuel, etc., and carrying flowers, fruits and other delicacies to the sick or injured. This is an increase of 8,743 visits over the previous year.

In carrying on the aid work there was expended $109,360.35, all raised by dues and voluntary contributions from the members, the holding of bazaars, sales of candy and clothing subscription dances, etc. Expenditures for relief last year show an increase of more than $30,000 over those of 1924. Despite the heavy increase in relief expenditures, the accounts of the aid show a balance on hand at the close of last year amounting to $116,345.71, an increase of $13,951.92 over the balance of the previous year.

Membership in the aid was raised to 207,320, the highest figure at which it has ever stood, representing a gain during the year of 22,554 members, or 12 per cent.

In the Central region, Mrs. E. T. Whiter, associate director, and wife of the regional vice president and general manager, at Pittsburgh, reports a steady growth of the aid, the closing of 1925 finding it a full grown organization directed by competent women, embracing almost as many members as there are employes. The Women's Aid was not generally organized on the Central region until 1924, so that last year's work was very gratifying.

CAL BORROWS FROM SLEUTHS

President as Joker Makes "Touch" From Detectives.

WASHINGTON — President Coolidge, as has been oftimes recorded, carries little pocket money with him and on occasion has been forced to borrow trifling sums from secret service men accompanying him for the purchase of newspapers, magazines, etc. Those men who have financed these purchases, however, are beginning to suspect that the executive deliberately borrows nickels and dimes for the sake of practical jokes which he conceives in repaying the loans.

Recently, the president was "in" to Dick Jervis, debonaire chief of the White House secret service detail, to the extent of 25 cents, borrowed a nickel at a time. One morning Dick arrived at the White House shortly after 10 o'clock to be informed that from 8:30 on Mr. Coolidge had been inquiring for him at 15-minute intervals.

Such urgent and repeated summons worried Dick. Something of great moment must have happened, or some important matter was about to come up, he thought.

With fair amount of apprehension, Jervis entered the president's office. Mr. Coolidge looked up solemnly from his work, thrust his hand into his pocket and pulled out a quarter and handed it to Dick, then continued with his work not saying a word.

The incident worried Dick for some time until he remembered that he had bought the president papers and magazines on several of the nightly walks.

Another time, the president owed Arnold Landvoight, also a secret service operative, five cents. Calculating Landvoigt's mental reaction to a nicety, and probably laughing the while in his study, Mr. Coolidge dispatched an usher downstairs one night with a dime.

"Give it to Landvoigt," he instructed, "and tell him he may keep the change."

Landvoight's efforts to get the usher to return the extra nickel were unavailing.

LOT SALE SUITS ARE DISMISSED

An entry of "dismissal at the costs of the defendant and restraining order dissolved" has been written in the two cases pending in common pleas court against Cecil H. Taylor, both of which were filed early last April as an aftermath of the lot sale at "Arcadia."

In one action M. K. Duty, of Wellsville, filed an injunction petition against Taylor, while Flay Clapsaddle, a civil engineer, of East Liverpool, also sought a restraining order and money against Taylor. An agreement out of court was reached in these two actions, and the court being so advised dismissed the two cases against the defendant.

10 ARE KILLED AND 23 HURT IN BUS CRASH

Sight-seeing Vehicle Overturns at Sparkill, New York.

DRIVER IS HELD

Physicians Fear Several of Injured Will Die.

NYACK, N. Y., July 23.—Eight women and two girls were dead today and 23 others were suffering from injuries, some of them serious, as a result of the overturning of a sight-seeing bus last night at Sparkill, near here.

Every person in the bus, which carried 48 women and children from Brooklyn, was either killed or injured. The party was returning from Bear mountain, where the passengers had gone to escape the heat. The bus, speeding down a hill when the brakes refused to hold, would not make a sharp turn at the bottom of the hill and turned a somersault, crashing against the windows of a store.

Daniel Lastro, driver of the bus, who was only slightly injured, was arrested and held in jail for grand jury action.

The dead are: Mrs. Katherine Barth, Marguerite Rieper, 12, Mrs. Henry Schultz, Katherine Albert, 5, Mrs. Carrie Engelhardt, Mrs. May Reier, Mrs. Swenke, Emma Billings and two unidentified women. Physicians at the Nyack hospital, where the injured were taken, feared that several of the injured would die.

Fifteen passengers whose injuries were not serious were taken home to Brooklyn this morning.

Sparkill policemen found the women had children groaning and struggling under the wrecked bus, squirming to free themselves. While children screamed for their mothers, the members of the fire department were summoned to lift the bus. Aided by nearly the entire population of the village, the firemen extracted the victims. Eight had been killed almost instantly and it appeared that many of the injured could not live.

The injured were rushed to the hospital in various conveyances. The village iceman, carrying many of the victims in his ice wagon transported them to the hospital at full speed, lashing his horses furiously during the four-mile journey.

The actual transfer will be made before January 1, it was said, and in the meantime WEAF will contiue operation as heretofore. It was also announced that the transfer would mark the retirement of the A. T. and T. from broadcasting.

10 ARE KILLED AND 23 HURT IN BUS CRASH

Sight-seeing Vehicle Overturns at Sparkill, New York.

DRIVER IS HELD

Physicians Fear Several of Injured Will Die.

NYACK, N. Y., July 23.—Eight women and two girls were dead today and 23 others were suffering from injuries, some of them serious, as a result of the overturning of a sight-seeing bus last night at Sparkill, near here.

Every person in the bus, which carried 48 women and children from Brooklyn, was either killed or injured. The party was returning from Bear mountain, where the passengers had gone to escape the heat. The bus, speeding down a hill when the brakes refused to hold, would not make a sharp turn at the bottom of the hill and turned a somersault, crashing against the windows of a store.

Daniel Lastro, driver of the bus, who was only slightly injured, was arrested and held in jail for grand jury action.

The dead are: Mrs. Katherine Barth, Marguerite Rieper, 12, Mrs. Henry Schultz, Katherine Albert, 5, Mrs. Carrie Engleardt, Mrs. May Reier, Mrs. Swenke, Emma Billings and two unidentified women. Physicians at the Nyack hospital, where the injured were taken, feared that several of the injured would die.

Fifteen passengers whose injuries were not serious were taken home to Brooklyn this morning.

Sparkill policemen found the women had children groaning and struggling under the wrecked bus, squirming to free themselves. While children screamed for their mothers, the members of the fire department were summoned to lift the bus. Aided by nearly the entire population of the village, the firemen extracted the victims. Eight had been killed almost instantly and it appeared that many of the injured could not live.

The injured were rushed to the hospital in various conveyances. The village iceman, carrying many of the victims in his ice wagon transported them to the hospital at full speed, lashing his horses furiously during the four-mile journey.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Radio fans received with intense interest today the announcement that broadcasting station WEAF of the American Telephone and Telegraph company had been sold to the Radio Corporation of America which operates stations WJZ and WJY in this city.

The actual transfer will be made before January 1, it was said, and in the meantime WEAF will contiue operation as heretofore. It was also announced that the transfer would mark the retirement of the A. T. and T. from broadcasting.

NAB NATIONAL GUARDSMEN IN TOLEDO RAID

Federal Agents Use Axes to Chop Way Into Room.

17 UNDER ARREST

Raiders Seize 515 Bottles of Beer and Whisky.

TOLEDO, July 23.—In a sensational raid here early today in which federal prohibition agents used axes to chop their way into a room on North St. Clair street, several Ohio National Guard officers from Camp Perry, including a major, lieutenant and sergeants, were arrested on charges of violating the national prohibition law.

In all sixteen men and one woman were caught in the raid. The dry raiders seized 515 bottles of beer and a large quantity of whisky.

R. W. Wells, H. H. Ball, George Woods, George Martin and W. B. Grover.

Heat Kills Baby

bombardment of old King Sol that marked the summer's most determined offensive in years, ceased today—at least temporarily—as Jack Frost came to the rescue out of the far north with cooling breezes.

A survey of the scorched Ohio plains today showed that at least 40 persons fell victims to the barrage of heat darts. About half of the casualties were drowned. The others died of heat prostrations.

There were scores of minor heat prostrations in the state with the victims aided back to normalcy by the let-up in the hot weather.

The promised thundershowers visited a number of points in the state but failed to reach the Cleveland area. Toledo, Youngstown and other cities reported refreshing showers.

Additional reports of mad dog scares, water famines and exploding pavements continued to come in from all parts of the state.

Cleveland's heat death toll was raised to six with the deaths of George Russell, railroad conductor, and Chaplin E. Hoover, New York Central baggageman, who died of sunstroke.

At Columbus Herman Strandburg, 23, of Tyndall, Canada, was drowned in a Country club pool. C. M. Chaffee, 72, died of heart failure brought on by the heat. Mildred Myers, of Gettysburg, an O. S. U. co-ed, was prostrated on the campus.

At Cincinnati, Mrs. Katherine Diz, 77, and Miss Mary Keuchle, 16, died of the heat, and Howard Huddleston, 14, a Boy Scout, was drowned.

At Salineville, Robert Heltzel, 4, was overcome by the heat and died.

Maximum temperatures reported yesterday included Wooster, 97; East Liverpool, 96; Cincinnati, 94; Middletown, 97; Dayton, 92; Marion, 90; Columbus, 94; Lima, 90; Newark, 90; Canton, 92, and Akron, 91.

Boy Drowns Near Lima.

LIMA, July 23.—Unable to aid him, Mr. and Mrs. George Liles saw their son, Bryant, 15, drowned last night at Lost Creek reservoir, two miles east of this city.

Bryant, together with his parents and three sisters, went to the reservoir yesterday evening for a picnic. He went in bathing while his relatives remained on shore. His parents watched him swim for awhile and then walked around the short watching some persons fishing.

Hearing a cry for help they rushed back to see the boy go down. They called for help and a score of persons, together with police and firemen, assisted in searching for the boy but the body was not recovered until 30 minutes after the accident had ocurred.

Limited Divorce Granted Budlong, New York Oil Man

PROVIDENCE, R. I.,—July 23.—A limited divorce was granted to Milton J. Budlong, millionaire oil magnate of New York, from his wife, Jesse Margaret Budlong, today by Judge Edward W. Blodgett of Newport superior court.

Budlong sued for a legal separation on charges of cruelty, and the trial, which ended recently, provided Newport's fashionable summer colony with a series of court thrills climaxed by Mrs. Budlong's dismissal of her counsel and assuming the role of her own attorney, rigorously cross-examining her husband on the witness stand for several days.

Mrs. Budlong emphatically declared this afternoon that she will fight the case through the state supreme court.

Beef, cooked while en route 450 miles from Chicago to East Liverpool, was served 2,500 persons at the Chester Business Men's association outing at Rock Springs park Wednesday.

It marked the first time that Armour & company's new method of preparing beef for use at big outings had been taken advantage of by an East Liverpool district organization, although the fireless cooker arrangement has been utilized by the Chicago packing house for three years.

Through L. A. Thompson, manager of the East Liverpool branch of the Armour house, the committee in charge of the Chester outing placed an order for 500 pounds of beef for the picnic luncheon. The beef was placed in fireless cookers in a car in the Illinois metropolis Tuesday evening and when it arrived here Wednesday morning it was ready to serve.

The fireless cooker, packed in a box, which, with its contents, represented 750 pounds, was taken to the park by Manager Thompson who personally unpacked it.

"It was really delicious," remarked picnickers who partook of the beef.

Last year the Armour company's barbecued beef was served to several thousand persons at a Masonic outing at New Castle, Pa., while it has been part of the menu at other big affairs in other states in the last two years.

the Kitzig murder, the private detective declared.

Tribute Paid Underworld Czars.

CANTON, O., July 23.—Tribute has been paid to the czars of Canton's underworld within the last seven months.

And when the tribute stopped, police action started.

That was the sincere declaration of Pete Magras, self-admitted 'habitue of Canton's "jungle," to newspaper men early today following his release by police late yesterday.

Magras declared that he had paid $125 a week to James "Jumbo" Crowley for six consecutive weeks—starting about seven months ago—for the privilege of operating a gambling house near Cherry avenue S. E., and Eighth street.

"On the seventh week, my money was low and I could pay but $105," Magras declared, stating that he would gladly testify to all of his statements before any jury.

"That day my place was raided and I was fined $80."

"I went back and opened up and started operations that night and suddenly there was a rap on the door," he continued.

"Homer Moore, head of the police vice squad, stuck his head inside and said, "Pete, you cannot keep this place open any more, so I closed up and started bootlegging."

Hounded by Raiders, He Says.

He then told how he was hounded by police vice raiders, and was arrested three times in as many weeks for bootlegging. He said his wife was also arrested for transporting liquor, and is now working out her fine in the Marysville reformatory.

Pete declared that he was always friendly to Mellett and stoutly maintained that had he known of the murder plot he would have phoned Mellett from Akron, where he went about a month ago.

"Sometimes," Pete asserted, "Jumbo would ask me for an additional $50, saying it was for 'another person'—he would never tell me who this other person was."

Pete said that the reputed underworld king collected this extra $50 for 'the other person' on several occasions.

When Magras stated that police had not yet returned his coat and money, which was taken from him when he was jailed Wednesday afternoon, newspapermen took up a collection and gave it to the hungry Greek.

Magras Grilled.

Magras also declared that after police grilled him Wednesday night and early Thursday morning in the presence of Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective in charge of the investigation, they then called him back yesterday morning and tried to find out just how much information he had given to Mellett about the operations of the underworld.

After hearing Pete's story, newspapermen confirmed it with testimony offered in court at the time he sued "Jumbo" for protection money alleged to have been paid the underworld chieftain.

That suit was dismissed because of a technical legal error, and Magras declared he had not enough money to renew the case.

Mellon Avoids Debate.

LONDON, July 23.—Secretary Mellon is determined not be be trapped into a debate with Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer, over the Anglo-American debt question.

Before landing in France today the secretary of the treasury dodged an invitation wirelessed to the Majestic by the International News Service to comment on Churchill's latest utterance that Britain had suffered "adverse discrimination from the United States.'

The wireless also informed Mellon of the agitation afoot in England to utilize his visit to Europe as an occasion for a new discussion of the inter-allied debts question, and of the Daily Mail's campaign for cancellation.

PARIS, July 23.—Secretary Mellon arrived at Cherbourg on the White Star liner Majestic today. He started at once by automobile for Paris.

Mellon refused to discuss European economic affairs, asserting that he had come to the continent solely for the purpose of visiting his daughter, now in Italy.

"I have no wish to enter into a controversy with the British chancellor of the exchequer," Mellon said when asked to comment on Winston Churchill's recent speech on British and European economic affairs.

Hear Appeal Monday

June 26th, 1926, upon which date he was properly removed as provided for by Section 486-17-a and which order of removal was upon the request of Mr. Hurd and the civil service commission further amplified under date of July 8, 1926. With this one exception above noted, the mayor has complied in all respects with the civil service laws of Ohio in regard to the removal of Harry F. Hurd from the position of patrolman. He has duly appealed to the civil service commission and the date had been fixed for a hearing as of July 19, 1926, which was, upon the suggestion of those conducting the investigation, postponed by the mayor to a latter date pending receipt of this report.

Mayor Upheld in Excell Case.

"With reference to the charges that Charles Excell a patrolman, was dismissed by the mayor without the filing of any charges, the records of the mayor's office and the records of the civil service commission failed to show that Mr. Excell was ever permanently appointed to any position in the classified service of the city. He had been serving, however, as an emergency appointee which is provided for under Section 486-14-1 and which does not entitle him to the protection of the civil service law during good behavior and efficient service unless he has been appointed from certification in the manner provided for by Section 486-13. The mayor as appointing authority was, therefore, entirely within his rights in dismissing Mr. Excell without charges.

"With reference to the charge that patrolman Harry F. Hurd failed to receive a fair hearing before the local commission due to the fact that the chairman of such commission, Dwight McLean, had previously been arrested by Mr. Hurd for violation of the state laws, it was found that the particular violation referred to was a minor one, that of a traffic law violation consisting of a missing front truck license which after painting the truck was not replaced. This charge appeared to be so insignificant as to scarcely warrant being mentioned and no grounds could be found to substantiate the charge that for this reason Mr. Hurd would not receive a fair and impartial hearing.

"In the case of former Chief of Police John H. Fultz, who was dismissed by the mayor, and whose charges were sustained by the civil service commission, no investigation was made in view of the fact that he has appealed as the law permits from the decision of the municipal commission to the court of common pleas of Columbiana county to determine the sufficiency of cause of removal.

"With reference to the charge that M. K. Duty of Wellsville holds an appointment as a member of the local civil service commission having received same in the year 1925 and never having tendered his resignation therefrom, the records show the following facts: The records of the City Council show that D. E. Beatty was duly appointed a member of the civil service commission for a period of four years from September 7, 1920. The records of the mayor's office and of the civil service commission show that under date of July 2, 1924, A. P. Dennis was appointed to succeed D. E. Beatty, resigned. It will be noted that the unexpired term on July 2, 1924, consisted of merely the period from that date to September 7, 1924. The records of the civil service commission and the mayor's office further show that under date, January 19, 1925, Mr. M. K. Duty was appointed.

Reference To Duty's Appointment.

"In the language of appointment as shown by the records—'for the unexpired term of A. P. Dennis,' which could not be regular in view of the fact that such term had already expired under date of Sept. 7, 1924. Further the claim that Mr. Duty is a legal member of the commission rather than the appointee who succeeded him, could not be substantiated at this late date for the additional reason that Mr. Duty never complained that he was improperly displaced although he could not have failed to have been informed through the newspapers and in various other manner that the civil service commission was holding meetings. At no time did he present the claim that he was still a legal member of the commission.

"Frequent reference was made throughout the investigation, as in the previous charges filed with the state commission, of the fact that one of the members of the municipal commission is a full brother of the appointing authority, the mayor. There is nothing in the civil service law prohibiting the appointment to a civil service commission of one of blood relationship. However, in view of the spirit and intent of the civil service law, and at the same time in the absence of specific prohibition in the statute, this commission suggests that the merit system as provided for by Section 10 of Article XV of the state constitution can best be served and administered at least above possible suspicion and unnecessary criticism by appointment of persons on the municipal civil service commission who are not of blood relationship. At the same time the mayor is within his rights if he chooses to do so.

"Section 486-19 provides in part that —'at the time of any appointment not more than two commissioners shall be adherents of the same political party.' As will be readily seen this provision is mandatory and the charge has been made that all three members of the commission are in fact Republicans. Considerable stress was laid upon the charge that Harry Hammond, who is now a member of the civil service commission is a Republican. An affidavit has been filed in this office by Harry Hammond, which reads as follows:

"'State of Ohio, Columbiana county, ss.

"'Before me, John A. Hogenmiller, a notary public in and for said county, personally appeared Harry Hammond, who being known to me to be such person after being duly sworn deposes and says:

"'That he is the said Harry Hammond who is now a member of the civil service commission of the city of Wellsville, Ohio.

"'That he is 51 years of age.

"'That he has been a resident of Wellsville for 15 years.

"'That he has been a lifelong Democrat in politics.

"'That he is a known Democrat in the city of Wellsville.

"'That he is now a Democrat.

"'Further deponent saith not.

(Signed) "'HARRY HAMMOND.

"'Sworn to and subscribed in my presence this 19th day of June, 1926.

(Signed)

"'JOHN A. HOGENMILLER,

"'Notary Public.'

State Commission's Suggestion.

"However, during the investigation Mr. Hammond stated that at the last primary election held in the city of Wellsville, he asked for and received a Republican ballot. The charges stating that he was not a Democrat were based upon this fact. This commission finds that the mere fact that a Democrat voted the Republican ticket at the time of one primary or even more frequently does not necessarily mean that he is no longer a Democrat. There may have been, as was explained by Mr. Hammond, personal reasons why he chose to so vote in the primary election and would not in itself necessarily void his contention that he is a Democrat. Here again the spirit and intent of the civil service law come to the foreground. At best the epithet attached to one who claims to be a Democrat but occasionally votes the Republican ticket would be that of a hyphenated-Democrat. While the mayor need not remove him is he does not see fit in view of his affidavit stating that he is a Democrat, it might be suggested that the politics of the commission passing upon the decisions of appointing authorities should be unquestioned and above criticism.

"In view of the apparent questioned attitude of the present municipal civil service commission, although not specifically prohibited by statute from serving, it is desired to point out in view of the immediate pending hearing of an appeal of a discharged patrolman, it might be more desirable to appoint a trial board to hear such appeal as is permitted by section 486-17-a. One of the members of such trial board could, if desired by the mayor, be the present chairman of the civil service commission. At the same time if the mayor does not see fit to follow out this suggestion there is nothing in the statutes which would prohibit the present commission from performing its full functions as such, although with a trial board properly constituted and appointed by the commission all parties concerned would undoubtedly receive better satisfaction.

"Very truly yours,

"THE STATE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION."

A survey of the scorched Ohio plains today showed that at least 40 persons fell victims to the barrage of heat darts. About half of the casualties were drowned. The others died of heat prostrations.

There were scores of minor heat prostrations in the state with the victims aided back to normalcy by the let-up in the hot weather.

Beef, cooked while en route 450 miles from Chicago to East Liverpool, was served 2,500 persons at the Chester Business Men's association outing at Rock Springs park Wednesday.

It marked the first time that Armour & company's new method of preparing beef for use at big outings had been taken advantage of by an East Liverpool district organization, although the fireless cooker arrangement has been utilized by the Chicago packing house for three years.

Through L. A. Thompson, manager of the East Liverpool branch of the Armour house, the committee in charge of the Chester outing placed an order for 500 pounds of beef for the picnic luncheon. The beef was placed in fireless cookers in a car in the Illinois metropolis Tuesday evening and when it arrived here Wednesday morning it was ready to serve.

The fireless cooker, packed in a box, which, with its contents, represented 750 pounds, was taken to the park by Manager Thompson who personally unpacked it.

"It was really delicious," remarked picnickers who partook of the beef.

Last year the Armour company's barbecued beef was served to several thousand persons at a Masonic outing at New Castle, Pa., while it has been part of the menu at other big affairs in other states in the last two years.

Tribute Paid Underworld Czars.

CANTON, O., July 23.—Tribute has been paid to the czars of Canton's underworld within the last seven months.

And when the tribute stopped, police action started.

That was the sincere declaration of Pete Magras, self-admitted habitue of Canton's "jungle," to newspaper men early today following his release by police late yesterday.

Magras declared that he had paid $125 a week to James "Jumbo" Crowley for six consecutive weeks—starting about seven months ago—for the privilege of operating a gambling house near Cherry avenue S. E., and Eighth street.

"On the seventh week, my money was low and I could pay but $105," Magras declared, stating that he would gladly testify to all of his statements before any jury.

"That day my place was raided and I was fined $80."

"I went back and opened up and started operations that night and suddenly there was a rap on the door," he continued.

"Homer Moore, head of the police vice squad, stuck his head inside and said, "Pete, you cannot keep this place open any more, so I closed up and started bootlegging."

Hounded by Raiders, He Says.

He then told how he was hounded by police vice raiders, and was arrested three times in as many weeks for bootlegging. He said his wife was also arrested for transporting liquor, and is now working out her fine in the Marysville reformatory.

Pete declared that he was always friendly to Mellett and stoutly maintained that had he known of the murder plot he would have phoned Mellett from Akron, where he went about a month ago.

"Sometimes," Pete asserted, "Jumbo would ask me for an additional $50, saying it was for 'another person'—he would never tell me who this other person was."

Pete said that the reputed underworld king collected this extra $50 for 'the other person' on several occasions.

When Magras stated that police had not yet returned his coat and money, which was taken from him when he was jailed Wednesday afternoon, newspapermen took up a collection and gave it to the hungry Greek.

Magras Grilled.

Magras also declared that after police grilled him Wednesday night and early Thursday morning in the presence of Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective in charge of the investigation, they then called him back yesterday morning and tried to find out just how much information he had given to Mellett about the operations of the underworld.

After hearing Pete's story, newspapermen confirmed it with testimony offered in court at the time he sued "Jumbo" for protection money alleged to have been paid the underworld chieftain.

That suit was dismissed because of a technical legal error, and Magras declared he had not enough money to renew the case.

Mellon Avoids Debate.

LONDON, July 23.—Secretary Mellon is determined not be be trapped into a debate with Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer, over the Anglo-American debt question.

Before landing in France today the secretary of the treasury dodged an invitation wirelessed to the Majestic by the International News Service to comment on Churchill's latest utterance that Britain had suffered "adverse discrimination from the United States.'

The wireless also informed Mellon of the agitation afoot in England to utilize his visit to Europe as an occasion for a new discussion of the inter-allied debts question, and of the Daily Mail's campaign for cancellation.

With this one exception above noted, the mayor has complied in all respects with the civil service laws of Ohio in regard to the removal of Harry F. Hurd from the position of patrolman. He has duly appealed to the civil service commission and the date had been fixed for a hearing as of July 19, 1926, which was, upon the suggestion of those conducting the investigation, postponed by the mayor to a latter date pending receipt of this report.

Mayor Upheld in Excell Case.

"With reference to the charges that Charles Excell a patrolman, was dismissed by the mayor without the filing of any charges, the records of the mayor's office and the records of the civil service commission failed to show that Mr. Excell was ever permanently appointed to any position in the classified service of the city. He had been serving, however, as an emergency appointee which is provided for under Section 486-14-1 and which does not entitle him to the protection of the civil service law during good behavior and efficient service unless he has been appointed from certification in the manner provided for by Section 486-13. The mayor as appointing authority was, therefore, entirely within his rights in dismissing Mr. Excell without charges.

"With reference to the charge that patrolman Harry F. Hurd failed to receive a fair hearing before the local commission due to the fact that the chairman of such commission, Dwight McLean, had previously been arrested by Mr. Hurd for violation of the state laws, it was found that the particular violation referred to was a minor one, that of a traffic law violation consisting of a missing front truck license which after painting the truck was not replaced. This charge appeared to be so insignificant as to scarcely warrant being mentioned and no grounds could be found to substantiate the charge that for this reason Mr. Hurd would not receive a fair and impartial hearing.

"In the case of former Chief of Police John H. Fultz, who was dismissed by the mayor, and whose charges were sustained by the civil service commission, no investigation was made in view of the fact that he has appealed as the law permits from the decision of the municipal commission to the court of common pleas of Columbiana county to determine the sufficiency of cause of removal.

"With reference to the charge that M. K. Duty of Wellsville holds an appointment as a member of the local civil service commission having received same in the year 1925 and never having tendered his resignation therefrom, the records show the following facts: The records of the City Council show that D. E. Beatty was duly appointed a member of the civil service commission for a period of four years from September 7, 1920. The records of the mayor's office and of the civil service commission show that under date of July 2, 1924, A. P. Dennis was appointed to succeed D. E. Beatty, resigned. It will be noted that the unexpired term on July 2, 1924, consisted of merely the period from that date to September 7, 1924. The records of the civil service commission and the mayor's office further show that under date, January 19, 1925, Mr. M. K. Duty was appointed.

Reference To Duty's Appointment.

"In the language of appointment as shown by the records—'for the unexpired term of A. P. Dennis,' which could not be regular in view of the fact that such term had already expired under date of Sept. 7, 1924. Further the claim that Mr. Duty is a legal member of the commission rather than the appointee who succeeded him, could not be substantiated at this late date for the additional reason that Mr. Duty never complained that he was improperly displaced although he could not have failed to have been informed through the newspapers and in various other manner that the civil service commission was holding meetings. At no time did he present the claim that he was still a legal member of the commission.

"Frequent reference was made throughout the investigation, as in the previous charges filed with the state commission, of the fact that one of the members of the municipal commission is a full brother of the appointing authority, the mayor. There is nothing in the civil service law prohibiting the appointment to a civil service commission of one of blood relationship. However, in view of the spirit and intent of the civil service law, and at the same time in the absence of specific prohibition in the statute, this commission suggests that the merit system as provided for by Section 10 of Article XV of the state constitution can best be served and administered at least above possible suspicion and unnecessary criticism by appointment of persons on the municipal civil service commission who are not of blood relationship. At the same time the mayor is within his rights if he chooses to do so.

"Section 486-19 provides in part that —'at the time of any appointment not more than two commissioners shall be adherents of the same political party.' As will be readily seen this provision is mandatory and the charge has been made that all three members of the commission are in fact Republicans. Considerable stress was laid upon the charge that Harry Hammond, who is now a member of the civil service commission is a Republican. An affidavit has been filed in this office by Harry Hammond, which reads as follows:

"'State of Ohio, Columbiana county, ss.

"'Before me, John A. Hogenmiller, a notary public in and for said county, personally appeared Harry Hammond, who being known to me to be such person after being duly sworn deposes and says:

"'That he is the said Harry Hammond who is now a member of the civil service commission of the city of Wellsville, Ohio.

"'That he is 51 years of age.

"'That he has been a resident of Wellsville for 15 years.

"'That he has been a lifelong Democrat in politics.

"'That he is a known Democrat in the city of Wellsville.

"'That he is now a Democrat.

"'Further deponent saith not.

(Signed) "'HARRY HAMMOND.

"'Sworn to and subscribed in my presence this 19th day of June, 1926.

(Signed)

"'JOHN A. HOGENMILLER,

"'Notary Public.'

State Commission's Suggestion.

"However, during the investigation Mr. Hammond stated that at the last primary election held in the city of Wellsville, he asked for and received a Republican ballot. The charges stating that he was not a Democrat were based upon this fact. This commission finds that the mere fact that a Democrat voted the Republican ticket at the time of one primary or even more frequently does not necessarily mean that he is no longer a Democrat. There may have been, as was explained by Mr. Hammond, personal reasons why he chose to so vote in the primary election and would not in itself necessarily void his contention that he is a Democrat. Here again the spirit and intent of the civil service law come to the foreground. At best the epithet attached to one who claims to be a Democrat but occasionally votes the Republican ticket would be that of a hyphenated-Democrat. While the mayor need not remove him is he does not see fit in view of his affidavit stating that he is a Democrat, it might be suggested that the politics of the commission passing upon the decisions of appointing authorities should be unquestioned and above criticism.

"In view of the apparent questioned attitude of the present municipal civil service commission, although not specifically prohibited by statute from serving, it is desired to point out in view of the immediate pending hearing of an appeal of a discharged patrolman, it might be more desirable to appoint a trial board to hear such appeal as is permitted by section 486-17-a. One of the members of such trial board could, if desired by the mayor, be the present chairman of the civil service commission. At the same time if the mayor does not see fit to follow out this suggestion there is nothing in the statutes which would prohibit the present commission from performing its full functions as such, although with a trial board properly constituted and appointed by the commission all parties concerned would undoubtedly receive better satisfaction.

"Very truly yours,

SWIMMER BREAKS NECK IN DIVE

AKRON, O., July 23.—Norman Robert Brady, 20, cost accountant at the Goodyear rubber plant, broke his neck in a dive at Sayerwood and died early today. According to witnesses, the dive was perfect, Brady's body cutting the water with scarcely a ripple. When he appeared at the surface he was limp. He was dragged to shore and it was seen then his neck was broken. A deep cut on his skull indicated that he hit the bottom.

"VOLCANO!" BIG FILM SUCCESS

In "Volcano," a Paramount picture which opened at the Ceramic theatre last night, William K. Howard, its director, comes through with another winner. You will remember him as the same man who produced "The Thundering Herd," acclaimed as one of last year's best films.

"Volcano," which features Bebe Daniels, Ricardo Cortez and Wallace Beery, in addition to having a fine supporting cast, is good melodrama and will more than satisfy movie fans. The screen play was written by Bernard McConville from Laurence Eyre's stage success, "Martinique."

Bebe is splendid as the little French girl, who leaves her convent in Brussels to return to Martinique, a West Indian island, where her father is dying. On arriving, she discovers him dead, and not knowing where to turn, Bebe goes to the home of a woman who bears her name. Madame informs Bebe that she is not her daughter, and the only place to go is —to the Quarter.

Overhearing this conversation, Ricardo Cortez, who is engaged to Madame's daughter, becomes interested in Bebe, and asks if he may call on her. Things start happening to Bebe. Not knowing what the Quarter really is, she is naturally repulsed on finding the squalor and filth that exist.

Wallace Beery, a quadroon, the cunning lord of the Quarter, endeavors to win her love, but she thinks only of Cortez, and he of her. In need of money, Bebe has to auction her clothes off. Beery is about to purchase them when Cortez enters and outbids him. He swears that his is a love which knows no bounds. But Arthur Edmund Carew tells Bebe that she is about to ruin the life of a man both he and she love—his brother. Beebe agrees to give him up by pretending to welcome Beery's attentions.

The rest of the picture shows how all the loose strings of the plot are cleared up. It would be amiss not to make mention of the thrilling volcanic eruption scenes which take place in the last few reels. They are really exciting.

"Volcano" is a capably directed, well acted picture of a fine stage play. It will help pass the evening pleasantly.

Denmark, leading butter-exporting country of the world, shipped more than 270,000,000 pounds of the bread decorator within the past year.

Soviet Russia purchased more than $87,000,000 worth of goods in this country in the last fiscal year, more than half the sum being for cotton.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to express our sincere thanks to our many friends and relatives for their kindness shown in the recent bereavement of our dear mother and grandmother. Also, those who sent such beautiful floral offerings. Especially do we wish to thank Rev. Fowler and the singer and organist.

Wellsville Defeats Chester, 5-1; Turk-Nash Downs Motors

Meyer Holds Champs To Five Safe Blows; Play Errorless Ball

Successive Miscues in Third, Coupled With Hancock's Hit Allow Three Wellsville Runs to Cross Plate, Clinching Contest.

SNAPPY fielding and no less than nine effective bingles enabled the Wellsville City Industrial league club to defeat Chester on Smith field, 5 to 1, last evening. The victory put the two clubs in a tie for first place, each having won three and lost one game.

Meyer, handled by the capable Hinkle, held the West Virginians to five hits, all singles. Stoffel, pitching his first game for Chester, did well, but was found for nine hits, one being a three-bagger by Hinkle and two doubles by Manning and Rager. Stoffel fanned seven and Meyer three. The latter walked two and Stoffel none.

Hancock and Manning led Wellsville batters with a .667 mark.

Morris accepted seven and Hancock five chances at second and short, respectively. P. Cebula and W. McMath, at the same positions for Chester, had an off day, each booting a couple of tries.

Wellsville counted in the first frame. James fanned. Rager went out to Evan. Manning singled over short. He scored on Hinkle's three-base drive to left.

Chester knotted the score in the same inning. Evans singled over second. Greene sacrificed him to second. Hinkle to Dustman. P. Cebula singled to center, scoring Evans. Wyant hit into a double play, James to Morris to Dustman.

Wellsville scored one in the second, singles by Dustman, Hancock and James producing the tally.

Three runs crossed the plate in the third. Wilde muffed Morris' fly. P. Cebula booted Dustman's hit. Hancock made his second hit of the game and scored Morris. Shipley hit to McMath, who threw wildly to first, Dustman scoring.

P. Cebula made a miscue on Meyer's drive, Hancock scoring. James singled to left, Evans throwing Shipley out at the plate.

Chester went scoreless in the last five innings, getting but three hits off Meyer in that interim.

COLISEUM CLUB CONTRACT SNAG

Matter May be Taken to Courts for Decision.

By GENE HOFFMAN.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Despite optimistic pronouncements of an early Dempsey-Tunney championship fight, a summation of facts in the involved situation today indicated that Dempsey's defense of his title here September 11 or 18, as announced by Tex Rickard, is anything but certain.

To bolster this contention the involved contract controversy may be cited as the most impressive threat to the proposed fistic classic. There is Rickard, one one side, claiming sole ownership to Dempsey's services, with B. V. Clements, of the Coliseum club, and Floyd Fitzsimmons, Indiana promoter, on the other side, stoutly disputing the claim.

Clements Has Claim.

It is generally conceded now that Clements' claim to a binding contract with the champion has more foundation than at first believed. It is likely that the matter will be taken to the courts for decision. Following a conference between attorneys for both parties, Rickard announced that if the Clements' contract was held valid, he would stop negotiations for the bout.

Fitzsimmons entered the controversy by reason of the fact that he was the original signer of Dempsey. Later he transferred his contract to the Coliseum club, under Clements' direction. Because Clements and his organization failed to pay $100,000 to the champion last March, as agreed, Rickard and Dempsey claim the contract is null and void.

Beside the contract squabble, there are other complications. Rickard announced the fight and is here ostensibly to promote it. Rickard is not a resident of Illinois and the new boxing law states specifically that no one not a resident of the state can dabble in fight promotion.

There is a strong feeling among sports observers here that Rickard made a tactical error when he, an outside promoter with no status before the state commission, came here and announced the date and other details of the fight without even consulting the commission.

Will Follow Law.

Citizens of Chicago and the state are eager for the fight, but they want it staged in strict conformity to the law and in a way that will not reflect on the state athletic commission. As matters stand, it is pointed out, the commission is placed in a ridiculous light. It will be difficult to yield to Rickard, granting him a technical loophole by allowing him to name a "dummy" promoter, without suffering a loss of prestige.

What fireworks will explode in the commission chambers before the thing is settled, remain to be seen.

It was learned today that Sheldon Clark, millionaire vice president and general manager of the Sinclair Refining company, will head a committee of seven prominent business men in backing Tex Rickard's venture. There is no denying that Clark's association with the project greatly enhances Chicago's chance to stage the bout.

Clark is a former commodore of the Chicago Yacht club and is held in high esteem. He is a national figure in financial and political circles.

The Pirates also had a field day, swamping the Dodgers, 14 to 2, and hammering out 21 hits. Waner led the attack.

Another peculiar thing about the two halves of the golf swing is that the back swing is largely a body action, with not much consciousness of arms and wrists, while the forward swing is just the reverse. It appears to be almost wholly arms, shoulders and wrists. Here again we observe that the down swing is the exact reverse of the back swing, and this rule holds true in this respect also. This necessity for throwing in the arms and wrists in the forward swing is what upsets many players. They swing back mostly with the body and then naturally try to swing forward in the same way, so the forward swing becomes a body lunge. In the forward swing the arms perform a trigger-like action. Just after the club starts downward, shoot the arms directly into it, swinging almost entirely with the arms and not at all with the body.

Bunch Three Clouts In Fifth To Shove Winning Runs Across

Motors, Leading, Forced to Give Ground as Fowler Combine Touches up Church for Timely Bingles; Rally by Former Club in Same Frame Fails.

ON a soggy field and between showers, Turk Nash defeated Victory Motors last evening at Klondyke, 6 to 4. Twice, at 2 and 2 and 4 to 4, the score was evened, only to have the Nash outfit bunch three swats and a walk in the fifth to make three more runs and nail down the contest with a two run lead.

Church and R. Pollock were pitted against each other on the mound. Each allowed eight hits. The latter fanned eight as against the former's five. But the ex-Midland twirler was the wilder, walking four, while the west end star passed but one.

Victory Motor was leading, 4 to 3, when Turk-Nash batted in the first half of the fifth. Church faltered as he walked J. Watson, leading off. A wild pitch sent him to second, from where he scored, tying the count, 4 to 4, as E. Bayley fanned after McConnell had singled. R. Pollock was walked, again filling the bases. Both runners scampered across the plate as Schneidmiller slashed the ball through second. Then Church went right in and struck out D. Morgan and Talbot in turn, thus retiring three men by the breeze route in the one inning.

Motors Threaten.

Victory Motors threatened in their half of the fifth as Fowler, batting for Davis, singled. He was caught off second, Schneidmiller to D. Morgan to E. Bayley. Pollock then fanned C. Coleman and Sainor.

Alcock punched one out to right in the sixth and went to second as J. Watson, sacrificing, was safe on R. Pollock's high throw to first. E. Bayley walked, filling the sacks. McConnell flew to Stroble, who assisted to C. Coleman, doubling J. Watson. Alf Bayley fanned.

After V. Bailey had lifted a high one to Alf Bayley Mundy singled to right in the final half of the sixth, but H. Strobel struck out and Robinson grounded to Talbot ,who made a fine stop of the hard drive.

Eddie Bayley, with two singles and a pass in four tries against Church and Sainor, with a single and a double in three attempts against Pollock, led the hitters.

Talbot, recently acquired by Turk-Nash following his release by Victory Motor, played first for the Nash combine. He batted at a .500 clip with a single, pass and a strikeout in three chances. He stole two bags.

Robinson caught fine ball for Victory Motors.

J. Strobel singled to right as he opened the first for Victory Motor. Davis sacrificed, R. Pollock to Talbott. C. Coleman walked. Sainor singled to middle, scoring J. Strobel and enabling C. Coleman to reach third from where he counted on a double steal, Sainor also landing second. V. Bailey and W. Mundy went out at first, D. Morgan and R. Pollock respectively assisting.

R. Pollock beat out an infield hit in the second. Schneidmiller flew to Davis, who muffed the ball, R. Pollock going to second. He was caught stealing, Robinson to V. Bailey. D. Morgan singled to deep left, Schneidmiller going to third. Both runners registered on Talbott's single to right Alcock flew to C. Coleman and J. Watson fanned.

E. Bayley, singling in the third, reached second as McConnell sacrificed, V. Bailey to C. Coleman. A. Bayley flew to Sainor, who threw wildly to stop E. Bayley at third and enabling him to finish. R. Pollock flew to Talbott.

After J. Strobel had skied to J. Watson and Davis had fanned in the third C. Coleman beat out an infield hit and reached second as R. Pollock threw high to first in an effort to stop him. He scored on Sainor's double to left and the latter finished on V. Bailey's single to right. W. Mundy fanned.

Meyer Holds Champs To Five Safe Blows; Play Errorless Ball

Successive Miscues in Third, Coupled With Hancock's Hit Allow Three Wellsville Runs to Cross Plate, Clinching Contest.

SNAPPY fielding and no less than nine effective bingles enabled the Wellsville City Industrial league club to defeat Chester on Smith field, 5 to 1, last evening. The victory put the two clubs in a tie for first place, each having won three and lost one game.

Meyer, handled by the capable Hinkle, held the West Virginians to five hits, all singles. Stoffel, pitching his first game for Chester, did well, but was found for nine hits, one being a three-bagger by Hinkle and two doubles by Manning and Rager. Stoffel fanned seven and Meyer three. The latter walked two and Stoffel none.

Hancock and Manning led Wellsville batters with a .667 mark.

Morris accepted seven and Hancock five chances at second and short, respectively. P. Cebula and W. McMath, at the same positions for Chester, had an off day, each booting a couple of tries.

Wellsville counted in the first frame. James fanned. Rager went out to Evan. Manning singled over short. He scored on Hinkle's three-base drive to left.

Chester knotted the score in the same inning. Evans singled over second. Greene sacrificed him to second. Hinkle to Dustman. P. Cebula singled to center, scoring Evans. Wyant hit into a double play, James to Morris to Dustman.

Wellsville scored one in the second, singles by Dustman, Hancock and James producing the tally.

Three runs crossed the plate in the third. Wilde muffed Morris' fly. P. Cebula booted Dustman's hit. Hancock made his second hit of the game and scored Morris. Shipley hit to McMath, who threw wildly to first, Dustman scoring.

P. Cebula made a miscue on Meyer's drive, Hancock scoring. James singled to left, Evans throwing Shipley out at the plate.

Chester went scoreless in the last five innings, getting but three hits off Meyer in that interim.

By CHESTER HORTON,

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Another peculiar thing about the two halves of the golf swing is that the back swing is largely a body action, with not much consciousness of arms and wrists, while the forward swing is just the reverse. It appears to be almost wholly arms, shoulders and wrists. Here again we observe that the down swing is the exact reverse of the back swing, and this rule holds true in this respect also. This necessity for throwing in the arms and wrists in the forward swing is what upsets many players. They swing back mostly with the body and then naturally try to swing forward in the same way, so the forward swing becomes a body lunge. In the forward swing the arms perform a trigger-like action. Just after the club starts downward, shoot the arms directly into it, swinging almost entirely with the arms and not at all with the body.

Bunch Three Clouts In Fifth To Shove Winning Runs Across

Motors, Leading, Forced to Give Ground as Fowler Combine Touches up Church for Timely Bingles; Rally by Former Club in Same Frame Fails.

ON a soggy field and between showers, Turk Nash defeated Victory Motors last evening at Klondyke, 6 to 4. Twice, at 2 and 2 and 4 to 4, the score was evened, only to have the Nash outfit bunch three swats and a walk in the fifth to make three more runs and nail down the contest with a two run lead.

Church and R. Pollock were pitted against each other on the mound. Each allowed eight hits. The latter fanned eight as against the former's five. But the ex-Midland twirler was the wilder, walking four, while the west end star passed but one.

Victory Motor was leading, 4 to 3, when Turk-Nash batted in the first half of the fifth. Church faltered as he walked J. Watson, leading off. A wild pitch sent him to second, from where he scored, tying the count, 4 to 4, as E. Bayley fanned after McConnell had singled. R. Pollock was walked, again filling the bases. Both runners scampered across the plate as Schneidmiller slashed the ball through second. Then Church went right in and struck out D. Morgan and Talbot in turn, thus retiring three men by the breeze route in the one inning.

Motors Threaten.

Victory Motors threatened in their half of the fifth as Fowler, batting for Davis, singled. He was caught off second, Schneidmiller to D. Morgan to E. Bayley. Pollock then fanned C. Coleman and Sainor.

Alcock punched one out to right in the sixth and went to second as J. Watson, sacrificing, was safe on R. Pollock's high throw to first. E. Bayley walked, filling the sacks. McConnell flew to Stroble, who assisted to C. Coleman, doubling J. Watson. Alf Bayley fanned.

After V. Bailey had lifted a high one to Alf Bayley Mundy singled to right in the final half of the sixth, but H. Strobel struck out and Robinson grounded to Talbot ,who made a fine stop of the hard drive.

Eddie Bayley, with two singles and a pass in four tries against Church and Sainor, with a single and a double in three attempts against Pollock, led the hitters.

Talbot, recently acquired by Turk-Nash following his release by Victory Motor, played first for the Nash combine. He batted at a .500 clip with a single, pass and a strikeout in three chances. He stole two bags.

Robinson caught fine ball for Victory Motors.

J. Strobel singled to right as he opened the first for Victory Motor. Davis sacrificed, R. Pollock to Talbott. C. Coleman walked. Sainor singled to middle, scoring J. Strobel and enabling C. Coleman to reach third from where he counted on a double steal, Sainor also landing second. V. Bailey and W. Mundy went out at first, D. Morgan and R. Pollock respectively assisting.

R. Pollock beat out an infield hit in the second. Schneidmiller flew to Davis, who muffed the ball, R. Pollock going to second. He was caught stealing, Robinson to V. Bailey. D. Morgan singled to deep left, Schneidmiller going to third. Both runners registered on Talbott's single to right Alcock flew to C. Coleman and J. Watson fanned.

E. Bayley, singling in the third, reached second as McConnell sacrificed, V. Bailey to C. Coleman. A. Bayley flew to Sainor, who threw wildly to stop E. Bayley at third and enabling him to finish. R. Pollock flew to Talbott.

After J. Strobel had skied to J. Watson and Davis had fanned in the third C. Coleman beat out an infield hit and reached second as R. Pollock threw high to first in an effort to stop him. He scored on Sainor's double to left and the latter finished on V. Bailey's single to right. W. Mundy fanned.

TWO POTTERIES INSURE MEN

Total Coverage of $230,000 for 212 Employes Here.

Two East Liverpool potteries have adopted life insurance protection for their workers under the group plan. They are the D. E. McNicol and the C. C. Thompson companies.

Both the policies, which were placed through the Prudential Insurance company of America, are of the contributory type, with the workers themselves paying a part of the premium and the employing company assuming the remainder of the cost.

The policy covering the McNicol company provides for insurance protection of $1,000 to $2,500 for each of the workers, the amount being determined by the position held. It involves a total coverage of $77,500 for 73 employes.

The Thompson policy is of the same type and provides for the same amounts for 139 employes, or a total coverage of $152,500.

the Secretary of Commerce. This was probably the obvious place for it, and the active interest of Mr. Hoover in aviation development made the selection of his department the more natural. He has been studying the relationship of the government to the business of flying for several years, and was an important witness before the President's Aircraft Board last autumn when the commercial phases of aviation were considered.

The new Air Commerce act follows many of the recommendations of that board, which in turn took much of its advice from Mr. Hoover and from Orville Wright, one of the inventors of the airplane. Mr. Wright, modestly disclaiming any vast wisdom about the future and refusing to urge any enormous or extravagant schemes on the government, confined himself to recommending a development of airports and emergency landing fields along well-marked airways as the best present government help to commercial flying.

Progressive cities have been the leading factor to date in establishing airports and landing fields, but naturally each city acts for itself, and a complete air route across a long distance must depend upon the establishment of fields by every city along the route, or by enough of them to afford reasonable conveniences and safety. It will rest largely with the Department of Commerce to co-ordinate the efforts of cities so that complete routes may be laid out. The law provides that no exclusive rights can be granted by the government in the use of ground facilities, but regulations may be prescribed and operators of airplanes complying with them will have the use of the facilities available.

Supervision of Aircraft.

The inspection, regulation, registration, and licensing of aircraft and of pilots is likely to follow somewhat the scheme now in force regarding water craft. Every steamship under American registry is now inspected and registered, and its pilots and engineers are examined and licensed. Thus the passenger by water always has the assurance of his government that he is traveling on a reasonably safe craft, in the hands of competent navigating and engineer officers. No Almost every city inspects the elevators which carry its people up and down in buildings, but the passenger who goes up and down to the sky in an airplane has no official assurance that the ship is airworthy or the pilot experienced.

The new act also will permit some form of licensing airplane mechanics, if that proves advisable. These men are almost as essential a factor in sending out safe planes as are the pilots who drive the ships. The pilots are as much entitled to this sort of protection as the passengers, since under conditions of regular commercial flying they can not have the time to inspect thoroughly every detail of the machines they fly before each trip. They ought to know when they take out a plane approved by the mechanics that the approval has been by trained, responsible men, thoroughly fitted for their work and held to a responsibility for approving each flight by each machine.

Mr. Hoover is proceeding with care in putting the provisions of the new law into effect. He will have the best technical advice, and the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, made up of scientists, manufacturers, and flyers, has already held one important conference on the plans under the new bill. The United States Bureau of Standards, which is a branch of the Department of Commerce, has on its force a number of scientists who have done much research in aviation development, and their services are all available in the administration of the Air Commerce Act. Under such favorable auspices, the start has been made to establish the aircraft and flying business under government control and with government aid, and the future of commercial aviation is brighter than at any stage of the development of flying.

$20,000 ASKED AS DAMAGES

Attorney Files Petition for Lad Injured in Auto Accident.

A petition seeking $20,000 damages has been filed in common pleas court by James Smith, eight years old, by Clarence A. Smith, his next friend, against William J. Offord, it being claimed that the plaintiff was injured while on his way to school at the Neville Institute, East End, East Liverpool, at 8:45 o'clock the morning of April 20, last, by being struck by an automobile driven by the defendant.

The petition, which was filed by Attorney G. Jay Clark, has incorporated in the text 14 1-2 pages of matter, all being the full text of the East Liverpool traffic ordinance.

It is related by the plaintiff that when he was about 25 feet east of Dry Run bridge on Pennsylvania avenue, he was struck by an Oldsmobile sport model automobile owned by Offord and that he was severely injured. The charge of negligence is made in the petition.

TWO POTTERIES INSURE MEN

Total Coverage of $230,000 for 212 Employes Here.

Two East Liverpool potteries have adopted life insurance protection for their workers under the group plan. They are the D. E. McNicol and the C. C. Thompson companies.

Both the policies, which were placed through the Prudential Insurance company of America, are of the contributory type, with the workers themselves paying a part of the premium and the employing company assuming the remainder of the cost.

The policy covering the McNicol company provides for insurance protection of $1,000 to $2,500 for each of the workers, the amount being determined by the position held. It involves a total coverage of $77,500 for 73 employes.

The Thompson policy is of the same type and provides for the same amounts for 139 employes, or a total coverage of $152,500.

the Secretary of Commerce. This was probably the obvious place for it, and the active interest of Mr. Hoover in aviation development made the selection of his department the more natural. He has been studying the relationship of the government to the business of flying for several years, and was an important witness before the President's Aircraft Board last autumn when the commercial phases of aviation were considered.

The new Air Commerce act follows many of the recommendations of that board, which in turn took much of its advice from Mr. Hoover and from Orville Wright, one of the inventors of the airplane. Mr. Wright, modestly disclaiming any vast wisdom about the future and refusing to urge any enormous or extravagant schemes on the government, confined himsef to recommending a development of airports and emergency landing fields along well-marked airways as the best present government help to commercial flying.

Progressive cities have been the leading factor to date in establishing airports and landing fields, but naturally each city acts for itself, and a complete air route across a long distance must depend upon the establishment of fields by every city along the route, or by enough of them to afford reasonable conveniences and safety. It will rest largely with the Department of Commerce to co-ordinate the efforts of cities so that complete routes may be laid out. The law provides that no exclusive rights can be granted by the government in the use of ground facilities, but regulations may be prescribed and operators of airplanes complying with them will have the use of the facilities available.

Supervision of Aircraft.

The inspection, regulation, registration, and licensing of aircraft and of pilots is likely to follow somewhat the scheme now in force regarding water craft. Every steamship under American registry is now inspected and registered, and its pilots and engineers are examined and licensed. Thus the passenger by water always has the assurance of his government that he is traveling on a reasonably safe craft, in the hands of competent navigating and engineer officers. No Almost every city inspects the elevators which carry its people up and down in buildings, but the passenger who goes up and down to the sky in an airplane has no official assurance that the ship is airworthy or the pilot experienced.

The new act also will permit some form of licensing airplane mechanics, if that proves advisable. These men are almost as essential a factor in sending out safe planes as are the pilots who drive the ships. The pilots are as much entitled to this sort of protection as the passengers, since under conditions of regular commercial flying they can not have the time to inspect thoroughly every detail of the machines they fly before each trip. They ought to know when they take out a plane approved by the mechanics that the approval has been by trained, responsible men, thoroughly fitted for their work and held to a responsibility for approving each flight by each machine.

Mr. Hoover is proceeding with care in putting the provisions of the new law into effect. He will have the best technical advice, and the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, made up of scientists, manufacturers, and flyers, has already held one important conference on the plans under the new bill. The United States Bureau of Standards, which is a branch of the Department of Commerce, has on its force a number of scientists who have done much research in aviation development, and their services are all available in the administration of the Air Commerce Act. Under such favorable auspices, the start has been made to establish the aircraft and flying business under government control and with government aid, and the future of commercial aviation is brighter than at any stage of the development of flying.

AUSTRALIA HIT BY FLOOD; ONE DEAD, 30 HURT

Tornado Cause of Havoc in Southwestern Victoria.

HOUSES RAZED

Bridge Collapses Few Minutes After Train Had Passed.

LONDON, July 23.—Enormous damage has been caused by entensive floods throughout western Australia, according to Sydney advices to the Central News today.

A tornado wrought havoc in southwestern Victoria, killing one person and injuring 30. Many houses and churches were destroyed, and the roofs of at least 100 dwellings were torn off by the high wind.

At Freemantle a bridge collapsed from the pressure of high water a few minutes after a train had passed across it.

TOKIO, July 23.—More than 400 houses were demolished by floods in Onai, Korea, in the province of Chusei, according to dispatches received here today. It is feared that there will be many casualties.

'Alabama "Fish" to Try English Channel Swim Next Year

MOBILE, Ala.—W. C. Jackson, the Flomaton fish, will try to swim the English channel next year.

The Alabamian eliminated the final obstacle in his way towards his ultimate goal when he accomplished the longest salt water swim in American history here.

Jackson survived the long grind from Mobile to Fort Morgan, a distance of 30 miles, in 18 hours and 27 minutes. He covered fully 40 miles on account of a fierce crosstide sweeping him eastward.

After he swam Mobile bay last summer, the Flomaton man has been in training for his chance to swim the English channel, conquered by but five men, only two of them Americans.

So popular has become electricity in Trieste, Italy, that in March more was used than in the entire year of 1921.

DENVER CLAIMS YOUNGEST THIEF

DENVER, Colo.—Denver claims the distinction of having the world's youngest "thief" and this "Baby bad man" is "in again."

"Johnny" is his name and that is all the police will reveal. He is 7 year old. His first exploit into the crime world was two months ago when he was picked up by police as he was attempting to drive away an automobile from one of the down town streets.

During the past week, Detectives Genty and Carter have traced him down as the perpetrator of at least four minor robberies.

His hobby is taking toys from stores, lead pencils, machine parts, tape measures and household odds and ends.

URGE WOMEN AS PLAY CENSORS

British Theatre-goers Suggest Actress or Playwright.

LONDON.—The suggestion that a prominent woman actress or playwright should sit with the Lord Chamberlain and advise him in his task of censoring plays is receiving considerable support here.

"I think the idea is an excellent one, and, personally I should love the job," said Clemence Dane, the distinguished woman playwright.

"I do not want just a woman censor by herself," she added. "That would be terrible, but the committee should consist of an equal number of men and women. Even one woman assisting the Lord Chamberlain would do a lot of good, and there would be less chance of really good plays being banned."

Of 341 plays submitted for presentation and approval to the Lord Chamberlain this year in England twenty have been refused licenses.

Price cuting in automobiles, which years, is being eliminated following the formation of motor trade organizations.

PREDICT RECORD CROP OF APPLES

The state's apple crop this year will be twice as great as last year's and the peach crop will be approximately 10 times as great judging by present indications, according to the July report on crop conditions, prepared by Barnard Gibbs, United States agricultural statistician in cooperation with John W. Smith, state commissioner of agriculture.

The report shows that pears and other fruits also will exceed last year's productions.

Mr. Gibbs' report follows, in part:

"The state's apple crop at present shows evidence of being twice as large as the last year's crop, while indications are that the peach crop will be approximately eight times as great as last year. Pear roduction will alsc be in excess of last year and all indications point to large productions of other fruits, according to information collected by the West Virginia crop and livestock reporting service.

"The apple outlook was lowered by the heavy drop through the month of June, but a condition for the crop of 63 per cent is shown against 32 per cent last July and a ten year average July 1st condition of 48 per cent. With this condition the state's total crop is estimated at 8,388,000 bushels against last year's production of 4,185,000 bushels and the five year average cron 1921 to 1925 inclusive of 5,110.000 bushels.

"The production from commercial orchards of the state is estimated at 1 258,000 barrels against last year's of 792,000 barrels and the five year average 1921 to 1925 inclusive of 792,000 barrels."

PREDICT RECORD CROP OF APPLES

The state's apple crop this year will be twice as great as last year's and the peach crop will be approximately 10 times as great judging by present indications, according to the July report on crop conditions, prepared by Barnard Gibbs, United States agricultural statistician in cooperation with John W. Smith, state commissioner of agriculture.

The report shows that pears and other fruits also will exceed last year's productions.

Mr. Gibbs' report follows, in part:

"The state's apple crop at present shows evidence of being twice as large as the last year's crop, while indications are that the peach crop will be approximately eight times as great as last year. Pear roduction will alsc be in excess of last year and all indications point to large productions of other fruits, according to information collected by the West Virginia crop and livestock reporting service.

"The apple outlook was lowered by the heavy drop through the month of June, but a condition for the crop of 63 per cent is shown against 32 per cent last July and a ten year average July 1st condition of 48 per cent. With this condition the state's total crop is estimated at 8,388,000 bushels against last year's production of 4,185,000 bushels and the five year average cron 1921 to 1925 inclusive of 5,110,000 bushels.

"The production from commercial orchards of the state is estimated at 1 258,000 barrels against last year's of 792,000 barrels and the five year average 1921 to 1925 inclusive of 792,000 barrels."

CONWAY TEARLE AT AMERICAN

Popular Star Appears in "Dancer of Paris."

Conway Tearle, one of the screen's most popular male stars, appears on the screen of the American theatre this week in Robert T. Kane's latest First National production, "The Dancer of Paris," from the pen of the internationally popular Michael Arlen. This is the first time that a Michael Arlen story has been screened.

Tearle's performance as Noel Anson, the American infatuated with The Dancer of Paris, is reported to be of the finest that he has thus far contributed to the screen. He plays with a facility and grace that, combined with the other attributes, results it is said in a most delightful character.

Sharing stellar honors with Tearle is Dorothy Mackaill who assumes the title role of the production. She, too, is reported to give performances of unusual distinction. Robert Cain completes the cast.

Alfred A. Santell directed "The Dancer of Paris." It is another feather in the cap of the young man who has already made a name for himself by his direction of Corinne Griffith in "Classified" and Kane's comedy hit, "Bluebeard's Seven Wives."

LIFE SAVER LEAVES CITY

C. W. Robbins, Red Cross Man, Visits Pine Ridge.

With visits to Pine Ridge camp Wednesday morning and Rock Springs park in the afternoon after which he met with classes of girls and women at the Y. M. C. A., Carl W. Robbins, American Red Cross life saving examiner, completed his work in East Liverpool.

Captain Robbins talked to the 48 girls who are encamped at the Y. M. C. A. recreation center at Camp Pine Ridge, and then, with the aid of Mrs. Emma Sutton, camp director, gave a demonstration in life saving work.

At Rock Springs park yesterday afternoon, a demonstration was given in which Robbins was the drowning victim and B. C. Cooper, of the local Y. M. C. A., played the role of rescuer. The demonstration included carries, approaches, breaks for drowning grips and resuscitation.

In the demonstration before the women's and girl's classes at the Y. M. C. A. pool later in the afternoon, Robbins was again assisted by Mrs. Sutton.

Mrs. Sutton will continue as life saving examiner here, while Frank Manton and W. Edward Kaiser will be the examiners for the men's and boy's classes.

LIFE SAVER LEAVES CITY

C. W. Robbins, Red Cross Man, Visits Pine Ridge.

With visits to Pine Ridge camp Wednesday morning and Rock Springs park in the afternoon after which he met with classes of girls and women at the Y. M. C. A., Carl W. Robbins, American Red Cross life saving examiner, completed his work in East Liverpool.

Captain Robbins talked to the 48 girls who are encamped at the Y. M. C. A. recreation center at Camp Pine Ridge, and then, with the aid of Mrs. Emma Sutton, camp director, gave a demonstration in life saving work.

At Rock Springs park yesterday afternoon, a demonstration was given in which Robbins was the drowning victim and B. C. Cooper, of the local Y. M. C. A., played the role of rescuer. The demonstration included carries, approaches, breaks for drowning grips and resuscitation.

In the demonstration before the women's and girl's classes at the Y. M. C. A. pool later in the afternoon, Robbins was again assisted by Mrs. Sutton.

Mrs. Sutton will continue as life saving examiner here, while Frank Manton and W. Edward Kaiser will be the examiners for the men's and boy's classes.

FIVE DIVORCE ACTIONS FILED

Three Months Record for One Day Broken Yesterday.

By filing five actions in divorce, a three months record for one day was broken today, it was declared by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine. "We've had two and three divorce actions filed in a day, but the record of five is something new," Mr. Ballantine declared.

The divorce petition of William Oakley against his wife, Claudia Oakley, residing on R. F. D. No. 2, Allendale, N. J., was filed by Metzgar & McCarty, of Salem, and charges the defendant with extreme cruelty. The couple were married at Saddle River, N. J., Nov. 20, 1907.

David McCoy, residing at Empire, has had a petition for divorce filed in common pleas court against him by his wife, Anna McCoy, through her counsel, Ben L. Bennett, of East Liverpool. They were married at New Cumberland, W. Va., May 6, 1910. Gross neglect of duty over a period of three years is the charge in the petition against the defendant.

Attorney Bennett, acting in behalf of Elizabeth Dever, has filed a petition for divorce in court against her husband, Joseph Dever, said to be residing on Eleventh avenue, New Brighton, Pa. They were married Sept. 25, 1920. The charge of gross neglect is made against Dever. The plaintiff seeks a decree of divorce and also custody of her minor child.

Irma Pritchard is said to be residing at the Tutwiler hotel at Montgomery, Ga., according to the petition in divorce filed against her by her husband, Frederick Z. Pritchard, filed by Attorneys Cochran and Crawford, of East Liverpool.

The couple were married at Montgomery, Ala., October 18, 1917. Pritchard declares in his petition that when they were living at Bellefontaine, O., his wife left him June 1, 1922.

Attorney Charles Boyd, of East Liverpool, is representing Genevieve Elsie Dugan in her divorce action against her husband, Raymond Dugan, a section hand on the Pennsylvania railroad at or near Garfield, O., according to the petition which has just been filed. Gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty is charged against Dugan, also the charge of habitual drunkenness for the last three years. In this case alimony is also sought in addition to a decree.

THREE MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED

A marriage license has been issued to Hilbert J. Freed, of Hamilton, N. J., a fireman, and Miss Florence Kleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kleman, of East Liverpool. The couple are to be married by the Rev. J. L. Mauer.

Philip Jeswald, of Leetonia, formerly of Youngstown, and Susie Mauro, also of Leetonia, but a native of Italy, have been granted a marriage license.

Harold E. Ketchum, a tube mill employe, residing at Wellsville, and Blanche Edith Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Incas L. Shaw, of East Liverpool, have been granted a marriage license. They were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon United Presbyterian church by Rev. J. C. Cameron.

Lodge Reunion Planned.

Announcement has been made that the 18th annual reunion of the Lodge family will be held at Kelly's park Saturday, August 7. Frank Mossman, of Leetonia, is president of the reunion association, while Bertha Waddell, of Leetonia, is secretary. An address will be delivered by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle.

Money Being Spent By Townships on Road Improvements

Of the Green road law money that came into this county, with that contributed by the various townships, a total of $32,500 is being spent on No. 1 secondary road work in this county this year.

Eight townships are spending Green law money at this time, but West township is putting more of its own money into road construction than any other of these townships. West is spending $9,000 of its own money on new road work, to which $1,000 Green law money has been added, giving the township a fund of $10,000 for secondary road construction.

Salem township takes second place by spending $8,000 of its own funds, to which is being added the $1,000 received from the state.

Knox township is spending $1,550 of its own money together with the $1,000 state aid, while Washington township has put $1,500 into its secondary road work, plus the $1,000 state aid.

Four other townships, Center, Franklin, Unity and Wayne are each putting $1,000 of their own funds into secondary road construction, and at the same time using the $1,000 appropriated these townships by the state under the provisions of the Green law.

The county commissioners have approved the assessments worked out by the township trustees for the roads now being improved with these funds, and other townships are arranging to proceed with their secondary road work, and within a short time such new road work will be started in Elk-run township, the trustees of that township proposing to improve "Fingerboard hill" road.

Last year every township in the county received its appropriation of $1.000 from the state under the Green law.

To Eliminate Crossing.

The Miller Coal company has notified the county commissioners it proposes to eliminate the dangerous coal track crossing leading from its stripping operation on the Leetonia-Lisbon road. Several weeks ago the commissioners notified the coal company that unless the crossing was removed, it would be done by the county and charged up against the property. The company has not operated its stripping territory for over a year.

$2,000 SOUGHT IN COURT ACTION

An action to recover $2,000 as a service fee against the estate of the late John Todd Kountz has been filed in common pleas court by Lones, Hill & Davidson in behalf of Eliza Thorne against John Kountz, residing on the Lincoln highway, in the vicinity of Stop 55.

The petition relates that the plaintiff took care of the decedant during his life time and a long period illness, extending from February 17, 1919, to December 29, 1924.

When the bill for service was presented to the defendant payment was denied, although a part of the will of the decedent, which has been incorporated as a part of the petition, reads: "I direct that my sister, Eliza Thorne, and Will Malone, each be well paid for their services in waiting on and caring for me." The bill for the service was presented March 8, last, when it was rejected. The court action then followed.

PHYSICIAN TALKS AT CLUB MEETING

County Health Commissioner Dr. T. T. Church, speaking at the noon meeting of the Lisbon Kiwanis club Thursday, urged the erection of a sanitary drinking fountain in the public square to take the place of the pump and old fashioned drinking cup.

"You can never tell the condition of the health, or of the mouths of people who use a public drinking cup," Dr. Church declared. "You cannot be too careful these days."

Dr. Church explained at length the activities of the county health department, of the good that was being done by the county nurse in looking after the health of the rural school children and those in communities under 5,000.

Sale Confirmed.

In the case of the Firestone bank of Lisbon, filed June 26, 1925, against Samantha Pieren and others, a sale has been confirmed, and a deed and distribution ordered.

JUDGE GRANTS TWO DIVORCES

A decree of divorce has been granted by Judge W. H. Spence in the case of Harry L. Wood against his wife, Hazel E. Wood, alimony and the custody of a minor child has been given to Mrs. Wood. The petition in this case was filed in common pleas court April 20, last.

On the grounds of gross neglect of duty, a decree of divorce has been given the plaintiff in the case of Walter R. McGeehen against his wife, Rhoda McGeehen. The plaintiff was represented by Attorney John E. Baukknecht, of East Palestine.

Leave to Answer.

Leave has been granted by the court to Marina McMullen to file an answer by July 31, next, in the case now pending in court against her filed by the Pollock-Forsch company. This is an action to recover a claim of $878.08, the petititon having been filed January 21, last.

PHYSICIAN TALKS AT CLUB MEETING

County Health Commissioner Dr. T. T. Church, speaking at the noon meeting of the Lisbon Kiwanis club Thursday, urged the erection of a sanitary drinking fountain in the public square to take the place of the pump and old fashioned drinking cup.

"You can never tell the condition of the health, or of the mouths of people who use a public drinking cup," Dr. Church declared. "You cannot be too careful these days."

Dr. Church explained at length the activities of the county health department, of the good that was being done by the county nurse in looking after the health of the rural school children and those in communities under 5,000.

Sale Confirmed.

In the case of the Firestone bank of Lisbon, filed June 26, 1925, against Samantha Pieren and others, a sale has been confirmed, and a deed and distribution ordered.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO.

Coming down the steps from the street were two figures, a man and a girl. Bee looked, and recognized Delia, gently pretty in a light frock with outer coat thrown back and a snug little round hat—obviously a new hat. Behind her, carelessly at his ease, as always, swinging a bamboo cane, strolled Arthur Rockwell. They made thair way to a table across the room. Arthur hung up his hat and cane, dropped into a chair, and began intently studying the menu. The choice of food was always a serious matter with him.

It was a moment later that Delia saw them. She smiled, and waved her hand. Then, after hesitating and glancing at the absorbed Arthur, she got up and crossed to their table. "It's an age since I've seen you,' she said, in an oddly effusive manner. "How have you been?"

"Oh, all right," replied Lou.

"And Bee, I haven't really thanked you for all you did—"

"Oh, that's nothing," smiled Bee.

"I mean getting me the job. It's really pretty good, you know. The work is interesting. Lots of life about the place. Energy and snap. They're starting things on a tremendous scale.

"Oh, Bee are you working here? How interesting!"

I'm quite a part of it already. And Mr. Kendall is awfully kind and nice." Mr. Kendall was Fred.

It wasn't the Delia of a week or so back. This was a guardedly smiling girl whose eyes studied their faces as she spoke. Those eyes fell now on Bee's apron.

"Well," said Bee dryly, "it helps out."

Arthur saw them now, and nodded off-hand. "Come, dear," he called to Delia, "you haven't told me what you want to eat."

It was nothing, that "dear;" you heard the word everywhere about the Village. But at the sound, Delia's lids fluttered downward and a touch of color crept into her cheeks. "Well —" she began; then: "How awfully nice to have seen you!"

"Look in at the room some evening," said Lou cheerfully.

"I will. Of course, I simply don't seem able to get any time to myself at all." She laughed a little. "We just must have a visit. You girls were so kind. Are you going to Provincetown this summer?"

"I haven't the remotest idea where I'm going," said Bee. "Are you?"

"Well, I'll be working, of course. But"—she squared her slim shoulders —"Arthur has a little shack down there, you know. I—I should be able to run down week-ends. It'll be nice. I've never seen Provincetown. . . . . Coming, dear!"

She moved back across the room.

"Curious," observed Lou, looking after her. "Self-conscious, isn't she?"

"Lou,"—Bee was thinking intently —"she doesn't know."

"No, obviously."

"And he'll let her go on—"

"Certainly. When he's ready for the next thing, he'll simply flit. You know Arthur. He'd never stand for scenes."

"We could hardly butt in."

"No. Hardly."

"Too bad," said Bee. Then: "I wish to high heaven I could see Provincetown on my itinerary some time in these next few months! Or Central America! Or any place!"

April came, and with it the breath of spring that brings to the city each year a gentle sense of quickening life. The dusty shrubbery in the little triangular park, and the one remaining tall tree at the nothern end, were budding pathetically. Over in Washington Square the hurdy-gurdies were grinding out their staccato melodies while swarms of Italian children played about. There were days of warmth and languor when the thoughts of those young painters and poets and playwrights and designers of scenery whose lives so vividly flavor and color life of the Village were bent eagerly on the coming June migration to Provincetown, that other huddled little Greenwich Villarge out at the seagrit tip of Cape Cod. Pretty summery things began to appear in the shop-windows uptown. One after another the theaters were closing. Each day the papers printed long lists of all the important and self-important persons who were sailing on the great liners that steamed so majestically down the harbor, out past the now somewhat ironic statue of Liberty, bound for those lands where the individual may yet taste a measure of freedom.

With the two girls in the little flat on Christopher street life went on with interesting change. Bee found no opening as an actress. Even in the field of "summer stock" nothing offered that promised a reasonable livelihood. So she kept on at the Peacock Feather, and made over her clothes of the summer before.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO.

Coming down the steps from the street were two figures, a man and a girl. Bee looked, and recognized Delia, gently pretty in a light frock with outer coat thrown back and a snug little round hat—obviously a new hat. Behind her, carelessly at his ease, as always, swinging a bamboo cane, strolled Arthur Rockwell. They made thair way to a table across the room. Arthur hung up his hat and cane, dropped into a chair, and began intently studying the menu. The choice of food was always a serious matter with him.

It was a moment later that Delia saw them. She smiled, and waved her hand. Then, after hesitating and glancing at the absorbed Arthur, she got up and crossed to their table. "It's an age since I've seen you,' she said, in an oddly effusive manner. "How have you been?"

"Oh, all right," replied Lou.

"And Bee, I haven't really thanked you for all you did—"

"Oh, that's nothing," smiled Bee.

"I mean getting me the job. It's really pretty good, you know. The work is interesting. Lots of life about the place. Energy and snap. They're starting things on a tremendous scale.

"Oh, Bee are you working here? How interesting!"

I'm quite a part of it already, And Mr. Kendall is awfully kind and nice." Mr. Kendall was Fred.

HEAT WAVE EXACTS LIFE OF INFANT

Today

The Wonderful French.
An Old Camel.
What Is Genius?
More War? Help!

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

FRENCH statesmen are having a hard time with the drowning franc. Herriot, head of the government which held office less than 48 hours, planned a levy on French capital, disguised. Capital would see through the disguise.

Small French people don't want to be taxed. The statesmen fear their numbers. Very rich Frenchmen don't want their capital confiscated and government fears their financial power.

Many deputies demand a financial dictator, but what could he do? You cannot lift yourself by your boot straps, financially or physically. But the French, however, will find a way out. They are industrious, thrifty, brave and determined, men and women both.

The French have vitality. Ninon de L'Enclos, at 72 young and beautiful, had very young men in love with her. Now Madame Despres, of Roubaix, aged 87, establishes a new swimming record. You can't beat the French, and you don't want to.

What we call genius today will be the commonplace of future ages. When life on this earth came out of water onto the land, and some of the reptiles began to fly, the birds that flew a few feet were probably considered geniuses by the others.

A white child of ten is a genius compared with some full grown savages. The men of a million, and ten million years hence will all be geniuses compared with our greatest minds, and far above them. We are barbarians, not yet standardized.

LLOYD GEORGE warns church societies that "the most horrible, devastating war will come unless young people on the world prevent it." Europe has greater armies than ever before, and horrible war is inevitable unless the rising generation "substitutes organized justice for organized violence."

If war comes, it will have to come. The old gambler said as he "raised the pot" that the way to discourage vice is to make it expensive. The way to discourage was is to let men learn what it costs. The thing for this country is to keep out of it, build flying machines and submarines enough to protect itself, and when war comes "neither a borrower nor a lender be" —nor a participant.

FLORENZ ZIEGFELD, who continues "glorifying the American girl," but insists that she be "modestly dressed," says "the plumper girl is coming in." He predicts disappearance of the prevailing type that looks half starved as a result of dieting.

That's good news for the tired businessman who sits in front. Still better news for the other man who wants the next generation to be worth while, and fears trouble when the halfstarved

HELTZEL BABY IS FOUND DEAD ON HIS BED IN SALINEVILLE

Ice Shortage is Relieved by Alliance Shipment.

COOLER WEATHER

Death Toll in State is Placed at 40.

With a death toll of at least 40, including one Columbiana county victim, the heat wave in Ohio was broken today.

Robert, four-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Heltzel is dead at his home in Salineville, today, a victim of the torrid spell that held the state in its grip for four days. The baby was found dead on a bed.

Showers Brief Relief.

Showers, which fell yesterday afternoon and night, brought relief from the intense heat which ran the mercury up to the 98-degree mark in East Liverpool and immediate vicinity.

Shower Party Called Off.

Peak in the hot weather yesterday, according to records at Dam No. 8, was reached at noon when the mercury registered 92 degrees. Breezes, which arrived with showers in the central and western part of the county early in the afternoon, caused a drop to the 89-degree mark at 3 o'clock, about nine degrees cooler than at the same hour Wednesday afternoon.

Ice shortage, which developed with the heat wave, was relieved this afternoon with a shipment from Alliance. The normal daily summer output of the Crockery City Ice and Products company's plan here jumped from 65 and 75 tons daily to 100 tons, but all the demands could not be filled.

"We managed to keep butcher shops, stores, hospitals, soda fountains and confectioners supplied, but were forced to cut down on the the amounts delivered to private consumers for a day or two," said A. E. Webber, manager of the company, today. "We will have plenty of ice to meet all demands after the rail shipment arrives this afternoon."

The heat wave developed just as Fire Chief Thomas Bryan was arranging for a children's shower party on Broadway, either Friday afternoon or Saturday morning. The party was called off last night, but will be staged on Monday afternoon should the heat again become oppressive.

Firemen Answer Two Calls; Flint Mill is Damaged

While firemen were extinguishing a blaze at the Golding & Son flint mill at the foot of West Fourth street at 1 o'clock this afternoon another call came in from the home of Mrs. Ernestine Parsons, East Third street.

Captain Ruhe, of the Northside station, who was" filling in" at the Central station in the absence of the Central department, answered the call from Third street.

The blaze at th eflint mill was in the roof above the engine room. The sprinklers were working when the firemen arrived and the blaze was easily subdued with chemicals. The loss amounted to about $100.

Minor damage was done by the fire at the Parsons home. Chemicals were used by the firemen.

Pottery Owners Discuss N. B. O. P. Wage Proposals

Tentative Date for Joint Conference Will be Suggested at Meeting of Manufacturers' Labor Committee.

Members of the labor committee of the United States Potters' association conferred at the office of the Homer Laughlin China company, Newell, today for the purpose of considering the proposals submitted by the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, for the new general ware agreements to become effective on October 1.

The committee, of which W. E. Wells, secretary-treasurer of the Laughlin company, is chairman, met at the headquarters of the potters' association, Fourth and Market street, this morning, but adjourned to the Laughlin company's main offices in Newell.

Brotherhood proposals, drafted at the annual convention held in Atlantic City, early in July, are in the hands of the manufacturers. Purpose of today's meeting was primarily to consider the demands. Counter proposals probably will be prepared by the manufacturers, to be considered at a joint conference with representatives of the union.

Tentative date and place for the conference probably will be suggested, subject to approval of Brotherhood officials. This parley probably will be held next month.

AUTO CRASH TIES UP TRAFFIC ON PENN AVENUE TROLLEY LINE

Judge J. C. Hanley's and Joseph Simballa's Cars Sideswipe — Mrs. Mildred Simballa Receives Minor Injury.

Traffic over the eastbound main line street car tracks between the Ravine street cross-over and Mulberry street was tied up for 45 minutes shortly after 10 o'clock last night, when automobiles driven by Municipal Judge Jesse C. Hanley, College street, and Joseph Simballa, Grant street, Newell, sidewiped near the "Red Steps" on Pennsylvania avenue.

Hanley, driving a coach, was traveling in the direction of East End, while Simballa, in a sedan, was headed west. Hanley claimed that both machines were traveling at a speed rate of about 20 or 25 miles per hour and that neither he nor Simballa allowed the other space enough to pass. Simballa said that Hanley was traveling too far toward the center of the road and that he did not have room to pass.

Mrs. Mildred Simballa, wife of the driver of the sedan, received a minor scalp laceration, but her husband and four other passengers in their car were unhurt. The left front tire and wheel and front and back fenders and running board on the Simballa machine were damaged. The Hanley car lost a hub cap and one fender was damaged.

The force of the impact forced one of the automobiles onto the eastbound railway track and cars were operated over one track until the obstruction was removed.

Patrolman Herman Roth made an investigation of the crash, but his report was not available at the police station this morning.

Judge Hanley's machine was driven away under its own power, but Simballa's car was towed to the Buckeye Motor Sales garage for repairs.

DON R. MELLETT SLAYERS' HUNT NOW IN CHARGE OF ORA SLATER

CHECK UP CLUES

General Headquarters Established in Newspaper Building.

CANTON, July 23.—Precautions were taken today by investigators in the Don R. Mellett murder case to prevent the execution of anonymous threats that have been received by them during the past 24 hours.

Although they had little to say about the menacing notes, some of the cleuths admitted they thought that a few of the letters came from sources that were unfriendly to the slain publisher. Others, they said, were thought to have been sent by fanatics.

CANTON, O., July 23.—The hunt for the slayers of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, today assumed a military aspect with Ora Slater, famous Cincinnati detective as commander-in-chief of all investigations now under way into the killing.

"G. H. Q."—General headquarters —have been established in a suite of offices in the Daily News building. Here will be a clearing house for all clews uncovered by any of the searchers and from here Generalissimo Slater will direct the activities of every phase of the complicated hunt.

This important development is expected to bring rapid fire results on clues obtained by any of the several probing agencies.

Detective Slater will be in charge of the office and either he or one of his assistants will be there continuously to check all leads that are brought to their attention.

Similiarity Between Two Crimes.

One of the strongest theories that was being advanced by several private detectives is that the turmoil caused by Mellett's crusading efforts to enforce prohibition and narcotic laws inspired vengeful vendors of illicit wares to take his life a week ago today.

This theory is borne out, they say, by the fact that Mellett had been relentless in his campaign against certain of the operators in the Canton "jungle."

The sleuths pointed out the great similarity between the Mellett slaying and the unsolved murder of Paul E. Kitzig, whiskey runner who was murdered five years ago.

Kitzig was killed with a single shot in the head shortly after he had told in federal court about the ramifications of a huge liquor ring. Two or three names which have been used in connection with the killing of Mellett were also heard in reference to

WOMEN FORFEIT BONDS OF $15.80

Bonds of $15.80 each were declared forfeited today when Mrs. Ethel Lomax, Wellsville, and Miss Cecil Brown, Claybourne avenue, failed to appear before Municipal Judge Hanley in municipal court to answer to charges of disorderly conduct by fighting.

The women were arrested at Patterson field by Captain of Police Conley at 9:20 o'clock last evening after they are alleged to have participated in a hair pulling. Friends posted bond for their appearance in court.

GREENVILLE POLICEMAN SHOT WHEN HE ARRESTS CHICKEN COOP RAIDERS

Gunman Also Wounds Another Officer When Trapped as He Returns to Automobile in Which Were Two Bags Filled With Poultry, Believed Stolen in District.

Two Shots Fired, One Penetrating Victim's Stomach, as Special Policeman Attempts to Shackle Prisoner After Latter Approaches Parked Car—Fugitive is Not Identified.

GREENVILLE, O., July 23.—Special Officer Simon Penny, 54, was shot and killed at 3 o'clock this morning and Officer Ora McClellan, 50, was slightly wounded in a fight with two chicken thieves in the south end of the city. The man who did the shooting made his escape but his companion, Harvey Seymour, 45, of Laura, a small village in Miami county, was arrested. Seymour told the officers that he does not know the name of the man who did the shooting and claims that he was on his way to Detroit and had accepted a ride from him.

Shortly after 2 o'clock this morning a call came into police headquarters that an automobile had driven into an alley in the south end and two men had left it parked there. The informant did not give his name but Officers Penny and McClellan were dispatched to the scene. They found the automobile, a Ford touring car, and in it were two bags filled with chickens.

Hiding in a thicket of weeds, the two officers waited for the men to return. In about 10 minutes the men were heard coming back and as they started to get into the car, Penny and McClellan covered them with their guns and ordered them to throw up their hands. They did so and McClellan put handcuffs on Seymour. As he went toward the other man to shackle him the fellow whipped out a gun and opened fire. The second shot took effect in Penny's body, the bullet passing through his stomach.

Fires at Assailant.

Mortally wounded, Penny fell to the ground, but continued shooting at his assailant. In the darkness the gunman escaped and McClellan went back to assist his brother officer. He was taken to the city building and a physician called but he died within few minutes after his arrival.

Penny was regularly employed as a janitor by the Greenville National bank but had acted as special officer at various times. He had recently been employed on the Greenville force in place of Clifford Husnagle, who is on his vacation. His wife died some time ago. Three grown children survive.

Seymour is believed by the officers to be covering up the name of his companion but it is thought his identity will be established. The Ford car which the men occupied had an extra set of license plates inside. No reports of chicken thefts had been received late this morning and it is not known where the men had secured those found in the car.

WELLSVILLE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION WILL HEAR HARRY F. HURD'S APPEAL ON MONDAY

Harry F. Hurd, former Wellsville patrolman, dismissed from the service on charges of gross neglect of duty and drunkenness, filed by Mayor W. L. Fogo, will go on trial Monday night at the city hall, Wellsville, before the present civil service commission, consisting of Dwight McLean, chairman, and Members Harry Hammond and A. C. Fogo.

Acting upon the advice of Solicitor S. C. Luccock, the present commission, which holds the power by law, as interpreted by the state civil service commission, to appoint a new trial board, if necessary, will itself hear the case.

The fact that the time limit to begin the hearing of the case, as prescribed by law, will elapse within the next few days, it was impracticable, Solicitor Luccock said, to institute proceedings for the organization of a new commission as suggested in a report of the state civil service commission.

The state commission's report points out that there is nothing in the statutes to prevent the case from being heard before the present triumvirate.

The civil service commission this morning notified Hurd of the date for the trial proceedings. Hurd will be represented by Attorneys Frank E. Grosshans and Ben L. Bennett, of East Liverpool, and W. A. O'Grady, of Wellsville.

State Board's Report.

The complete text of the state commission's report of the investigation relative to enforcement of the civil service laws follows:

"Hon. Wallace L. Fogo,
"Mayor of the City of Wellsville, O.
"Dear Sir:—

"Under the provisions of the civil service laws of Ohio a representative of the attorney general of Ohio and the state civil service commission conducted an investigation under date of July 16, 1926 at Wellsville, Ohio, of the situation relative to the enforcement of the civil service laws which had been officially referred to this office.

"It is desired to point out that throughout the investigation the mayor evidenced a genuine desire to comply, and willingness to cooperate with the ruling or recommendation of the state civil service commission.

"With reference to the case of Harry F. Hurd, formerly a patrolman, it was found that the mayor acted entirely within his rights in suspending Mr. Hurd as provided by Section 446-17 for a period of thirty days which period of suspension expired May 28, 1926. However, the mayor was in error in continuing this suspension to June 26, 1926, inasmuch as the above referred to statute explicitly provides —'Nothing in this act contained shall limit the power of an appointing officer to suspend without pay, for puposes of discipline, an employe or subordinate for a reasonable period not exceeding thirty days; provided, however, that successive suspensions shall not be allowed.' Accordingly this commission finds that Mr. Hurd is entitled to the salary of his position from the period May 28th to

The Wonderful French.
An Old Camel.
What Is Genius?
More War? Help!

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

FRENCH statesmen are having a hard time with the drowning franc. Herriot, head of the government which held office less than 48 hours, planned a levy on French capital, disguised. Capital would see through the disguise.

Small French people don't want to be taxed. The statesmen fear their numbers. Very rich Frenchmen don't want their capital confiscated and government fears their financial power.

Many deputies demand a financial dictator, but what could he do? You cannot lift yourself by your boot straps, financially or physically. But the French, however, will find a way out. They are industrious, thrifty, brave and determined, men and women both.

The French have vitality. Ninon de L'Enclos, at 72 young and beautiful, had very young men in love with her. Now Madame Despres, of Roubaix, aged 87, establishes a new swimming record. You can't beat the French, and you don't want to.

What we call genius today will be the commonplace of future ages. When life on this earth came out of water onto the land, and some of the reptiles began to fly, the birds that flew a few feet were probably considered geniuses by the others.

A white child of ten is a genius compared with some full grown savages. The men of a million, and ten million years hence will all be geniuses compared with our greatest minds, and far above them. We are barbarians, not yet standardized.

LLOYD GEORGE warns church societies that "the most horrible, devastating war will come unless young people on the world prevent it." Europe has greater armies than ever before, and horrible war is inevitable unless the rising generation "substitutes organized justice for organized violence."

If war comes, it will have to come. The old gambler said as he "raised the pot" that the way to discourage vice is to make it expensive. The way to discourage was is to let men learn what it costs. The thing for this country is to keep out of it, build flying machines and submarines enough to protect itself, and when war comes "neither a borrower nor a lender be" —nor a participant.

FLORENZ ZIEGFELD, who continues "glorifying the American girl," but insists that she be "modestly dressed," says "the plumper girl is coming in." He predicts disappearance of the prevailing type that looks half starved as a result of dieting.

That's good news for the tired businessman who sits in front. Still better news for the other man who wants the next generation to be worth while, and fears trouble when the halfstarved

HELTZEL BABY IS FOUND DEAD ON HIS BED IN SALINEVILLE

Ice Shortage is Relieved by Alliance Shipment.

COOLER WEATHER

Death Toll in State is Placed at 40.

With a death toll of at least 40, including one Columbiana county victim, the heat wave in Ohio was broken today.

Robert, four-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Heltzel is dead at his home in Salineville, today, a victim of the torrid spell that held the state in its grip for four days. The baby was found dead on a bed.

Showers Brief Relief.

Showers, which fell yesterday afternoon and night, brought relief from the intense heat which ran the mercury up to the 98-degree mark in East Liverpool and immediate vicinity.

Shower Party Called Off.

Peak in the hot weather yesterday, according to records at Dam No. 8, was reached at noon when the mercury registered 92 degrees. Breezes, which arrived with showers in the central and western part of the county early in the afternoon, caused a drop to the 89-degree mark at 3 o'clock, about nine degrees cooler than at the same hour Wednesday afternoon.

Ice shortage, which developed with the heat wave, was relieved this afternoon with a shipment from Alliance. The normal daily summer output of the Crockery City Ice and Products company's plan here jumped from 65 and 75 tons daily to 100 tons, but all the demands could not be filled.

"We managed to keep butcher shops, stores, hospitals, soda fountains and confectioners supplied, but were forced to cut down on the the amounts delivered to private consumers for a day or two," said A. E. Webber, manager of the company, today. "We will have plenty of ice to meet all demands after the rail shipment arrives this afternoon."

The heat wave developed just as Fire Chief Thomas Bryan was arranging for a children's shower party on Broadway, either Friday afternoon or Saturday morning. The party was called off last night, but will be staged on Monday afternoon should the heat again become oppressive.

Firemen Answer Two Calls; Flint Mill is Damaged

While firemen were extinguishing a blaze at the Golding & Son flint mill at the foot of West Fourth street at 1 o'clock this afternoon another call came in from the home of Mrs. Ernestine Parsons, East Third street.

Captain Ruhe, of the Northside station, who was" filling in" at the Central station in the absence of the Central department, answered the call from Third street.

The blaze at th eflint mill was in the roof above the engine room. The sprinklers were working when the firemen arrived and the blaze was easily subdued with chemicals. The loss amounted to about $100.

Minor damage was done by the fire at the Parsons home. Chemicals were used by the firemen.

Pottery Owners Discuss N. B. O. P. Wage Proposals

Tentative Date for Joint Conference Will be Suggested at Meeting of Manufacturers' Labor Committee.

Members of the labor committee of the United States Potters' association conferred at the office of the Homer Laughlin China company, Newell, today for the purpose of considering the proposals submitted by the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, for the new general ware agreements to become effective on October 1.

The committee, of which W. E. Wells, secretary-treasurer of the Laughlin company, is chairman, met at the headquarters of the potters' association, Fourth and Market street, this morning, but adjourned to the Laughlin company's main offices in Newell.

Brotherhood proposals, drafted at the annual convention held in Atlantic City, early in July, are in the hands of the manufacturers. Purpose of today's meeting was primarily to consider the demands. Counter proposals probably will be prepared by the manufacturers, to be considered at a joint conference with representatives of the union.

Tentative date and place for the conference probably will be suggested, subject to approval of Brotherhood officials. This parley probably will be held next month.

AUTO CRASH TIES UP TRAFFIC ON PENN AVENUE TROLLEY LINE

Judge J. C. Hanley's and Joseph Simballa's Cars Sideswipe — Mrs. Mildred Simballa Receives Minor Injury.

Traffic over the eastbound main line street car tracks between the Ravine street cross-over and Mulberry street was tied up for 45 minutes shortly after 10 o'clock last night, when automobiles driven by Municipal Judge Jesse C. Hanley, College street, and Joseph Simballa, Grant street, Newell, sidewiped near the "Red Steps" on Pennsylvania avenue.

Hanley, driving a coach, was traveling in the direction of East End, while Simballa, in a sedan, was headed west. Hanley claimed that both machines were traveling at a speed rate of about 20 or 25 miles per hour and that neither he nor Simballa allowed the other space enough to pass. Simballa said that Hanley was traveling too far toward the center of the road and that he did not have room to pass.

Mrs. Mildred Simballa, wife of the driver of the sedan, received a minor scalp laceration, but her husband and four other passengers in their car were unhurt. The left front tire and wheel and front and back fenders and running board on the Simballa machine were damaged. The Hanley car lost a hub cap and one fender was damaged.

The force of the impact forced one of the automobiles onto the eastbound railway track and cars were operated over one track until the obstruction was removed.

Patrolman Herman Roth made an investigation of the crash, but his report was not available at the police station this morning.

Judge Hanley's machine was driven away under its own power, but Simballa's car was towed to the Buckeye Motor Sales garage for repairs.

DON R. MELLETT SLAYERS' HUNT NOW IN CHARGE OF ORA SLATER

CHECK UP CLUES

General Headquarters Established in Newspaper Building.

CANTON, July 23.—Precautions were taken today by investigators in the Don R. Mellett murder case to prevent the execution of anonymous threats that have been received by them during the past 24 hours.

Although they had little to say about the menacing notes, some of the cleuths admitted they thought that a few of the letters came from sources that were unfriendly to the slain publisher. Others, they said, were thought to have been sent by fanatics.

CANTON, O., July 23.—The hunt for the slayers of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, today assumed a military aspect with Ora Slater, famous Cincinnati detective as commander-in-chief of all investigations now under way into the killing.

"G. H. Q."—General headquarters —have been established in a suite of offices in the Daily News building. Here will be a clearing house for all clews uncovered by any of the searchers and from here Generalissimo Slater will direct the activities of every phase of the complicated hunt.

This important development is expected to bring rapid fire results on clues obtained by any of the several probing agencies.

Detective Slater will be in charge of the office and either he or one of his assistants will be there continuously to check all leads that are brought to their attention.

Similiarity Between Two Crimes.

One of the strongest theories that was being advanced by several private detectives is that the turmoil caused by Mellett's crusading efforts to enforce prohibition and narcotic laws inspired vengeful vendors of illicit wares to take his life a week ago today.

This theory is borne out, they say, by the fact that Mellett had been relentless in his campaign against certain of the operators in the Canton "jungle."

The sleuths pointed out the great similarity between the Mellett slaying and the unsolved murder of Paul E. Kitzig, whiskey runner who was murdered five years ago.

Kitzig was killed with a single shot in the head shortly after he had told in federal court about the ramifications of a huge liquor ring. Two or three names which have been used in connection with the killing of Mellett were also heard in reference to

Bonds of $15.80 each were declared forfeited today when Mrs. Ethel Lomax, Wellsville, and Miss Cecil Brown, Claybourne avenue, failed to appear before Municipal Judge Hanley in municipal court to answer to charges of disorderly conduct by fighting.

The women were arrested at Patterson field by Captain of Police Conley at 9:20 o'clock last evening after they are alleged to have participated in a hair pulling. Friends posted bond for their appearance in court.

GREENVILLE POLICEMAN SHOT WHEN HE ARRESTS CHICKEN COOP RAIDERS

Gunman Also Wounds Another Officer When Trapped as He Returns to Automobile in Which Were Two Bags Filled With Poultry, Believed Stolen in District.

Two Shots Fired, One Penetrating Victim's Stomach, as Special Policeman Attempts to Shackle Prisoner After Latter Approaches Parked Car—Fugitive is Not Identified.

GREENVILLE, O., July 23.—Special Officer Simon Penny, 54, was shot and killed at 3 o'clock this morning and Officer Ora McClellan, 50, was slightly wounded in a fight with two chicken thieves in the south end of the city. The man who did the shooting made his escape but his companion, Harvey Seymour, 45, of Laura, a small village in Miami county, was arrested. Seymour told the officers that he does not know the name of the man who did the shooting and claims that he was on his way to Detroit and had accepted a ride from him.

Shortly after 2 o'clock this morning a call came into police headquarters that an automobile had driven into an alley in the south end and two men had left it parked there. The informant did not give his name but Officers Penny and McClellan were dispatched to the scene. They found the automobile, a Ford touring car, and in it were two bags filled with chickens.

Hiding in a thicket of weeds, the two officers waited for the men to return. In about 10 minutes the men were heard coming back and as they started to get into the car, Penny and McClellan covered them with their guns and ordered them to throw up their hands. They did so and McClellan put handcuffs on Seymour. As he went toward the other man to shackle him the fellow whipped out a gun and opened fire. The second shot took effect in Penny's body, the bullet passing through his stomach.

Fires at Assailant.

Mortally wounded, Penny fell to the ground, but continued shooting at his assailant. In the darkness the gunman escaped and McClellan went back to assist his brother officer. He was taken to the city building and a physician called but he died within few minutes after his arrival.

Penny was regularly employed as a janitor by the Greenville National bank but had acted as special officer at various times. He had recently been employed on the Greenville force in place of Clifford Husnagle, who is on his vacation. His wife died some time ago. Three grown children survive.

Seymour is believed by the officers to be covering up the name of his companion but it is thought his identity will be established. The Ford car which the men occupied had an extra set of license plates inside. No reports of chicken thefts had been received late this morning and it is not known where the men had secured those found in the car.

"Truth," the Foundation Rock of the Advertising Clubs and Ogilvie's

Thomas Jefferson, Advertising Man

A lot of folks look upon advertising as something that helps sell a man a pair of socks or a woman a new hat—and nothing more.

A little reflection will show that all history abounds in examples of advertising that have changed the destinies of the world. Thomas Jefferson was an advertising man of the first rank. One piece of copy alone—and he wrote many others—gives him a place in the publicity Hall of Fame. The declarations of Independence was the first and greatest advertisement of the American nation. It advertised and sold the principle that all men are created free and equal. It challenged monarchic competition and drove the royal product from the market. It sold the world on a principle, and furnished inspiration for its backers to maintain that principle.

The advertising of this store is founded on the principle that the truth about good merchandise and good service will interest people in both.

"Truth," the Foundation Rock of the Advertising Clubs and Ogilvie's

Thomas Jefferson, Advertising Man

A lot of folks look upon advertising as something that helps sell a man a pair of socks or a woman a new hat—and nothing more.

A little reflection will show that all history abounds in examples of advertising that have changed the destinies of the world. Thomas Jefferson was an advertising man of the first rank. One piece of copy alone—and he wrote many others—gives him a place in the publicity Hall of Fame. The declarations of Independence was the first and greatest advertisement of the American nation. It advertised and sold the principle that all men are created free and equal. It challenged monarchic competition and drove the royal product from the market. It sold the world on a principle, and furnished inspiration for its backers to maintain that principle.

The advertising of this store is founded on the principle that the truth about good merchandise and good service will interest people in both.

BROOKE OFFICERS CONDUCT RAID

What the sheriff's office termed the biggest liquor raid in the history of Brooke county was staged late yesterday afternoon when federal and county officials swooped down on a farm between West Liberty and Bethany and surprised a fair sized distillery in action.

Seven men, 3,000 gallons of mash in 56 barrels, one ton of sugar, two stills and two Studebaker automobiles constituted the toll. When the officers arrived a 125-gallon still was in operation, and all 3,000 gallons of mash were working.

All seven men were lodged in the Brooke county jail pending preliminary arraignment. They are Charles Rayle, the only American in the gang; Ernio Eisordi, Joseph Bordoni, Pergzillio Lestni, Joseph Erllei, Rastsg Mariani and James Regni.

Officials were at a loss to identify the owner of the farm or the leader of the gang. When they arrived all seven men were busy at work with no apparent leader. Subsequently they all deny leadership, merely stating that they were hired.

CRITICS LAUD "NELL GWYN"

British Feature Picture Wins Approval in New York.

"Nell Gwyn," said to be the first British feature picture presented in New York, is one which British National Pictures, Ltd., may well be glad to sponsor. It is entirely English in production and cast, with the exception of the lead, which is happily played by Dorothy Gish. The faults of most historical pictures, cluttered up as they usually are with scenery which producers seem to think the audience should see because it existed at the time in which the story is placed, is conspicuously absent, and "Nell Gwyn" is a smoothly developed and charming presentation of one of the most picturesque persons who ever intrigued the British court.

The brattish, lovable, whimsical and generous nature of Nell, mistress of the king and idol of all London, gives the picture its flavor. It is impossible to think harshly of her. She found her way out of an alley to the theatre, where her droll humor made the city laugh, by the only means at her command. She never forgot her friends, her charities were boundless, she loved her royal patron and, if history is to be credited, remained faithful to his memory after his death. It is this Nell which the picture shows, a delightful hoyden, even in Whitehall. Majesty never had any terrors for her; she retained her fascination by being herself.

With such a character it was possible to produce a picture full of whimsy and drollery. Nell meets the king at the door of the theatre in Drury lane, that quaint old street full of pushcarts and theatrical history, and presents him with an orange "to sweeten the company he keeps." Her vivacity attracts him, and when the audience is driven from the unroofed building by the rain he invites her to the inn opposite. Nell dines sumptuously, waving a chicken bone under the nose of her royal companion or poking him in the ribs with her elbow with a frank camaraderie which appeals to his weary senses.

And when his companions have not sufficient money to pay the bill, Nell does so with an amusing appreciation of her position, which is infinitely attractive to Charles. He promises that she shall have her chance to be an actress, and sends her silken substitutes for her torn stocking, and buckled shoes to take the place of her shabby footgear.

Whether Nell entered the theatre through Charles, or received her opportunity through earlier admirers, hardly matters. Once in the theatre her fortune was made, for her fame as a comedienne is fully as great as her fame as the King's favorite. She used the stage as the means to discountenance her rivals, and one of the most amusing scenes in the pictures is the way in which she subjects Lady Castlemaine, her chief antagonist, to the ridicule which no favorite can withstand. Nell has been forgotten at a reception in Whitehall, where she had been lately installed, embarrassed and unhappy, while her royal lover hastens to the side of Castlemaine, gorgeous in a huge hat which is the centre of attraction. Nell pouts and then laughs, and the next night at the play comes on dressed in a hat so huge it might be an umbrella, under which her antics reduce her rival to impotent anger.

But that is not all of Nell. When two of her old friends visit her at the palace she drags in the King to make him promise that he would give the palace he was building for her at Chelsea to the disabled soldiers of his kingdom. Tradition has it that that is the origin of Chelsea hospital. And on Charles' deathbed, when with a wry smile he apologizes to his brother for taking so long to die, it is Nell who hurries to him and comforts him.

"Don't let poor Nell starve," he tells his brother, and then asks her as the tears stream down her cheeks, to laugh one of her gay laughs for him, and to that laugh, joining in its infectious merriment, he dies.

That was the end of Nell's career. For although King James obeyed his brother's wish and provided for her, she did not long survive her lover. But the picture of Nell ends with her scornfully disdaining King James' outstretched hand, and blowing a kiss to the bust of Charles.

Whatever may be the shortcomings of English motion picture producers, if they can put together other pictures as simply and with as much dramatic effect as this story of Nell Gwyn they should have no difficulty obtaining a showing for them anywhere. The story moves quickly and surely, with nothing to strain one's credulity, and the acting of Miss Gish and Dandie Ayrton, who takes the part of Charles, is excellent. So is that of Juliette Compton as Lady Castlemaine. The immorality of the period is suggested without being offensive, and for the second time this summer a good picture has not been spoiled by prudery. The titles are unusually good and frequently amusing, that dear old gossip Pepys being resorted to for purposes of versimilitude.

Vacations in Canada are more popular this year than for some time and transportation companies report summer bookings on an extensive scale.

BROOKE OFFICERS CONDUCT RAID

What the sheriff's office termed the biggest liquor raid in the history of Brooke county was staged late yesterday afternoon when federal and county officials swooped down on a farm between West Liberty and Bethany and surprised a fair sized distillery in action.

Seven men, 3,000 gallons of mash in 56 barrels, one ton of sugar, two stills and two Studebaker automobiles constituted the toll. When the officers arrived a 125-gallon still was in operation, and all 3,000 gallons of mash were working.

All seven men were lodged in the Brooke county jail pending preliminary arraignment. They are Charles Rayle, the only American in the gang; Ernio Eisordi, Joseph Bordoni, Pergzillio Lestni, Joseph Erllei, Rastsg Mariani and James Regni.

Officials were at a loss to identify the owner of the farm or the leader of the gang. When they arrived all seven men were busy at work with no apparent leader. Subsequently they all deny leadership, merely stating that they were hired.

CRITICS LAUD "NELL GWYN"

British Feature Picture Wins Approval in New York.

"Nell Gwyn," said to be the first British feature picture presented in New York, is one which British National Pictures, Ltd., may well be glad to sponsor. It is entirely English in production and cast, with the exception of the lead, which is happily played by Dorothy Gish. The faults of most historical pictures, cluttered up as they usually are with scenery which producers seem to think the audience should see because it existed at the time in which the story is placed, is conspicuously absent, and "Nell Gwyn" is a smoothly developed and charming presentation of one of the most picturesque persons who ever intrigued the British court.

The brattish, lovable, whimsical and generous nature of Nell, mistress of the king and idol of all London, gives the picture its flavor. It is impossible to think harshly of her. She found her way out of an alley to the theatre, where her droll humor made the city laugh, by the only means at her command. She never forgot her friends, her charities were boundless, she loved her royal patron and, if history is to be credited, remained faithful to his memory after his death. It is this Nell which the picture shows, a delightful hoyden, even in Whitehall. Majesty never had any terrors for her; she retained her fascination by being herself.

With such a character it was possible to produce a picture full of whimsy and drollery. Nell meets the king at the door of the theatre in Drury lane, that quaint old street full of pushcarts and theatrical history, and presents him with an orange "to sweeten the company he keeps." Her vivacity attracts him, and when the audience is driven from the unroofed building by the rain he invites her to the inn opposite. Nell dines sumptuously, waving a chicken bone under the nose of her royal companion or poking him in the ribs with her elbow with a frank camaraderie which appeals to his weary senses.

And when his companions have not sufficient money to pay the bill, Nell does so with an amusing appreciation of her position, which is infinitely attractive to Charles. He promises that she shall have her chance to be an actress, and sends her silken substitutes for her torn stocking, and buckled shoes to take the place of her shabby footgear.

Whether Nell entered the theatre through Charles, or received her opportunity through earlier admirers, hardly matters. Once in the theatre her fortune was made, for her fame as a comedienne is fully as great as her fame as the King's favorite. She used the stage as the means to discountenance her rivals, and one of the most amusing scenes in the pictures is the way in which she subjects Lady Castlemaine, her chief antagonist, to the ridicule which no favorite can withstand. Nell has been forgotten at a reception in Whitehall, where she had been lately installed, embarrassed and unhappy, while her royal lover hastens to the side of Castlemaine, gorgeous in a huge hat which is the centre of attraction. Nell pouts and then laughs, and the next night at the play comes on dressed in a hat so huge it might be an umbrella, under which her antics reduce her rival to impotent anger.

But that is not all of Nell. When two of her old friends visit her at the palace she drags in the King to make him promise that he would give the palace he was building for her at Chelsea to the disabled soldiers of his kingdom. Tradition has it that that is the origin of Chelsea hospital. And on Charles' deathbed, when with a wry smile he apologizes to his brother for taking so long to die, it is Nell who hurries to him and comforts him.

"Don't let poor Nell starve," he tells his brother, and then asks her as the tears stream down her cheeks, to laugh one of her gay laughs for him, and to that laugh, joining in its infectious merriment, he dies.

That was the end of Nell's career. For although King James obeyed his brother's wish and provided for her, she did not long survive her lover. But the picture of Nell ends with her scornfully disdaining King James' outstretched hand, and blowing a kiss to the bust of Charles.

Whatever may be the shortcomings of English motion picture producers, if they can put together other pictures as simply and with as much dramatic effect as this story of Nell Gwyn they should have no difficulty obtaining a showing for them anywhere. The story moves quickly and surely, with nothing to strain one's credulity, and the acting of Miss Gish and Dandie Ayrton, who takes the part of Charles, is excellent. So is that of Juliette Compton as Lady Castlemaine. The immorality of the period is suggested without being offensive, and for the second time this summer a good picture has not been spoiled by prudery. The titles are unusually good and frequently amusing, that dear old gossip Pepys being resorted to for purposes of versimilitude.

Vacations in Canada are more popular this year than for some time and transportation companies report summer bookings on an extensive scale.

Dictator Albert

King Albert of Belgium, recently made responsible for saving the Belgian financial situation, is a dictator with a difference. He derives his authority from parliament itself and not from any group attacking the parliament's powers. He will work with the aid of parliament toward a specific end, to meet a national emergency.

There is another novel feature of this dictatorship, aside from the fact that it is established by the government. This is the fact of the dictator's kingship. Mostly European kings are finding themselves relegated to minor roles in government. Dictators may kindly consent to let the kings continue wearing some of the insignia of royalty, but they don't let the kings have much say about anything of any importance.

With King Albert, it was different. He has long been regarded as the true leader of his people in the best sense of kingship. It was confidence in his loyalty to the Belgians as well as in his outstanding ability that made the Belgian parliament place this great authority in him.

Other kings in other places could learn much from Albert of Belgium.

No Cancellation

Secretary Mellon's letter in defense of the government's position in regard to debt cancellation will go far to clarify the situation both in this country and abroad. He argues against cancellation on broad grounds.

The secretary points out that the European countries which have obligated themselves to make payments on these loans have been asked for much less interest than the United States is paying on the same money to its own citizens; that the voluminous Wilson correspondence which preceded the advance of money makes plain that these loans were not regarded as gifts or designed as such; that much of the money was paid over after the signing of the armistice and was borrowed to meet domestic rather than military needs.

There must, of course, always be those who for sentimental or other reasons will hold that cancellation would have been not only the graceful but also the proper policy, but the time for considering such action is passed now. Further agitation to this end can only serve to postpone some kind of settlement and in view of the political crisis in France, and conditions in half a dozen other countries, a settlement of the terms of repayment is really more important than the terms themselves.

June Bug Silk

The June bug in the role of silk worm is something new to think about. Two German scientists have been experimenting with the June bug and have succeeded in developing silk threads from chitin.

"Chitin," in case you didn't know, is the horny substance forming the harder part of the outer integument of insects, crustaceans, etc.

The silk threads made from the June bug chitin are said to have greater strength and resistance than the regular silk-worm product. Textiles made from those threads are expected to prove virtually indestructible.

Of course this discovery will revolutionize the textile industry. Most discoveries of any importance revolutionize something or other. It is sad to contemplate what the June bugs will think of this sort of progress, but human kind will find plenty of uses for the new cloth.

The Thompson Mission

It would not be easy to find a well-informed American who does not regret the purchase of the Philippines, and the responsibilities which their possession entails.

The $20,000,000 paid to Spain and the millions more invested in pacification, administration and education have paid no dividends, and although we have reason for honest pride in what has been accomplished, it is only too apparent that the great mass of Filipino population is by no means ready for anything approaching true self-government. The time when we can decently wash our hands of the whole troublesome and expensive business seems very far away.

Under the circumstances the tour of investigation undertaken by Col. Carmi Thompson at the instance of the president becomes more than ordinarily interesting. Col. Thompson is looking into the possibilities of making the islands a source of crude rubber supply which the United States needs so urgently, yet American capital will be slow to venture to the islands while our occupation is recognized as temporary and we continue periodically to assert intention to let them go.

Sadder, but probably a little wiser, is the vacationist who tries to get a whole summer's accumulation of tan in two weeks.

There really ought to be a sesquidollar to pay for admission to that Sesqui-centennial.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 23. — Thoughts while strolling: Five a. m. at Grand Central. Why do people take early morning trains? Manhattan's dawn comes early, flashing fire from windows of lofty minarets. Slumping figures on park benches, stirring to another day of self pity.

Youths with university blazers and wide biscuit-colored pants swinging off to tennis courts. Milk wagons rumbling home. Their day is over. Sign polishers whistling at their tasks. Whatever became of air-holes in derbies? The medley of rattling ash cans.

Early Victorias with their plug-hatted jehus. Shops begin to open. Strawberry short cake—short a few berries. A miniature Taj Mahal in white soap. Winking trays in the jewelry windows. An exchange shop — filled with flutes, saxophones and radios.

Breakfast sign: "Knobby waffles!" No odor so tantalizing as that of frying bacon. Bellboys promenading with dogs. The timid pigeons that flutter from Broadway eaves. The outrush of humanity from subway kiosks, with heads buried in newspapers.

The Rialto poise, sangfroid and other theatrical virtues. Skirts even shorter. The human race is about done for, I guess. Glad I'm near-sighted. That is, partly glad. Wonder if Abe Erlanger gets to his office this early every morning.

Why do Oriental rug sellers travel in pairs? Cafes with kitchens in the window. Cinnamon rolls—there's a dish. A Bide-a-wee Home dog ambulance. The Ninth Avenue employment agency where decrepit old men go to carry banners and pass advertising bills.

A butcher shop heralds "meat for the cat free." Like the good old days. Who remembers when the kerosene can had potato stoppers? And with 25 Arbuckle coffee signatures you got a collapsible silver toothpick? Women jabbering from upstairs windows when they should be dusting the parlor.

A man of evident education writes to a New York newspaper this advice after two years futile search for a job: "Get out of New York if you are more than 40—and jobless."

And this strikes me as a rather sweeping assertion from my home town paper: "Boiled onions are fine for toning up the stomach and sweeping out the colon. You can, however, get the same effect with spinach, which has been called the broom of the stomach."

There are three men who seem essential to every public dinner in New York — Mayor Walker, ex-Ambassador Moore and Otto Kahn.

The three best after-dinner speakers New York has had in my time, I believe, are Irvin Cobb, the late Rennold Wolf and Wilton Lackaye.

Rennold Wolf left a deep gap in Broadway life. He was an accomplished critic as well as play-wright and speaker. He was usually seen at first nights—generally with his gray-haired mother. Tortured by a physical affliction, he became almost a recluse during his last year. Broadway saw little of him, but he continued to work until the final few days. Next to Alan Dale, he had seen more plays bloom and wither away than any of his fellows. He was a brilliant wit, but his barbs were velvet-sheathed, and everybody was his friend. His collection of first editions was among the finest in town.

A band of gypsies came to the upper reaches of Riverside Drive recently and camped for several days. None of them had ever been in New York and not one would venture into its hubbub. Wise people, the gypsies.

HASKIN'S LETTER

AVIATION TO THE FORE.

III—Commercial Air Development.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 23. — While the army and navy secured five year aviation programs from the recent session of congress, and thus found the air branches of the national defense stabilized and advanced to a place of new importance, the greatest forward step in aviation sanctioned by congress was the passage of the Air Commerce Act. This law is the first in our history which recognizes aviation as a business proposition and accords it government control and regulation.

Aerial transportation is recognized by this law as a business of national importance, a means of interstate and international commerce, and an asset in the industrial progress of the nation. The secretary of commerce is given specific authority to deal with many phases of commercial aviation, and the appointment of an assistant secretary of commerce who shall deal especially with aviation matters is authorized. President Coolidge and Secretary Hoover are in accord with the principles of the new law, and Mr. Hoover has already set about the preliminary work of administering its provisions.

A few of the things which the Department of Commerce is either permitted to do or commanded to do under the Air Commerce Act are to list, map, and encourage the development of airways, encourage the establishment of landing fields with equipment, examine and license pilots, examine and register aircraft as to their airworthiness, collect and publish data regarding possibilities of air commerce, concerning inventions, safety methods, weather conditions, airports, and other matters of value to the industry.

Other branches of the government are directed to cooperate with the secretary of commerce in the tasks assigned by the new law. The United States Weather Bureau, which is operated under the Department of Agriculture, is to furnish the weather and meteorological reports. The Lighthouse Bureau is not mentioned by name, but under the general authority given will be available to cooperate in the lighting of airways with signal beacons; the Post Office Department, operating the air mail, is authorized when and if it seems wise, to turn over the airways, emergency landing fields, and other facilities, excepting airports or terminals which it now operates, to the Department of Commerce.

The law not only recognizes these and other probable developments of domestic aviation, but provides that if international flying transportation is established, the Treasury Department shall designate ports of entry for foreign goods to be handled as in customs houses, and the Department of Labor shall designate aerial ports of entry for immigrants, so that we may have an Ellis Island for immigrants coming via the air. Control over visits by military or naval craft of other nations is vested in the Department of State, which may, with the approval of that department, be tendered the use of facilities handled by the Department of Commerce.

Congress Foresighted.

These phases of the new law indicate that congress was looking well toward the future in laying out what will be the basic national law on aviation. Details of government aid or regulation will have to be handled as they arise, but the fundamental step has been taken, and the basic authority has been placed in the hands of

THE SIMPLEST OF REMEDIES

In Owen county, Ky., there formerly resided a self-ordained oracle on all questions pertaining to subjects of farming, horse raising and hog guessing. To him one day, as he sat on a horse block facing the public square at Owenton, came a pestered young husbandman from the knobs along the Kentucky river with this question:

"Uncle Hamp, how am I going to get shet of sassafras sprouts? The pesky dern things have jest about took an old field of mine. I've tried choppin' 'em out and plowin' 'em under and burnin' 'em over, but they keep on gittin' thicker and thicker all the time. It seems I can't git rid of 'em noway. Whut would you advise?"

"My son," said the wise man, "I don't want to brag, but I reckin you ain't made no mistake in comin' to me—you've struck on to one man that's fitten to advise you in this here matter ef anybody on this earth is. Man and boy, I've been givin' the subject of sassafras sprouts my earnest attention fur goin' on sixty years. Dictator Albert

King Albert of Belgium, recently made responsible for saving the Belgian financial situation, is a dictator with a difference. He derives his authority from parliament itself and not from any group attacking the parliament's powers. He will work with the aid of parliament toward a specific end, to meet a national emergency.

There is another novel feature of this dictatorship, aside from the fact that it is established by the government. This is the fact of the dictator's kingship. Mostly European kings are finding themselves relegated to minor roles in government. Dictators may kindly consent to let the kings continue wearing some of the insignia of royalty, but they don't let the kings have much say about anything of any importance.

With King Albert, it was different. He has long been regarded as the true leader of his people in the best sense of kingship. It was confidence in his loyalty to the Belgians as well as in his outstanding ability that made the Belgian parliament place this great authority in him.

Other kings in other places could learn much from Albert of Belgium.

No Cancellation

Secretary Mellon's letter in defense of the government's position in regard to debt cancellation will go far to clarify the situation both in this country and abroad. He argues against cancellation on broad grounds.

The secretary points out that the European countries which have obligated themselves to make payments on these loans have been asked for much less interest than the United States is paying on the same money to its own citizens; that the voluminous Wilson correspondence which preceded the advance of money makes plain that these loans were not regarded as gifts or designed as such; that much of the money was paid over after the signing of the armistice and was borrowed to meet domestic rather than military needs.

There must, of course, always be those who for sentimental or other reasons will hold that cancellation would have been not only the graceful but also the proper policy, but the time for considering such action is passed now. Further agitation to this end can only serve to postpone some kind of settlement and in view of the political crisis in France, and conditions in half a dozen other countries, a settlement of the terms of repayment is really more important than the terms themselves.

June Bug Silk

The June bug in the role of silk worm is something new to think about. Two German scientists have been experimenting with the June bug and have succeeded in developing silk threads from chitin.

"Chitin," in case you didn't know, is the horny substance forming the harder part of the outer integument of insects, crustaceans, etc.

The silk threads made from the June bug chitin are said to have greater strength and resistance than the regular silk-worm product. Textiles made from those threads are expected to prove virtually indestructible.

Of course this discovery will revolutionize the textile industry. Most discoveries of any importance revolutionize something or other. It is sad to contemplate what the June bugs will think of this sort of progress, but human kind will find plenty of uses for the new cloth.

The Thompson Mission

It would not be easy to find a well-informed American who does not regret the purchase of the Philippines, and the responsibilities which their possession entails.

The $20,000,000 paid to Spain and the millions more invested in pacification, administration and education have paid no dividends, and although we have reason for honest pride in what has been accomplished, it is only too apparent that the great mass of Filipino population is by no means ready for anything approaching true self-government. The time when we can decently wash our hands of the whole troublesome and expensive business seems very far away.

Under the circumstances the tour of investigation undertaken by Col. Carmi Thompson at the instance of the president becomes more than ordinarily interesting. Col. Thompson is looking into the possibilities of making the islands a source of crude rubber supply which the United States needs so urgently, yet American capital will be slow to venture to the islands while our occupation is recognized as temporary and we continue periodically to assert intention to let them go.

Sadder, but probably a little wiser, is the vacationist who tries to get a whole summer's accumulation of tan in two weeks.

There really ought to be a sesquidollar to pay for admission to that Sesqui-centennial.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 23. — Thoughts while strolling: Five a. m. at Grand Central. Why do people take early morning trains? Manhattan's dawn comes early, flashing fire from windows of lofty minarets. Slumping figures on park benches, stirring to another day of self pity.

Youths with university blazers and wide biscuit-colored pants swinging off to tennis courts. Milk wagons rumbling home. Their day is over. Sign polishers whistling at their tasks. Whatever became of air-holes in derbies? The medley of rattling ash cans.

Early Victorias with their plug-hatted jehus. Shops begin to open. Strawberry short cake—short a few berries. A miniature Taj Mahal in white soap. Winking trays in the jewelry windows. An exchange shop — filled with flutes, saxophones and radios.

Breakfast sign: "Knobby waffles!" No odor so tantalizing as that of frying bacon. Bellboys promenading with dogs. The timid pigeons that flutter from Broadway eaves. The outrush of humanity from subway kiosks, with heads buried in newspapers.

The Rialto poise, sangfroid and other theatrical virtues. Skirts even shorter. The human race is about done for, I guess. Glad I'm nearsighted. That is, partly glad. Wonder if Abe Erlanger gets to his office this early every morning.

Why do Oriental rug sellers travel in pairs? Cafes with kitchens in the window. Cinnamon rolls—there's a dish. A Bide-a-wee Home dog ambulance. The Ninth Avenue employment agency where decrepit old men go to carry banners and pass advertising bills.

A butcher shop heralds "meat for the cat free." Like the good old days. Who remembers when the kerosene can had potato stoppers? And with 25 Arbuckle coffee signatures you got a collapsible silver toothpick? Women jabbering from upstairs windows when they should be dusting the parlor.

A man of evident education writes to a New York newspaper this advice after two years futile search for a job: "Get out of New York if you are more than 40—and jobless."

And this strikes me as a rather sweeping assertion from my home town paper: "Boiled onions are fine for toning up the stomach and sweeping out the colon. You can, however, get the same effect with spinach, which has been called the broom of the stomach."

There are three men who seem essential to every public dinner in New York — Mayor Walker, ex-Ambassador Moore and Otto Kahn.

The three best after-dinner speakers New York has had in my time, I believe, are Irvin Cobb, the late Rennold Wolf and Wilton Lackaye.

Rennold Wolf left a deep gap in Broadway life. He was an accomplished critic as well as play-wright and speaker. He was usually seen at first nights—generally with his gray-haired mother. Tortured by a physical affliction, he became almost a recluse during his last year. Broadway saw little of him, but he continued to work until the final few days. Next to Alan Dale, he had seen more plays bloom and wither away than any of his fellows. He was a brilliant wit, but his barbs were velvet-sheathed, and everybody was his friend. His collection of first editions was among the finest in town.

A band of gypsies came to the upper reaches of Riverside Drive recently and camped for several days. None of them had ever been in New York and not one would venture into its hubbub. Wise people, the gypsies.

STATE PAYS COMPENSATION

Widow of Slain Patrolman Receives $6,500.

Mrs. James M. Kenney, widow of former Patrolman Kenney, who was slain by a band of unidentified assassins last February in Commerce street, while on duty, today announced the receipt of a check for $6,500 compensation from the state industrial commission.

The money represents the maximum payment, inasmuch as the patrolman was murdered while on duty.

Mrs. Kenney is the mother of two children, one of which is less than six months old.

Kenney, who regularly was employed as a member of the fire department here, was called for police duty in February during the 30-day suspension period of a regular member of the force.

He had but two or three days to work when he was brutally murdered.

Request for the compensation was filed by Mayor W. L. Fogo a few days after Kenney's death.

PRISONER SENT TO COUNTY JAIL.

J. Donohue, proprietor of a restaurant in Main street, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, arrested by local police recently on a charge of assault and battery, was fined $100 and costs at a hearing before Mayor W. L. Fogo.

In default of payment, Donohue probably will be sent to the county jail today.

HOME CHILDREN WILL SEE SHOW

One hundred children from two Jefferson county institutions will be the guests of the Kiwanis club under the 'big top" next Monday afternon at the John Robinson Shows, at Steubenville, the circuc company acting in partnership with the Steubenville service club in entertaining the children from the home at Yellow Creek. Sixty-five children will be brought in a special car through the courtesy of the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company. Five Kiwanis will bring 35 children from the Bethel in their own motorcars. They will be brought in early enough to view all the delights of the menagerie in the entrance and will be treated to the full circus show and copious quantities of ice cream.

WOMEN'S AID SETS RECORDS

Helpfulness and Service Motto of Pennsy Group.

New records in helpfulness and service were established last year by the Women's Aid of the Pennsylvania railroad. This is shown in the annual report just issued by Mrs. W. W. Atterbury, director, and Mrs. Elisha Lee, associate director of the organization. Mrs. Atterbury, as wife of the company's president, exercises general supervision over the activities of the Women's Aid, while Mrs. Lee, as wife of the vice president in charge of operations, is Mrs. Atterbury's principal associate in carrying on the administrative work.

During 1925 this group of women workers, consisting chiefly of wives, daughters, mothers and sisters of Pennsylvania railroad employes, visited 27,727 railroad families, giving assistance where required in the from of money, medical attention, food, clothing, fuel, etc., and carrying flowers, fruits and other delicacies to the sick or injured. This is an increase of 8,743 visits over the previous year.

In carrying on the aid work there was expended $109,360.35, all raised by dues and voluntary contributions from the members, the holding of bazaars, sales of candy and clothing subscription dances, etc. Expenditures for relief last year show an increase of more than $30,000 over those of 1924. Despite the heavy increase in relief expenditures, the accounts of the aid show a balance on hand at the close of last year amounting to $116,345.71, an increase of $13,951.92 over the balance of the previous year.

Membership in the aid was raised to 207,320, the highest figure at which it has ever stood, representing a gain during the year of 22,554 members, or 12 per cent.

In the Central region, Mrs. E. T. Whiter, associate director, and wife of the regional vice president and general manager, at Pittsburgh, reports a steady growth of the aid, the closing of 1925 finding it a full grown organization directed by competent women, embracing almost as many members as there are employes. The Women's Aid was not generally organized on the Central region until 1924, so that last year's work was very gratifying.

CAL BORROWS FROM SLEUTHS

President as Joker Makes "Touch" From Detectives.

WASHINGTON — President Coolidge, as has been oftimes recorded, carries little pocket money with him and on occasion has been forced to borrow trifling sums from secret service men accompanying him for the purchase of newspapers, magazines, etc. Those men who have financed these purchases, however, are beginning to suspect that the executive deliberately borrows nickels and dimes for the sake of practical jokes which he conceives in repaying the loans.

Recently, the president was "in" to Dick Jervis, debonaire chief of the White House secret service detail, to the extent of 25 cents, borrowed a nickel at a time. One morning Dick arrived at the White House shortly after 10 o'clock to be informed that from 8:30 on Mr. Coolidge had been inquiring for him at 15-minute intervals.

Such urgent and repeated summons worried Dick. Something of great moment must have happened, or some important matter was about to come up, he thought.

With fair amount of apprehension, Jervis entered the president's office. Mr. Coolidge looked up solemnly from his work, thrust his hand into his pocket and pulled out a quarter and handed it to Dick, then continued with his work not saying a word.

The incident worried Dick for some time until he remembered that he had bought the president papers and magazines on several of the nightly walks.

Another time, the president owed Arnold Landvoight, also a secret service operative, five cents. Calculating Landvoigt's mental reaction to a nicety, and probably laughing the while in his study, Mr. Coolidge dispatched an usher downstairs one night with a dime.

"Give it to Landvoigt," he instructed, "and tell him he may keep the change."

Landvoight's efforts to get the usher to return the extra nickel were unavailing.

LOT SALE SUITS ARE DISMISSED

An entry of "dismissal at the costs of the defendant and restraining order dissolved" has been written in the two cases pending in common pleas court against Cecil H. Taylor, both of which were filed early last April as an aftermath of the lot sale at "Arcadia."

In one action M. K. Duty, of Wellsville, filed an injunction petition against Taylor, while Flay Clapsaddle, a civil engineer, of East Liverpool, also sought a restraining order and money against Taylor. An agreement out of court was reached in these two actions, and the court being so advised dismissed the two cases against the defendant.

STATE PAYS COMPENSATION

Widow of Slain Patrolman Receives $6,500.

Mrs. James M. Kenney, widow of former Patrolman Kenney, who was slain by a band of unidentified assassins last February in Commerce street, while on duty, today announced the receipt of a check for $6,500 compensation from the state industrial commission.

The money represents the maximum payment, inasmuch as the patrolman was murdered while on duty.

Mrs. Kenney is the mother of two children, one of which is less than six months old.

Kenney, who regularly was employed as a member of the fire department here, was called for police duty in February during the 30-day suspension period of a regular member of the force.

He had but two or three days to work when he was brutally murdered.

Request for the compensation was filed by Mayor W. L. Fogo a few days after Kenney's death.

PRISONER SENT TO COUNTY JAIL.

J. Donohue, proprietor of a restaurant in Main street, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, arrested by local police recently on a charge of assault and battery, was fined $100 and costs at a hearing before Mayor W. L. Fogo.

In default of payment, Donohue probably will be sent to the county jail today.

HOME CHILDREN WILL SEE SHOW

One hundred children from two Jefferson county institutions will be the guests of the Kiwanis club under the "big top" next Monday afternon at the John Robinson Shows, at Steubenville, the circuc company acting in partnership with the Steubenville service club in entertaining the children from the home at Yellow Creek. Sixty-five children will be brought in a special car through the courtesy of the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company. Five Kiwanis will bring 35 children from the Bethel in their own motorcars. They will be brought in early enough to view all the delights of the menagerie in the entrance and will be treated to the full circus show and copious quantities of ice cream.

WOMEN'S AID SETS RECORDS

Helpfulness and Service Motto of Pennsy Group.

New records in helpfulness and service were established last year by the Women's Aid of the Pennsylvania railroad. This is shown in the annual report just issued by Mrs. W. W. Atterbury, director, and Mrs. Elisha Lee, associate director of the organization. Mrs. Atterbury, as wife of the company's president, exercises general supervision over the activities of the Women's Aid, while Mrs. Lee, as wife of the vice president in charge of operations, is Mrs. Atterbury's principal associate in carrying on the administrative work.

During 1925 this group of women workers, consisting chiefly of wives, daughters, mothers and sisters of Pennsylvania railroad employes, visited 27,727 railroad families, giving assistance where required in the from of money, medical attention, food, clothing, fuel, etc., and carrying flowers, fruits and other delicacies to the sick or injured. This is an increase of 8,743 visits over the previous year.

In carrying on the aid work there was expended $109,360.35, all raised by dues and voluntary contributions from the members, the holding of bazaars, sales of candy and clothing, subscription dances, etc. Expenditures for relief last year show an increase of more than $30,000 over those of 1924. Despite the heavy increase in relief expenditures, the accounts of the aid show a balance on hand at the close of last year amounting to $116,345.71, an increase of $13,951.92 over the balance of the previous year.

Membership in the aid was raised to 207,320, the highest figure at which it has ever stood, representing a gain during the year of 22,554 members, or 12 per cent.

In the Central region, Mrs. E. T. Whiter, associate director, and wife of the regional vice president and general manager, at Pittsburgh, reports a steady growth of the aid, the closing of 1925 finding it a full grown organization directed by competent women, embracing almost as many members as there are employes. The Women's Aid was not generally organized on the Central region until 1924, so that last year's work was very gratifying.

CAL BORROWS FROM SLEUTHS

President as Joker Makes "Touch" From Detectives.

WASHINGTON — President Coolidge, as has been oftimes recorded, carries little pocket money with him and on occasion has been forced to borrow trifling sums from secret service men accompanying him for the purchase of newspapers, magazines, etc. Those men who have financed these purchases, however, are beginning to suspect that the executive deliberately borrows nickels and dimes for the sake of practical jokes which he conceives in repaying the loans.

Recently, the president was "in" to Dick Jervis, debonaire chief of the White House secret service detail, to the extent of 25 cents, borrowed a nickel at a time. One morning Dick arrived at the White House shortly after 10 o'clock to be informed that from 8:30 on Mr. Coolidge had been inquiring for him at 15-minute intervals.

Such urgent and repeated summons worried Dick. Something of great moment must have happened, or some important matter was about to come up, he thought.

With fair amount of apprehension, Jervis entered the president's office. Mr. Coolidge looked up solemnly from his work, thrust his hand into his pocket and pulled out a quarter and handed it to Dick, then continued with his work not saying a word.

The incident worried Dick for some time until he remembered that he had bought the president papers and magazines on several of the nightly walks.

Another time, the president owed Arnold Landvoight, also a secret service operative, five cents. Calculating Landvoigt's mental reaction to a nicety, and probably laughing the while in his study, Mr. Coolidge dispatched an usher downstairs one night with a dime.

"Give it to Landvoigt," he instructed, "and tell him he may keep the change."

Landvoight's efforts to get the usher to return the extra nickel were unavailing.

LOT SALE SUITS ARE DISMISSED

An entry of "dismissal at the costs of the defendant and restraining order dissolved" has been written in the two cases pending in common pleas court against Cecil H. Taylor, both of which were filed early last April as an aftermath of the lot sale at "Arcadia."

In one action M. K. Duty, of Wellsville, filed an injunction petition against Taylor, while Flay Clapsaddle, a civil engineer, of East Liverpool, also sought a restraining order and money against Taylor. An agreement out of court was reached in these two actions, and the court being so advised dismissed the two cases against the defendant.

If your blood is pure—you like to eat

REMEMBER how you used to come in from play hungry as a bear? Bet you could hardly wait until Dad filled your plate!

And didn't everything taste good! Seemed like you never would get enough. Didn't you feel good those days. Yes, they were the red blooded days.

Why isn't your appetite like that now? Why don't you like to eat just the same as you did in those days? Here's the reason—your system is simply starving for the lack of rich, red blood! You've lost your appetite because you've lost your red blood power. No red blood nourishment for the tissues of your body.

You'll get hungry and you'll enjoy eating when S. S. S. helps Nature build pure red cells in that weak blood of yours. And you'll look better—your skin will be clear and unblemished—your flesh will become firm and solid—strength and power will come to your flabby muscles—you'll be yourself again.

S. S. S. will bring back the joy of eating—the joy of living. It's done it for thousands for generations. It's going to do it for you, too.

10 ARE KILLED AND 23 HURT IN BUS CRASH

Sight-seeing Vehicle Overturns at Sparkill, New York.

DRIVER IS HELD

Physicians Fear Several of Injured Will Die.

NYACK, N. Y., July 23.—Eight women and two girls were dead today and 23 others were suffering from injuries, some of them serious, as a result of the overturning of a sight-seeing bus last night at Sparkill, near here.

Every person in the bus, which carried 48 women and children from Brooklyn, was either killed or injured. The party was returning from Bear mountain, where the passengers had gone to escape the heat. The bus, speeding down a hill when the brakes refused to hold, would not make a sharp turn at the bottom of the hill and turned a somersault, crashing against the windows of a store.

Daniel Lastro, driver of the bus, who was only slightly injured, was arrested and held in jail for grand jury action.

The dead are: Mrs. Katherine Barth, Marguerite Rieper, 12, Mrs. Henry Schultz, Katherine Albert, 5, Mrs. Carrie Engleardt, Mrs. May Reier, Mrs. Swenke, Emma Billings and two unidentified women. Physicians at the Nyack hospital, where the injured were taken, feared that several of the injured would die.

Fifteen passengers whose injuries were not serious were taken home to Brooklyn this morning.

Sparkill policemen found the women and children groaning and struggling under the wrecked bus, squirming to free themselves. While children screamed for their mothers, the members of the fire department were summoned to lift the bus. Aided by nearly the entire population of the village, the firemen extracted the victims. Eight had been killed almost instantly and it appeared that many of the injured could not live.

The injured were rushed to the hospital in various conveyances. The village iceman, carrying many of the victims in his ice wagon transported them to the hospital at full speed, lashing his horses furiously during the four-mile journey.

NAB NATIONAL GUARDSMEN IN TOLEDO RAID

Federal Agents Use Axes to Chop Way Into Room.

17 UNDER ARREST

Raiders Seize 515 Bottles of Beer and Whisky.

TOLEDO, July 23.—In a sensational raid here early today in which federal prohibition agents used axes to chop their way into a room on North St. Clair street, several Ohio National Guard officers from Camp Perry, including a major, lieutenant and sergeants, were arrested on charges of violating the national prohibition law.

In all sixteen men and one woman were caught in the raid. The dry raiders seized 515 bottles of beer and a large quantity of whisky.

R. W. Wells, H. H. Ball, George Woods, George Martin and W. B. Grover.

bombardment of old King Sol that marked the summer's most determined offensive in years, ceased today—at least temporarily—as Jack Frost came to the rescue out of the far north with cooling breezes.

A survey of the scorched Ohio plains today showed that at least 40 persons fell victims to the barrage of heat darts. About half of the casualties were drowned. The others died of heat prostrations.

There were scores of minor heat prostrations in the state with the victims aided back to normalcy by the let-up in the hot weather.

The promised thundershowers visited a number of points in the state but failed to reach the Cleveland area. Toledo, Youngstown and other cities reported refreshing showers.

Additional reports of mad dog scares, water famines and exploding pavements continued to come in from all parts of the state.

Cleveland's heat death toll was raised to six with the deaths of George Russell, railroad conductor, and Chaplin E. Hoover, New York Central baggageman, who died of sunstroke.

At Columbus Herman Strandburg, 23, of Tyndall, Canada, was drowned in a Country club pool. C. M. Chaffee, 72, died of heart failure brought on by the heat. Mildred Myers, of Gettysburg, an O. S. U. co-ed, was prostrated on the campus.

At Cincinnati, Mrs. Katherine Diz, 77, and Miss Mary Keuchle, 16, died of the heat, and Howard Huddleston, 14, a Boy Scout, was drowned.

At Salineville, Robert Heltzel, 4, was overcome by the heat and died.

Maximum temperatures reported yesterday included Wooster, 97; East Liverpool, 96; Cincinnati, 94; Middletown, 97; Dayton, 92; Marion, 90; Columbus, 94; Lima, 90; Newark, 90; Canton, 92, and Akron, 91.

Beet Cooked In Transit From West on Picnic Menu

Beef, cooked while en route 450 miles from Chicago to East Liverpool, was served 2,500 persons at the Chester Business Men's association outing at Rock Springs park Wednesday.

It marked the first time that Armour & company's new method of preparing beef for use at big outings had been taken advantage of by an East Liverpool district organization, although the fireless cooker arrangement has been utilized by the Chicago packing house for three years.

Through L. A. Thompson, manager of the East Liverpool branch of the Armour house, the committee in charge of the Chester outing placed an order for 500 pounds of beef for the picnic luncheon. The beef was placed in fireless cookers in a car in the Illinois metropolis Tuesday evening and when it arrived here Wednesday morning it was ready to serve.

The fireless cooker, packed in a box, which, with its contents, represented 750 pounds, was taken to the park by Manager Thompson who personally unpacked it.

"It was really delicious," remarked picnickers who partook of the beef.

Last year the Armour company's barbecued beef was served to several thousand persons at a Masonic outing at New Castle, Pa., while it has been part of the menu at other big affairs in other states in the last two years.

Tribute Paid Underworld Czars.

CANTON, O., July 23.—Tribute has been paid to the czars of Canton's underworld within the last seven months.

And when the tribute stopped, police action started.

That was the sincere declaration of Pete Magras, self-admitted habitue of Canton's "jungle," to newspaper men early today following his release by police late yesterday.

Magras declared that he had paid $125 a week to James "Jumbo" Crowley for six consecutive weeks—starting about seven months ago—for the privilege of operating a gambling house near Cherry avenue S. E., and Eighth street.

"On the seventh week, my money was low and I could pay but $105," Magras declared, stating that he would gladly testify to all of his statements before any jury.

"That day my place was raided and I was fined $80."

"I went back and opened up and started operations that night and suddenly there was a rap on the door," he continued.

"Homer Moore, head of the police vice squad, stuck his head inside and said, "Pete, you cannot keep this place open any more, so I closed up and started bootlegging."

Hounded by Raiders, He Says.

He then told how he was hounded by police vice raiders, and was arrested three times in as many weeks for bootlegging. He said his wife was also arrested for transporting liquor, and is now working out her fine in the Marysville reformatory.

Pete declared that he was always friendly to Mellett and stoutly maintained that had he known of the murder plot he would have phoned Mellett from Akron, where he went about a month ago.

"Sometimes," Pete asserted, "Jumbo would ask me for an additional $50, saying it was for 'another person'—he would never tell me who this other person was."

Pete said that the reputed underworld king collected this extra $50 for 'the other person' on several occasions.

When Magras stated that police had not yet returned his coat and money, which was taken from him when he was jailed Wednesday afternoon, newspapermen took up a collection and gave it to the hungry Greek.

Magras Grilled.

Magras also declared that after police grilled him Wednesday night and early Thursday morning in the presence of Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective in charge of the investigation, they then called him back yesterday morning and tried to find out just how much information he had given to Mellett about the operations of the underworld.

After hearing Pete's story, newspapermen confirmed it with testimony offered in court at the time he sued "Jumbo" for protection money alleged to have been paid the underworld chieftain.

That suit was dismissed because of a technical legal error, and Magras declared he had not enough money to renew the case.

Mellon Avoids Debate.

LONDON, July 23.—Secretary Mellon is determined not be be trapped into a debate with Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer, over the Anglo-American debt question.

Before landing in France today the secretary of the treasury dodged an invitation wirelessed to the Majestic by the International News Service to comment on Churchill's latest utterance that Britain had suffered "adverse discrimination from the United States.'

The wireless also informed Mellon of the agitation afoot in England to utilize his visit to Europe as an occasion for a new discussion of the inter-allied debts question, and of the Daily Mail's campaign for cancellation.

PARIS, July 23.—Secretary Mellon arrived at Cherbourg on the White Star liner Majestic today. He started at once by automobile for Paris.

Hear Appeal Monday

June 26th, 1926, upon which date he was properly removed as provided for by Section 486-17-a and which order of removal was upon the request of Mr. Hurd and the civil service commission further amplified under date of July 8, 1926. With this one exception above noted, the mayor has complied in all respects with the civil service laws of Ohio in regard to the removal of Harry F. Hurd from the position of patrolman. He has duly appealed to the civil service commission and the date had been fixed for a hearing as of July 19, 1926, which was, upon the suggestion of those conducting the investigation, postponed by the mayor to a latter date pending receipt of this report.

Mayor Upheld in Excell Case.

"With reference to the charges that Charles Excell a patrolman, was dismissed by the mayor without the filing of any charges, the records of the mayor's office and the records of the civil service commission failed to show that Mr. Excell was ever permanently appointed to any position in the classified service of the city. He had been serving, however, as an emergency appointee which is provided for under Section 486-14-1 and which does not entitle him to the protection of the civil service law during good behavior and efficient service unless he has been appointed from certification in the manner provided for by Section 486-13. The mayor as appointing authority was, therefore, entirely within his rights in dismissing Mr. Excell without charges.

"With reference to the charge that patrolman Harry F. Hurd failed to receive a fair hearing before the local commission due to the fact that the chairman of such commission, Dwight McLean, had previously been arrested by Mr. Hurd for violation of the state laws, it was found that the particular violation referred to was a minor one, that of a traffic law violation consisting of a missing front truck license which after painting the truck was not replaced. This charge appeared to be so insignificant as to scarcely warrant being mentioned and no grounds could be found to substantiate the charge that for this reason Mr. Hurd would not receive a fair and impartial hearing.

"In the case of former Chief of Police John H. Fultz, who was dismissed by the mayor, and whose charges were sustained by the civil service commission, no investigation was made in view of the fact that he has appealed as the law permits from the decision of the municipal commission to the court of common pleas of Columbiana county to determine the sufficiency of cause of removal.

"With reference to the charge that M. K. Duty of Wellsville holds an appointment as a member of the local civil service commission having received same in the year 1925 and never having tendered his resignation therefrom, the records show the following facts: The records of the City Council show that D. E. Beatty was duly appointed a member of the civil service commission for a period of four years from September 7, 1920. The records of the mayor's office and of the civil service commission show that under date of July 2, 1924, A. P. Dennis was appointed to succeed D. E. Beatty, resigned. It will be noted that the unexpired term on July 2, 1924, consisted of merely the period from that date to September 7, 1924. The records of the civil service commission and the mayor's office further show that under date, January 19, 1925, Mr. M. K. Duty was appointed.

Reference To Duty's Appointment.

"In the language of appointment as shown by the records—'for the unexpired term of A. P. Dennis,' which could not be regular in view of the fact that such term had already expired under date of Sept. 7, 1924. Further the claim that Mr. Duty is a legal member of the commission rather than the appointee who succeeded him, could not be substantiated at this late date for the additional reason that Mr. Duty never complained that he was improperly displaced although he could not have failed to have been informed through the newspapers and in various other manner that the civil service commission was holding meetings. At no time did he present the claim that he was still a legal member of the commission.

"Frequent reference was made throughout the investigation, as in the previous charges filed with the state commission, of the fact that one of the members of the municipal commission is a full brother of the appointing authority, the mayor. There is nothing in the civil service law prohibiting the appointment to a civil service commission of one of blood relationship. However, in view of the spirit and intent of the civil service law, and at the same time in the absence of specific prohibition in the statute, this commission suggests that the merit system as provided for by Section 10 of Article XV of the state constitution can best be served and administered at least above possible suspicion and unnecessary criticism by appointment of persons on the municipal civil service commission who are not of blood relationship. At the same time the mayor is within his rights if he chooses to do so.

"Section 486-19 provides in part that —'at the time of any appointment not more than two commissioners shall be adherents of the same political party.' As will be readily seen this provision is mandatory and the charge has been made that all three members of the commission are in fact Republicans. Considerable stress was laid upon the charge that Harry Hammond, who is now a member of the civil service commission is a Republican. An affidavit has been filed in this office by Harry Hammond, which reads as follows:

"'State of Ohio, Columbiana county, ss.

"'Before me, John A. Hogenmiller, a notary public in and for said county, personally appeared Harry Hammond, who being known to me to be such person after being duly sworn deposes and says:

"'That he is the said Harry Hammond who is now a member of the civil service commission of the city of Wellsville, Ohio.

"'That he is 51 years of age.

"'That he has been a resident of Wellsville for 15 years.

"'That he has been a lifelong Democrat in politics.

"'That he is a known Democrat in the city of Wellsville.

"'That he is now a Democrat.

"'Further deponent saith not.

(Signed) "'HARRY HAMMOND.

"'Sworn to and subscribed in my presence this 19th day of June, 1926.

(Signed)

"'JOHN A. HOGENMILLER,

"'Notary Public.'

State Commission's Suggestion.

"However, during the investigation Mr. Hammond stated that at the last primary election held in the city of Wellsville, he asked for and received a Republican ballot. The charges stating that he was not a Democrat were based upon this fact. This commission finds that the mere fact that a Democrat voted the Republican ticket at the time of one primary or even more frequently does not necessarily mean that he is no longer a Democrat. There may have been, as was explained by Mr. Hammond, personal reasons why he chose to so vote in the primary election and would not in itself necessarily void his contention that he is a Democrat. Here again the spirit and intent of the civil service law come to the foreground. At best the epithet attached to one who claims to be a Democrat but occasionally votes the Republican ticket would be that of a hyphenated-Democrat. While the mayor need not remove him is he does not see fit in view of his affidavit stating that he is a Democrat, it might be suggested that the politics of the commission passing upon the decisions of appointing authorities should be unquestioned and above criticism.

"In view of the apparent questioned attitude of the present municipal civil service commission, although not specifically prohibited by statute from serving, it is desired to point out in view of the immediate pending hearing of an appeal of a discharged patrolman, it might be more desirable to appoint a trial board to hear such appeal as is permitted by section 486-17-a. One of the members of such trial board could, if desired by the mayor, be the present chairman of the civil service commission. At the same time if the mayor does not see fit to follow out this suggestion there is nothing in the statutes which would prohibit the present commission from performing its full functions as such, although with a trial board properly constituted and appointed by the commission all parties concerned would undoubtedly receive better satisfaction.

"Very truly yours,

"THE STATE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION."

bombardment of old King Sol that marked the summer's most determined offensive in years, ceased today—at least temporarily—as Jack Frost came to the rescue out of the far north with cooling breezes.

A survey of the scorched Ohio plains today showed that at least 40 persons fell victims to the barrage of heat darts. About half of the casualties were drowned. The others died of heat prostrations.

There were scores of minor heat prostrations in the state with the victims aided back to normalcy by the let-up in the hot weather.

Additional reports of mad dog scares, water famines and exploding pavements continued to come in from all parts of the state.

Cleveland's heat death toll was raised to six with the deaths of George Russell, railroad conductor, and Chaplin E. Hoover, New York Central baggageman, who died of sunstroke.

Beef Cooked In Transit From West on Picnic Menu

Beef, cooked while en route 450 miles from Chicago to East Liverpool, was served 2,500 persons at the Chester Business Men's association outing at Rock Springs park Wednesday.

It marked the first time that Armour & company's new method of preparing beef for use at big outings had been taken advantage of by an East Liverpool district organization, although the fireless cooker arrangement has been utilized by the Chicago packing house for three years.

Through L. A. Thompson, manager of the East Liverpool branch of the Armour house, the committee in charge of the Chester outing placed an order for 500 pounds of beef for the picnic luncheon. The beef was placed in fireless cookers in a car in the Illinois metropolis Tuesday evening and when it arrived here Wednesday morning it was ready to serve.

The fireless cooker, packed in a box, which, with its contents, represented 750 pounds, was taken to the park by Manager Thompson who personally unpacked it.

"It was really delicious," remarked picnickers who partook of the beef.

Last year the Armour company's barbecued beef was served to several thousand persons at a Masonic outing at New Castle, Pa., while it has been part of the menu at other big affairs in other states in the last two years.

Tribute Paid Underworld Czars.

CANTON, O., July 23.—Tribute has been paid to the czars of Canton's underworld within the last seven months.

And when the tribute stopped, police action started.

That was the sincere declaration of Pete Magras, self-admitted habitue of Canton's "jungle," to newspaper men early today following his release by police late yesterday.

Magras declared that he had paid $125 a week to James "Jumbo" Crowley for six consecutive weeks—starting about seven months ago—for the privilege of operating a gambling house near Cherry avenue S. E., and Eighth street.

"On the seventh week, my money was low and I could pay but $105," Magras declared, stating that he would gladly testify to all of his statements before any jury.

"That day my place was raided and I was fined $80."

"I went back and opened up and started operations that night and suddenly there was a rap on the door," he continued.

"Homer Moore, head of the police vice squad, stuck his head inside and said, "Pete, you cannot keep this place open any more, so I closed up and started bootlegging."

Hounded by Raiders, He Says.

He then told how he was hounded by police vice raiders, and was arrested three times in as many weeks for bootlegging. He said his wife was also arrested for transporting liquor, and is now working out her fine in the Marysville reformatory.

Pete declared that he was always friendly to Mellett and stoutly maintained that had he known of the murder plot he would have phoned Mellett from Akron, where he went about a month ago.

"Sometimes," Pete asserted, "Jumbo would ask me for an additional $50, saying it was for 'another person'—he would never tell me who this other person was."

Pete said that the reputed underworld king collected this extra $50 for 'the other person' on several occasions.

When Magras stated that police had not yet returned his coat and money, which was taken from him when he was jailed Wednesday afternoon, newspapermen took up a collection and gave it to the hungry Greek.

Magras Grilled.

Magras also declared that after police grilled him Wednesday night and early Thursday morning in the presence of Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective in charge of the investigation, they then called him back yesterday morning and tried to find out just how much information he had given to Mellett about the operations of the underworld.

After hearing Pete's story, newspapermen confirmed it with testimony offered in court at the time he sued "Jumbo" for protection money alleged to have been paid the underworld chieftain.

That suit was dismissed because of a technical legal error, and Magras declared he had not enough money to renew the case.

Mellon Avoids Debate.

LONDON, July 23.—Secretary Mellon is determined not be be trapped into a debate with Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer, over the Anglo-American debt question.

Before landing in France today the secretary of the treasury dodged an invitation wirelessed to the Majestic by the International News Service to comment on Churchill's latest utterance that Britain had suffered "adverse discrimination from the United States.'

The wireless also informed Mellon of the agitation afoot in England to utilize his visit to Europe as an occasion for a new discussion of the inter-allied debts question, and of the Daily Mail's campaign for cancellation.

PARIS, July 23.—Secretary Mellon arrived at Cherbourg on the White Star liner Majestic today. He started at once by automobile for Paris.

Mellon refused to discuss European economic affairs, asserting that he had come to the continent solely for the purpose of visiting his daughter, now in Italy.

"I have no wish to enter into a controversy with the British chancellor of the exchequer," Mellon said when asked to comment on Winston Churchill's recent speech on British and European economic affairs.

June 26th, 1926, upon which date he was properly removed as provided for by Section 486-17-a and which order of removal was upon the request of Mr. Hurd and the civil service commission further amplified under date of July 8, 1926. With this one exception above noted, the mayor has complied in all respects with the civil service laws of Ohio in regard to the removal of Harry F. Hurd from the position of patrolman. He has duly appealed to the civil service commission and the date had been fixed for a hearing as of July 19, 1926, which was, upon the suggestion of those conducting the investigation, postponed by the mayor to a latter date pending receipt of this report.

Mayor Upheld in Excell Case.

"With reference to the charges that Charles Excell a patrolman, was dismissed by the mayor without the filing of any charges, the records of the mayor's office and the records of the civil service commission failed to show that Mr. Excell was ever permanently appointed to any position in the classified service of the city. He had been serving, however, as an emergency appointee which is provided for under Section 486-14-1 and which does not entitle him to the protection of the civil service law during good behavior and efficient service unless he has been appointed from certification in the manner provided for by Section 486-13. The mayor as appointing authority was, therefore, entirely within his rights in dismissing Mr. Excell without charges.

"With reference to the charge that patrolman Harry F. Hurd failed to receive a fair hearing before the local commission due to the fact that the chairman of such commission, Dwight McLean, had previously been arrested by Mr. Hurd for violation of the state laws, it was found that the particular violation referred to was a minor one, that of a traffic law violation consisting of a missing front truck license which after painting the truck was not replaced. This charge appeared to be so insignificant as to scarcely warrant being mentioned and no grounds could be found to substantiate the charge that for this reason Mr. Hurd would not receive a fair and impartial hearing.

"In the case of former Chief of Police John H. Fultz, who was dismissed by the mayor, and whose charges were sustained by the civil service commission, no investigation was made in view of the fact that he has appealed as the law permits from the decision of the municipal commission to the court of common pleas of Columbiana county to determine the sufficiency of cause of removal.

"With reference to the charge that M. K. Duty of Wellsville holds an appointment as a member of the local civil service commission having received same in the year 1925 and never having tendered his resignation therefrom, the records show the following facts: The records of the City Council show that D. E. Beatty was duly appointed a member of the civil service commission for a period of four years from September 7, 1920. The records of the mayor's office and of the civil service commission show that under date of July 2, 1924, A. P. Dennis was appointed to succeed D. E. Beatty, resigned. It will be noted that the unexpired term on July 2, 1924, consisted of merely the period from that date to September 7, 1924. The records of the civil service commission and the mayor's office further show that under date, January 19, 1925, Mr. M. K. Duty was appointed.

Reference To Duty's Appointment.

"In the language of appointment as shown by the records—'for the unexpired term of A. P. Dennis,' which could not be regular in view of the fact that such term had already expired under date of Sept. 7, 1924. Further the claim that Mr. Duty is a legal member of the commission rather than the appointee who succeeded him, could not be substantiated at this late date for the additional reason that Mr. Duty never complained that he was improperly displaced although he could not have failed to have been informed through the newspapers and in various other manner that the civil service commission was holding meetings. At no time did he present the claim that he was still a legal member of the commission.

"Frequent reference was made throughout the investigation, as in the previous charges filed with the state commission, of the fact that one of the members of the municipal commission is a full brother of the appointing authority, the mayor. There is nothing in the civil service law prohibiting the appointment to a civil service commission of one of blood relationship. However, in view of the spirit and intent of the civil service law, and at the same time in the absence of specific prohibition in the statute, this commission suggests that the merit system as provided for by Section 10 of Article XV of the state constitution can best be served and administered at least above possible suspicion and unnecessary criticism by appointment of persons on the municipal civil service commission who are not of blood relationship. At the same time the mayor is within his rights if he chooses to do so.

"Section 486-19 provides in part that —'at the time of any appointment not more than two commissioners shall be adherents of the same political party.' As will be readily seen this provision is mandatory and the charge has been made that all three members of the commission are in fact Republicans. Considerable stress was laid upon the charge that Harry Hammond, who is now a member of the civil service commission is a Republican. An affidavit has been filed in this office by Harry Hammond, which reads as follows:

"'State of Ohio, Columbiana county, ss.

"'Before me, John A. Hogenmiller, a notary public in and for said county, personally appeared Harry Hammond, who being known to me to be such person after being duly sworn deposes and says:

"'That he is the said Harry Hammond who is now a member of the civil service commission of the city of Wellsville, Ohio.

"'That he is 51 years of age.

"'That he has been a resident of Wellsville for 15 years.

"'That he has been a lifelong Democrat in politics.

"'That he is a known Democrat in the city of Wellsville.

"'That he is now a Democrat.

"'Further deponent saith not.

(Signed) "'HARRY HAMMOND.

"'Sworn to and subscribed in my presence this 19th day of June, 1926.

(Signed)

"'JOHN A. HOGENMILLER,

"'Notary Public.'

State Commission's Suggestion.

"However, during the investigation Mr. Hammond stated that at the last primary election held in the city of Wellsville, he asked for and received a Republican ballot. The charges stating that he was not a Democrat were based upon this fact. This commission finds that the mere fact that a Democrat voted the Republican ticket at the time of one primary or even more frequently does not necessarily mean that he is no longer a Democrat. There may have been, as was explained by Mr. Hammond, personal reasons why he chose to so vote in the primary election and would not in itself necessarily void his contention that he is a Democrat. Here again the spirit and intent of the civil service law come to the foreground. At best the epithet attached to one who claims to be a Democrat but occasionally votes the Republican ticket would be that of a hyphenated-Democrat. While the mayor need not remove him is he does not see fit in view of his affidavit stating that he is a Democrat, it might be suggested that the politics of the commission passing upon the decisions of appointing authorities should be unquestioned and above criticism.

"In view of the apparent questioned attitude of the present municipal civil service commission, although not specifically prohibited by statute from serving, it is desired to point out in view of the immediate pending hearing of an appeal of a discharged patrolman, it might be more desirable to appoint a trial board to hear such appeal as is permitted by section 486-17-a. One of the members of such trial board could, if desired by the mayor, be the present chairman of the civil service commission. At the same time if the mayor does not see fit to follow out this suggestion there is nothing in the statutes which would prohibit the present commission from performing its full functions as such, although with a trial board properly constituted and appointed by the commission all parties concerned would undoubtedly receive better satisfaction.

"Very truly yours,

In "Volcano," a Paramount picture which opened at the Ceramic theatre last night, William K. Howard, its director, comes through with another winner. You will remember him as the same man who produced "The Thundering Herd," acclaimed as one of last year's best films.

"Volcano," which features Bebe Daniels, Ricardo Cortez and Wallace Beery, in addition to having a fine supporting cast, is good melodrama and will more than satisfy movie fans. The screen play was written by Bernard McConville from Laurence Eyre's stage success, "Martinique."

Bebe is splendid as the little French girl, who leaves her convent in Brussels to return to Martinique, a West Indian island, where her father is dying. On arriving, she discovers him dead, and not knowing where to turn, Bebe goes to the home of a woman who bears her name. Madame informs Bebe that she is not her daughter, and the only place to go is —to the Quarter.

Overhearing this conversation, Ricardo Cortez, who is engaged to Madame's daughter, becomes interested in Bebe, and asks if he may call on her. Things start happening to Bebe. Not knowing what the Quarter really is, she is naturally repulsed on finding the squalor and filth that exist.

Wallace Beery, a quadroon, the cunning lord of the Quarter, endeavors to win her love, but she thinks only of Cortez, and he of her. In need of money, Bebe has to auction her clothes off. Beery is about to purchase them when Cortez enters and outbids him. He swears that his is a love which knows no bounds. But Arthur Edmund Carew tells Bebe that she is about to ruin the life of a man both he and she love—his brother. Beebe agrees to give him up by pretending to welcome Beery's attentions.

The rest of the picture shows how all the loose strings of the plot are cleared up. It would be amiss not to make mention of the thrilling volcanic eruption scenes which take place in the last few reels. They are really exciting.

Denmark, leading butter-exporting country of the world, shipped more than 270,000,000 pounds of the bread decorator within the past year.

Soviet Russia purchased more than $87,000,000 worth of goods in this country in the last fiscal year, more than half the sum being for cotton.

In "Volcano," a Paramount picture which opened at the Ceramic theatre last night, William K. Howard, its director, comes through with another winner. You will remember him as the same man who produced "The Thundering Herd," acclaimed as one of last year's best films.

"Volcano," which features Bebe Daniels, Ricardo Cortez and Wallace Beery, in addition to having a fine supporting cast, is good melodrama and will more than satisfy movie fans. The screen play was written by Bernard McConville from Laurence Eyre's stage success, "Martinique."

Bebe is splendid as the little French girl, who leaves her convent in Brussels to return to Martinique, a West Indian island, where her father is dying. On arriving, she discovers him dead, and not knowing where to turn, Bebe goes to the home of a woman who bears her name. Madame informs Bebe that she is not her daughter, and the only place to go is —to the Quarter.

Overhearing this conversation, Ricardo Cortez, who is engaged to Madame's daughter, becomes interested in Bebe, and asks if he may call on her. Things start happening to Bebe. Not knowing what the Quarter really is, she is naturally repulsed on finding the squalor and filth that exist.

Wallace Beery, a quadroon, the cunning lord of the Quarter, endeavors to win her love, but she thinks only of Cortez, and he of her. In need of money, Bebe has to auction her clothes off. Beery is about to purchase them when Cortez enters and outbids him. He swears that his is a love which knows no bounds. But Arthur Edmund Carew tells Bebe that she is about to ruin the life of a man both he and she love—his brother. Beebe agrees to give him up by pretending to welcome Beery's attentions.

The rest of the picture shows how all the loose strings of the plot are cleared up. It would be amiss not to make mention of the thrilling volcanic eruption scenes which take place in the last few reels. They are really exciting.

Denmark, leading butter-exporting country of the world, shipped more than 270,000,000 pounds of the bread decorator within the past year.

Soviet Russia purchased more than $87,000,000 worth of goods in this country in the last fiscal year, more than half the sum being for cotton.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to express our sincere thanks to our many friends and relatives for their kindness shown in the recent bereavement of our dear mother and grandmother. Also, those who sent such beautiful floral offerings. Especially do we wish to thank Rev. Fowler and the singer and organist.

Wellsville Defeats Chester, 5-1; Turk-Nash Downs Motors

Meyer Holds Champs To Five Safe Blows; Play Errorless Ball

Successive Miscues in Third, Coupled With Hancock's Hit Allow Three Wellsville Runs to Cross Plate, Clinching Contest.

SNAPPY fielding and no less than nine effective bingles enabled the Wellsville City Industrial league club to defeat Chester on Smith field, 5 to 1, last evening. The victory put the two clubs in a tie for first place, each having won three and lost one game.

Meyer, handled by the capable Hinkle, held the West Virginians to five hits, all singles. Stoffel, pitching his first game for Chester, did well, but was found for nine hits, one being a three-bagger by Hinkle and two doubles by Manning and Rager. Stoffel fanned seven and Meyer three. The latter walked two and Stoffel none.

Hancock and Manning led Wellsville batters with a .667 mark.

Morris accepted seven and Hancock five chances at second and short, respectively. P. Cebula and W. McMath, at the same positions for Chester, had an off day, each booting a couple of tries.

Wellsville counted in the first frame. James fanned. Rager went out to Evan. Manning singled over short. He scored on Hinkle's three-base drive to left.

Chester knotted the score in the same inning. Evans singled over second. Greene sacrificed him to second. Hinkle to Dustman. P. Cebula singled to center, scoring Evans. Wyant hit into a double play, James to Morris to Dustman.

Wellsville scored one in the second, singles by Dustman, Hancock and James producing the tally.

Three runs crossed the plate in the third. Wilde muffed Morris' fly. P. Cebula booted Dustman's hit. Hancock made his second hit of the game and scored Morris. Shipley hit to McMath, who threw wildly to first, Dustman scoring.

P. Cebula made a miscue on Meyer's drive, Hancock scoring. James singled to left, Evans throwing Shipley out at the plate.

Chester went scoreless in the last five innings, getting but three hits off Meyer in that interim.

TITLE BOUT IS UNCERTAIN

COLISEUM CLUB CONTRACT SNAG

Matter May be Taken to Courts for Decision.

By GENE HOFFMAN.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Despite optimistic pronouncements of an early Dempsey-Tunney championship fight, a summation of facts in the involved situation today indicated that Dempsey's defense of his title here September 11 or 18, as annouuced by Tex Rickard, is anything but certain.

To bolster this contention the involved contract controversy may be cited as the most impressive threat to the proposed fistic classic. There is Rickard, one one side, claiming sole ownership to Dempsey's services, with B. V. Clements, of the Coliseum club, and Floyd Fitzsimmons, Indiana promoter, on the other side, stoutly disputing the claim.

Clements Has Claim.

It is generally conceded now that Clements' claim to a binding contract with the champion has more foundation than at first believed. It is likely that the matter will be taken to the courts for decision. Following a conference between attorneys for both parties, Rickard announced that if the Clements' contract was held valid, he would stop negotiations for the bout.

Fitzsimmons entered the controversy by reason of the fact that he was the original signer of Dempsey. Later he transferred his contract to the Coliseum club, under Clements' direction. Because Clements and his organization failed to pay $100,000 to the champion last March, as agreed, Rickard and Dempsey claim the contract is null and void.

Beside the contract squabble, there are other complications. Rickard announced the fight and is here ostensibly to promote it. Rickard is not a resident of Illinois and the new boxing law states specifically that no one not a resident of the state can dabble in fight promotion.

There is a strong feeling among sports observers here that Rickard made a tactical error when he, an outside promoter with no status before the state commission, came here and announced the date and other details of the fight without even consulting the commission.

Will Follow Law.

Citizens of Chicago and the state are eager for the fight, but they want it staged in strict conformity to the law and in a way that will not reflect on the state athletic commission. As matters stand, it is pointed out, the commission is placed in a ridiculous light. It will be difficult to yield to Rickard, granting him a technical loophole by allowing him to name a "dummy" promoter, without suffering a loss of prestige.

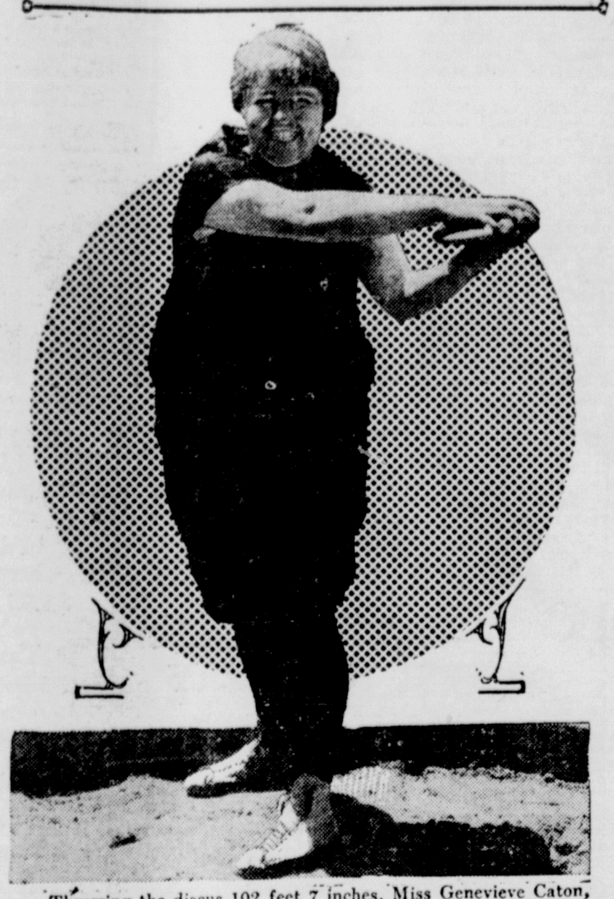
What fireworks will explode in the commission chambers before the thing is settled, remain to be seen.

It was learned today that Sheldon Clark, millionaire vice president and general manager of the Sinclair Refining company, will head a committee of seven prominent business men in backing Tex Rickard's venture. There is no denying that Clark's association with the project greatly enhances Chicago's chance to stage the bout.

Clark is a former commodore of the Chicago Yacht club and is held in high esteem. He is a national figure in financial and political circles.

The Pirates also had a field day, swamping the Dodgers, 14 to 2, and hammering out 21 hits. Waner led the attack.

Makes Prodigious Throw With Discus



Throwing the discus 102 feet 7 inches, Miss Genevieve Caton, 19-year-old Battle Creek, Mich., college girl recently established a women's world record in that event. Miss Caton, whose home is in Oakfield, N. Y., is a vegetarian and is a freshman at Battle Creek. To illustrate this girl's ability in throwing the discus it is pointed out that the event was recently won at Wellesly College with a mark of 65 feet 2 inches.

INSIDE Ggolf

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions.
"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Another peculiar thing about the two halves of the golf swing is that the back swing is largely a body action, with not much consciousness of arms and wrists, while the forward swing is just the reverse. It appears to be almost wholly arms, shoulders and wrists. Here again we observe that the down swing is the exact reverse of the back swing, and this rule holds true in this respect also. This necessity for throwing in the arms and wrists in the forward swing is what upsets many players. They swing back mostly with the body and then naturally try to swing forward in the same way, so the forward swing becomes a body lunge. In the forward swing the arms perform a trigger-like action. Just after the club starts downward, shoot the arms directly into it, swinging almost entirely with the arms and not at all with the body.

Bunch Three Clouts In Fifth To Shove Winning Runs Across

Motors, Leading, Forced to Give Ground as Fowler Combine Touches up Church for Timely Bingles; Rally by Former Club in Same Frame Fails.

ON a soggy field and between showers, Turk-Nash defeated Victory Motors last evening at Klondyke, 6 to 4. Twice, at 2 and 2 and 4 to 4, the score was evened, only to have the Nash outfit bunch three swats and a walk in the fifth to make three more runs and nail down the contest with a two run lead.

Church and R. Pollock were pitted against each other on the mound. Each allowed eight hits. The latter fanned eight as against the former's five. But the ex-Midland twirler was the wilder, walking four, while the west end star passed but one.

Victory Motor was leading, 4 to 3, when Turk-Nash batted in the first half of the fifth. Church faltered as he walked J. Watson, leading off. A wild pitch sent him to second, from where he scored, tying the count, 4 to 4, as E. Bayley fanned after McConnell had singled. R. Pollock was walked, again filling the bases. Both runners scampered across the plate as Schneidmiller slashed the ball through second. Then Church went right in and struck out D. Morgan and Talbot in turn, thus retiring three men by the breeze route in the one inning.

Motors Threaten.

Victory Motors threatened in their half of the fifth as Fowler, batting for Davis, singled. He was caught off second, Schneidmiller to D. Morgan to E. Bayley. Pollock then fanned C. Coleman and Sainor.

Alcock punched one out to right in the sixth and went to second as J. Watson, sacrificing, was safe on R. Pollock's high throw to first. E. Bayley walked, filling the sacks. McConnell flew to Stroble, who assisted to C. Coleman, doubling J. Watson. Alf Bayley fanned.

After V. Bailey had lifted a high one to Alf Bayley Mundy singled to right in the final half of the sixth, but H. Strobel struck out and Robinson grounded to Talbot ,who made a fine stop of the hard drive.

Eddie Bayley, with two singles and a pass in four tries against Church and Sainor, with a single and a double in three attempts against Pollock, led the hitters.

Talbot, recently acquired by Turk-Nash following his release by Victory Motor, played first for the Nash combine. He batted at a .500 clip with a single, pass and a strikeout in three chances. He stole two bags.

Robinson caught fine ball for Victory Motors.

J. Strobel singled to right as he opened the first for Victory Motor. Davis sacrificed, R. Pollock to Talbott. C. Coleman walked. Sainor singled to middle, scoring J. Strobel and enabling C. Coleman to reach third from where he counted on a double steal, Sainor also landing second. V. Bailey and W. Mundy went out at first, D. Morgan and R. Pollock respectively assisting.

R. Pollock beat out an infield hit in the second. Schneidmiller flew to Davis, who muffed the ball, R. Pollock going to second. He was caught stealing, Robinson to V. Bailey. D. Morgan singled to deep left, Schneidmiller going to third. Both runners registered on Talbott's single to right Alcock flew to C. Coleman and J. Watson fanned.

E. Bayley, singling in the third, reached second as McConnell sacrificed, V. Bailey to C. Coleman. A. Bayley flew to Sainor, who threw wildly to stop E. Bayley at third and enabling him to finish. R. Pollock flew to Talbott.

After J. Strobel had skied to J. Watson and Davis had fanned in the third C. Coleman beat out an infield hit and reached second as R. Pollock threw high to first in an effort to stop him. He scored on Sainor's double to left and the latter finished on V. Bailey's single to right. W. Mundy fanned.

Wellsville Defeats Chester, 5-1; Turk-Nash Downs Motors

Meyer Holds Champs To Five Safe Blows; Play Errorless Ball

Successive Miscues in Third, Coupled With Hancock's Hit Allow Three Wellsville Runs to Cross Plate, Clinching Contest.

SNAPPY fielding and no less than nine effective bingles enabled the Wellsville City Industrial league club to defeat Chester on Smith field, 5 to 1, last evening. The victory put the two clubs in a tie for first place, each having won three and lost one game.

Meyer, handled by the capable Hinkle, held the West Virginians to five hits, all singles. Stoffel, pitching his first game for Chester, did well, but was found for nine hits, one being a three-bagger by Hinkle and two doubles by Manning and Rager. Stoffel fanned seven and Meyer three. The latter walked two and Stoffel none.

Hancock and Manning led Wellsville batters with a .667 mark.

Morris accepted seven and Hancock five chances at second and short, respectively. P. Cebula and W. McMath, at the same positions for Chester, had an off day, each booting a couple of tries.

Wellsville counted in the first frame. James fanned. Rager went out to Evan. Manning singled over short. He scored on Hinkle's three-base drive to left.

Chester knotted the score in the same inning. Evans singled over second. Greene sacrificed him to second. Hinkle to Dustman. P. Cebula singled to center, scoring Evans. Wyant hit into a double play, James to Morris to Dustman.

Wellsville scored one in the second, singles by Dustman, Hancock and James producing the tally.

Three runs crossed the plate in the third. Wilde muffed Morris' fly. P. Cebula booted Dustman's hit. Hancock made his second hit of the game and scored Morris. Shipley hit to McMath, who threw wildly to first, Dustman scoring.

P. Cebula made a miscue on Meyer's drive, Hancock scoring. James singled to left, Evans throwing Shipley out at the plate.

Chester went scoreless in the last five innings, getting but three hits off Meyer in that interim.

TITLE BOUT IS UNCERTAIN

COLISEUM CLUB CONTRACT SNAG

Matter May be Taken to Courts for Decision.

By GENE HOFFMAN.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Despite optimistic pronouncements of an early Dempsey-Tunney championship fight, a summation of facts in the involved situation today indicated that Dempsey's defense of his title here September 11 or 18, as annouuced by Tex Rickard, is anything but certain.

To bolster this contention the involved contract controversy may be cited as the most impressive threat to the proposed fistic classic. There is Rickard, one one side, claiming sole ownership to Dempsey's services, with B. V. Clements, of the Coliseum club, and Floyd Fitzsimmons, Indiana promoter, on the other side, stoutly disputing the claim.

Clements Has Claim.

It is generally conceded now that Clementa' claim to a binding contract with the champion has more foundation than at first believed. It is likely that the matter will be taken to the courts for decision. Following a conference between attorneys for both parties, Rickard announced that if the Clements' contract was held valid, he would stop negotiations for the bout.

Fitzsimmons entered the controversy by reason of the fact that he was the original signer of Dempsey. Later he transferred his contract to the Coliseum club, under Clements' direction. Because Clements and his organization failed to pay $100,000 to the champion last March, as agreed, Rickard and Dempsey claim the contract is null and void.

Beside the contract squabble, there are other complications. Rickard announced the fight and is here ostensibly to promote it. Rickard is not a resident of Illinois and the new boxing law states specifically that no one not a resident of the state can dabble in fight promotion.

There is a strong feeling among sports observers here that Rickard made a tactical error when he, an outside promoter with no status before the state commission, came here and announced the date and other details of the fight without even consulting the commission.

Will Follow Law.

Citizens of Chicago and the state are eager for the fight, but they want it staged in strict conformity to the law and in a way that will not reflect on the state athletic commission. As matters stand, it is pointed out, the commission is placed in a ridiculous light. It will be difficult to yield to Rickard, granting him a technical loophole by allowing him to name a "dummy" promoter, without suffering a loss of prestige.

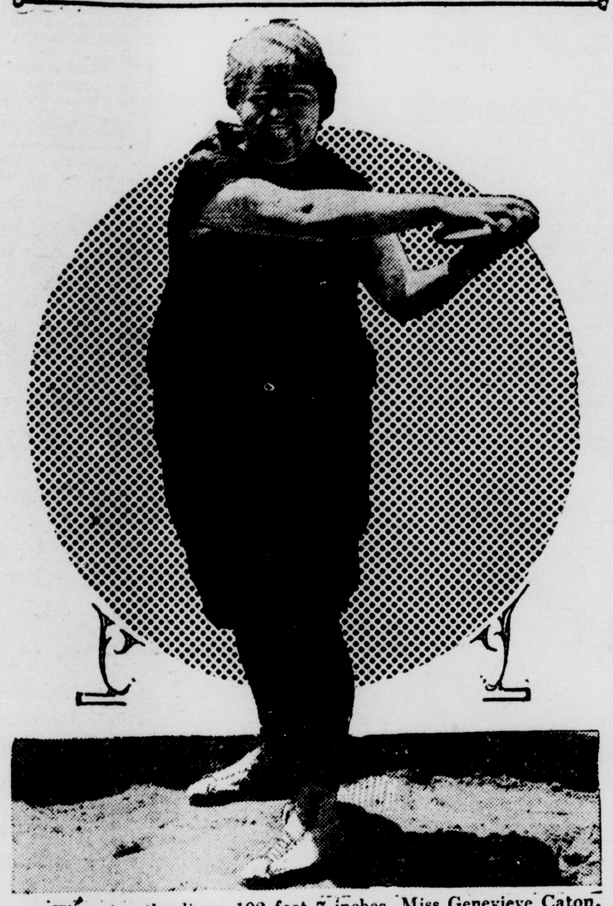
What fireworks will explode in the commission chambers before the thing is settled, remain to be seen.

It was learned today that Sheldon Clark, millionaire vice president and general manager of the Sinclair Refining company, will head a committee of seven prominent business men in backing Tex Rickard's venture. There is no denying that Clark's association with the project greatly enhances Chicago's chance to stage the bout.

Clark is a former commodore of the Chicago Yacht club and is held in high esteem. He is a national figure in financial and political circles.

The Pirates also had a field day, swamping the Dodgers, 14 to 2, and hammering out 21 hits. Waner led the attack.

Makes Prodigious Throw With Discus



Throwing the discus 102 feet 7 inches, Miss Genevieve Caton, 19-year-old Battle Creek, Mich., college girl recently established a women's world record in that event. Miss Caton, whose home is in Oakfield, N. Y., is a vegetarian and is a freshman at Battle Creek. To illustrate this girl's ability in throwing the discus it is pointed out that the event was recently won at Wellesly College with a mark of 65 feet 2 inches.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Another peculiar thing about the two halves of the golf swing is that the back swing is largely a body action, with not much consciousness of arms and wrists, while the forward swing is just the reverse. It appears to be almost wholly arms, shoulders and wrists. Here again we observe that the down swing is the exact reverse of the back swing, and this rule holds true in this respect also. This necessity for throwing in the arms and wrists in the forward swing is what upsets many players. They swing back mostly with the body and then naturally try to swing forward in the same way, so the forward swing becomes a body lunge. In the forward swing the arms perform a trigger-like action. Just after the club starts downward, shoot the arms directly into it, swinging almost entirely with the arms and not at all with the body.

Bunch Three Clouts In Fifth To Shove Winning Runs Across

Motors, Leading, Forced to Give Ground as Fowler Combine Touches up Church for Timely Bingles; Rally by Former Club in Same Frame Fails.

ON a soggy field and between showers, Turk Nash defeated Victory Motors last evening at Klondyke, 6 to 4. Twice, at 2 and 2 and 4 to 4, the score was evened, only to have the Nash outfit bunch three swats and a walk in the fifth to make three more runs and nail down the contest with a two run lead.

Church and R. Pollock were pitted against each other on the mound. Each allowed eight hits. The latter fanned eight as against the former's five. But the ex-Midland twirler was the wilder, walking four, while the west end star passed but one.

Victory Motor was leading, 4 to 3, when Turk-Nash batted in the first half of the fifth. Church faltered as he walked J. Watson, leading off. A wild pitch sent him to second, from where he scored, tying the count, 4 to 4, as E. Bayley fanned after McConnell had singled. R. Pollock was walked, again filling the bases. Both runners scampered across the plate as Schneidmiller slashed the ball through second. Then Church went right in and struck out D. Morgan and Talbot in turn, thus retiring three men by the breeze route in the one inning.

Motors Threaten.

Victory Motors threatened in their half of the fifth as Fowler, batting for Davis, singled. He was caught off second, Schneidmiller to D. Morgan to E. Bayley. Pollock then fanned C. Coleman and Sainor.

Alcock punched one out to right in the sixth and went to second as J. Watson, sacrificing, was safe on R. Pollock's high throw to first. E. Bayley walked, filling the sacks. McConnell flew to Stroble, who assisted to C. Coleman, doubling J. Watson. Alf Bayley fanned.

After V. Bailey had lifted a high one to Alf Bayley Mundy singled to right in the final half of the sixth, but H. Strobel struck out and Robinson grounded to Talbot ,who made a fine stop of the hard drive.

Eddie Bayley, with two singles and a pass in four tries against Church and Sainor, with a single and a double in three attempts against Pollock, led the hitters.

Talbot, recently acquired by Turk-Nash following his release by Victory Motor, played first for the Nash combine. He batted at a .500 clip with a single, pass and a strikeout in three chances. He stole two bags.

Robinson caught fine ball for Victory Motors.

J. Strobel singled to right as he opened the first for Victory Motor. Davis sacrificed, R. Pollock to Talbott. C. Coleman walked. Sainor singled to middle, scoring J. Strobel and enabling C. Coleman to reach third from where he counted on a double steal, Sainor also landing second. V. Bailey and W. Mundy went out at first, D. Morgan and R. Pollock respectively assisting.

R. Pollock beat out an infield hit in the second. Schneidmiller flew to Davis, who muffed the ball, R. Pollock going to second. He was caught stealing, Robinson to V. Bailey. D. Morgan singled to deep left, Schneidmiller going to third. Both runners registered on Talbott's single to right Alcock flew to C. Coleman and J. Watson fanned.

E. Bayley, singling in the third, reached second as McConnell sacrificed, V. Bailey to C. Coleman. A. Bayley flew to Sainor, who threw wildly to stop E. Bayley at third and enabling him to finish. R. Pollock flew to Talbott.

After J. Strobel had skied to J. Watson and Davis had fanned in the third C. Coleman beat out an infield hit and reached second as R. Pollock threw high to first in an effort to stop him. He scored on Sainor's double to left and the latter finished on V. Bailey's single to right. W. Mundy fanned.

TWO POTTERIES INSURE MEN

Two East Liverpool potteries have adopted life insurance protection for their workers under the group plan. They are the D. E. McNicol and the C. C. Thompson companies.

Both the policies, which were placed through the Prudential Insurance company of America, are of the contributory type, with the workers themselves paying a part of the premium and the employing company assuming the remainder of the cost.

The policy covering the McNicol company provides for insurance protection of $1,000 to $2,500 for each of the workers, the amount being determined by the position held. It involves a total coverage of $77,500 for 73 employes.

The Thompson policy is of the same type and provides for the same amounts for 139 employes, or a total coverage of $152,500.

the Secretary of Commerce. This was probably the obvious place for it, and the active interest of Mr. Hoover in aviation development made the selection of his department the more natural. He has been studying the relationship of the government to the business of flying for several years, and was an important witness before the President's Aircraft Board last autumn when the commercial phases of aviation were considered.

The new Air Commerce act follows many of the recommendations of that board, which in turn took much of its advice from Mr. Hoover and from Orville Wright, one of the inventors of the airplane. Mr. Wright, modestly disclaiming any vast wisdom about the future and refusing to urge any enormous or extravagant schemes on the government, confined himsef to recommending a development of airports and emergency landing fields along well-marked airways as the best present government help to commercial flying.

Progressive cities have been the leading factor to date in establishing airports and landing fields, but naturally each city acts for itself, and a complete air route across a long distance must depend upon the establishment of fields by every city along the route, or by enough of them to afford reasonable conveniences and safety. It will rest largely with the Department of Commerce to co-ordinate the efforts of cities so that complete routes may be laid out. The law provides that no exclusive rights can be granted by the government in the use of ground facilities, but regulations may be prescribed and operators of airplanes complying with them will have the use of the facilities available.

Supervision of Aircraft.

The inspection, regulation, registration, and licensing of aircraft and of pilots is likely to follow somewhat the scheme now in force regarding water craft. Every steamship under American registry is now inspected and registered, and its pilots and engineers are examined and licensed. Thus the passenger by water always has the assurance of his government that he is traveling on a reasonably safe craft, in the hands of competent navigating and engineer officers. No Almost every city inspects the elevators which carry its people up and down in buildings, but the passenger who goes up and down to the sky in an airplane has no official assurance that the ship is airworthy or the pilot experienced.

The new act also will permit some form of licensing airplane mechanics, if that proves advisable. These men are almost as essential a factor in sending out safe planes as are the pilots who drive the ships. The pilots are as much entitled to this sort of protection as the passengers, since under conditions of regular commercial flying they can not have the time to inspect thoroughly every detail of the machines they fly before each trip. They ought to know when they take out a plane approved by the mechanics that the approval has been by trained, responsible men, thoroughly fitted for their work and held to a responsibility for approving each flight by each machine.

Mr. Hoover is proceeding with care in putting the provisions of the new law into effect. He will have the best technical advice, and the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, made up of scientists, manufacturers, and flyers, has already held one important conference on the plans under the new bill. The United States Bureau of Standards, which is a branch of the Department of Commerce, has on its force a number of scientists who have done much research in aviation development, and their services are all available in the administration of the Air Commerce Act. Under such favorable auspices, the start has been made to establish the aircraft and flying business under government control and with government aid, and the future of commercial aviation is brighter than at any stage of the development of flying.

$20,000 ASKED AS DAMAGES

Attorney Files Petition for Lad Injured in Auto Accident.

A petition seeking $20,000 damages has been filed in common pleas court by James Smith, eight years old, by Clarence A. Smith, his next friend, against William J. Offord, it being claimed that the plaintiff was injured while on his way to school at the Neville Institute, East End, East Liverpool, at 8:45 o'clock the morning of April 20, last, by being struck by an automobile driven by the defendant.

The petition, which was filed by Attorney G. Jay Clark, has incorporated in the text 14 1-2 pages of matter, all being the full text of the East Liverpool traffic ordinance.

It is related by the plaintiff that when he was about 25 feet east of Dry Run bridge on Pennsylvania avenue, he was struck by an Oldsmobile sport model automobile owned by Offord and that he was severely injured. The charge of negligence is made in the petition.

YATES FUNERAL HERE TOMORROW

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Yates, 51 years old, wife of T. R. Yates, who died in the Central Clinic hospital, Salem, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the home, 1061 St. George street, in charge of Rev. J. O. Campbell, D. D., pastor of the Second United Presbyterian church. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

Friends can view the body tonight between 7 and 10 o'clock.

Notice to all Odd Fellows and Rebekahs. Meet at hall of Pennova lodge tonight, July 23rd, at 7 p. m. sharp, to attend funeral services for our late brother, Thos. R. Yates.

By order Noble Grand.

Missionary Rally.

Rev. A. L. Duncan, pastor of the Chester Free Metthodist church, was the principal speaker last night at the missionary rally in the Oakland Free Methodist church.

Missionary Meeting.

Members of the Missionary society of the Second Presbyterian church met last night with Mrs. William Bair at her home in Ohio avenue. Mrs. D. H. Crofts spoke on her work in the mission field of China.

Class Holds Party.

Class No. 9 of the Boyce Methodist Episcopal church held a lawn fete last evening on the church ground.

Despite that it had built a new 28,000,000 gallon storage tank within the last year, the village of Bridge of Earn, Scotland, is experiencing the worst drouth in years.

The vogue for soft cushions made in the shape of animals and to be used in gardens, has grown so great in England that they are being sold as quickly as they are made.

TWO POTTERIES INSURE MEN

Two East Liverpool potteries have adopted life insurance protection for their workers under the group plan. They are the D. E. McNicol and the C. C. Thompson companies.

Both the policies, which were placed through the Prudential Insurance company of America, are of the contributory type, with the workers themselves paying a part of the premium and the employing company assuming the remainder of the cost.

The policy covering the McNicol company provides for insurance protection of $1,000 to $2,500 for each of the workers, the amount being determined by the position held. It involves a total coverage of $77,500 for 73 employes.

The Thompson policy is of the same type and provides for the same amounts for 139 employes, or a total coverage of $152,500.

the Secretary of Commerce. This was probably the obvious place for it, and the active interest of Mr. Hoover in aviation development made the selection of his department the more natural. He has been studying the relationship of the government to the business of flying for several years, and was an important witness before the President's Aircraft Board last autumn when the commercial phases of aviation were considered.

The new Air Commerce act follows many of the recommendations of that board, which in turn took much of its advice from Mr. Hoover and from Orville Wright, one of the inventors of the airplane. Mr. Wright, modestly disclaiming any vast wisdom about the future and refusing to urge any enormous or extravagant schemes on the government, confined himsef to recommending a development of airports and emergency landing fields along well-marked airways as the best present government help to commercial flying.

Progressive cities have been the leading factor to date in establishing airports and landing fields, but naturally each city acts for itself, and a complete air route across a long distance must depend upon the establishment of fields by every city along the route, or by enough of them to afford reasonable conveniences and safety. It will rest largely with the Department of Commerce to co-ordinate the efforts of cities so that complete routes may be laid out. The law provides that no exclusive rights can be granted by the government in the use of ground facilities, but regulations may be prescribed and operators of airplanes complying with them will have the use of the facilities available.

Supervision of Aircraft.

The inspection, regulation, registration, and licensing of aircraft and of pilots is likely to follow somewhat the scheme now in force regarding water craft. Every steamship under American registry is now inspected and registered, and its pilots and engineers are examined and licensed. Thus the passenger by water always has the assurance of his government that he is traveling on a reasonably safe craft, in the hands of competent navigating and engineer officers. No Almost every city inspects the elevators which carry its people up and down in buildings, but the passenger who goes up and down to the sky in an airplane has no official assurance that the ship is airworthy or the pilot experienced.

The new act also will permit some form of licensing airplane mechanics, if that proves advisable. These men are almost as essential a factor in sending out safe planes as are the pilots who drive the ships. The pilots are as much entitled to this sort of protection as the passengers, since under conditions of regular commercial flying they can not have the time to inspect thoroughly every detail of the machines they fly before each trip. They ought to know when they take out a plane approved by the mechanics that the approval has been by trained, responsible men, thoroughly fitted for their work and held to a responsibility for approving each flight by each machine.

Mr. Hoover is proceeding with care in putting the provisions of the new law into effect. He will have the best technical advice, and the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, made up of scientists, manufacturers, and flyers, has already held one important conference on the plans under the new bill. The United States Bureau of Standards, which is a branch of the Department of Commerce, has on its force a number of scientists who have done much research in aviation development, and their services are all available in the administration of the Air Commerce Act. Under such favorable auspices, the start has been made to establish the aircraft and flying business under government control and with government aid, and the future of commercial aviation is brighter than at any stage of the development of flying.

AUSTRALIA HIT BY FLOOD; ONE DEAD, 30 HURT

Tornado Cause of Havoc in Southwestern Victoria.

HOUSES RAZED

Bridge Collapses Few Minutes After Train Had Passed.

LONDON, July 23.—Enormous damage has been caused by entensive floods throughout western Australia, according to Sydney advices to the Central News today.

A tornado wrought havoc in southwestern Victoria, killing one person and injuring 30. Many houses and churches were destroyed, and the roofs of at least 100 dwellings were torn off by the high wind.

At Freemantle a bridge collapsed from the pressure of high water a few minutes after a train had passed across it.

TOKIO, July 23.—More than 400 houses were demolished by floods in Onai, Korea, in the province of Chusei, according to dispatches received here today. It is feared that there will be many casualties.

Alabama "Fish" to Try English Channel Swim Next Year

The Alabamian eliminated the final obstacle in his way towards his ultimate goal when he accomplished the longest salt water swim in American history here.

Jackson survived the long grind from Mobile to Fort Morgan, a distance of 30 miles, in 18 hours and 27 minutes. He covered fully 40 miles on account of a fierce crosstide sweeping him eastward.

After he swam Mobile bay last summer, the Flomaton man has been in training for his chance to swim the English channel, conquered by but five men, only two of them Americans.

So popular has become electricity in Trieste, Italy, that in March more was used than in the entire year of 1921.

DENVER CLAIMS YOUNGEST THIEF

DENVER, Colo.—Denver claims the distinction of having the world's youngest "thief" and this "Baby bad man" is "in again."

"Johnny" is his name and that is all the police will reveal. He is 7 year old. His first exploit into the crime world was two months ago when he was picked up by police as he was attempting to drive away an automobile from one of the down town streets.

During the past week, Detectives Genty and Carter have traced him down as the perpetrator of at least four minor robberies.

His hobby is taking toys from stores, lead pencils, machine parts, tape measures and household odds and ends.

URGE WOMEN AS PLAY CENSORS

British Theatre-goers Suggest Actress or Playwright.

LONDON.—The suggestion that a prominent woman actress or playwright should sit with the Lord Chamberlain and advise him in his task of censoring plays is receiving considerable support here.

"I think the idea is an excellent one, and, personally I should love the job," said Clemence Dane, the distinguished woman playwright.

"I do not want just a woman censor by herself," she added. "That would be terrible, but the committee should consist of an equal number of men and women. Even one woman assisting the Lord Chamberlain would do a lot of good, and there would be less chance of really good plays being banned."

Of 341 plays submitted for presentation and approval to the Lord Chamberlain this year in England twenty have been refused licenses.

Price cuting in automobiles, which years, is being eliminated following the formation of motor trade organizations.

TOKIO, July 23.—More than 400 houses were demolished by floods in Onai, Korea, in the province of Chusei, according to dispatches received here today. It is feared that there will be many casualties.

Alabama "Fish" to Try English Channel Swim Next Year

The Alabamian eliminated the final obstacle in his way towards his ultimate goal when he accomplished the longest salt water swim in American history here.

Jackson survived the long grind from Mobile to Fort Morgan, a distance of 30 miles, in 18 hours and 27 minutes. He covered fully 40 miles on account of a fierce crosstide sweeping him eastward.

After he swam Mobile bay last summer, the Flomaton man has been in training for his chance to swim the English channel, conquered by but five men, only two of them Americans.

So popular has become electricity in Trieste, Italy, that in March more was used than in the entire year of 1921.

DENVER CLAIMS YOUNGEST THIEF

DENVER, Colo.—Denver claims the distinction of having the world's youngest "thief" and this "Baby bad man" is "in again."

"Johnny" is his name and that is all the police will reveal. He is 7 year old. His first exploit into the crime world was two months ago when he was picked up by police as he was attempting to drive away an automobile from one of the down town streets.

During the past week, Detectives Genty and Carter have traced him down as the perpetrator of at least four minor robberies.

His hobby is taking toys from stores, lead pencils, machine parts, tape measures and household odds and ends.

URGE WOMEN AS PLAY CENSORS

British Theatre-goers Suggest Actress or Playwright.

LONDON.—The suggestion that a prominent woman actress or playwright should sit with the Lord Chamberlain and advise him in his task of censoring plays is receiving considerable support here.

"I think the idea is an excellent one, and, personally I should love the job," said Clemence Dane, the distinguished woman playwright.

"I do not want just a woman censor by herself," she added. "That would be terrible, but the committee should consist of an equal number of men and women. Even one woman assisting the Lord Chamberlain would do a lot of good, and there would be less chance of really good plays being banned."

Of 341 plays submitted for presentation and approval to the Lord Chamberlain this year in England twenty have been refused licenses.

Price cuting in automobiles, which years, is being eliminated following the formation of motor trade organizations.

PREDICT RECORD CROP OF APPLES

The state's apple crop this year will be twice as great as last year's and the peach crop will be approximately 10 times as great judging by present indications, according to the July report on crop conditions, prepared by Barnard Gibbs, United States agricultural statistician in cooperation with John W. Smith, state commissioner of agriculture.

The report shows that pears and other fruits also will exceed last year's productions.

Mr. Gibbs' report follows, in part:

"The state's apple crop at present shows evidence of being twice as large as the last year's crop, while indications are that the peach crop will be approximately eight times as great as last year. Pear roduction will also be in excess of last year and all indications point to large productions of other fruits, according to information collected by the West Virginia crop and livestock reporting service.

"The apple outlook was lowered by the heavy drop through the month of June, but a condition for the crop of 63 per cent is shown against 32 per cent last July and a ten year average July 1st condition of 48 per cent. With this condition the state's total crop is estimated at 8,388,000 bushels against last year's production of 4,185,000 bushels and the five year average crop 1921 to 1925 inclusive of 5,110,000 bushels.

"The production from commercial orchards of the state is estimated at 1,258,000 barrels against last year's of 792,000 barrels and the five year average 1921 to 1925 inclusive of 792,000 barrels."

Only One Bidder For Dayton-Xenia Traction Holdings

XENIA, O., July 23.—J. T. Ferneding, of Dayton, superintendent of the Dayton and Xenia traction company, was the only qualified bidder when the road was sold at the courthouse here yesterday. His bid of $130,000 was accepted by Robert K. Landis, master commissioner in the receivership proceedings against the company. Ferneding, while present at the sale, was represented by John Kemper, also of Dayton.

Sale of the property in its entirety was forced by the First Wisconsin Trust company, Milwaukee, which held the mortgages on the line.

The D. & X. was recently granted a new 20-year franchise by the city of Xenia to become effective August 8.

CONWAY TEARLE AT AMERICAN

Popular Star Appears in "Dancer of Paris."

Conway Tearle, one of the screen's most popular male stars, appears on the screen of the American theatre this week in Robert T. Kane's latest First National production, "The Dancer of Paris," from the pen of the internationally popular Michael Arlen. This is the first time that a Michael Arlen story has been screened.

Tearle's performance as Noel Anson, the American infatuated with The Dancer of Paris, is reported to be of the finest that he has thus far contributed to the screen. He plays with a facility and grace that, combined with the other attributes, results it is said in a most delightful character.

Sharing stellar honors with Tearle is Dorothy Mackaill who assumes the title role of the production. She, too, is reported to give performances of unusual distinction. Robert Cain completes the cast.

Alfred A. Santell directed "The Dancer of Paris." It is another feather in the cap of the young man who has already made a name for himself by his direction of Corinne Griffith in "Classified" and Kane's comedy hit, "Bluebeard's Seven Wives."

CONWAY TEARLE AT AMERICAN

Popular Star Appears in "Dancer of Paris."

Conway Tearle, one of the screen's most popular male stars, appears on the screen of the American theatre this week in Robert T. Kane's latest First National production, "The Dancer of Paris," from the pen of the internationally popular Michael Arlen. This is the first time that a Michael Arlen story has been screened.

Tearle's performance as Noel Anson, the American infatuated with The Dancer of Paris, is reported to be of the finest that he has thus far contributed to the screen. He plays with a facility and grace that, combined with the other attributes, results it is said in a most delightful character.

Sharing stellar honors with Tearle is Dorothy Mackaill who assumes the title role of the production. She, too, is reported to give performances of unusual distinction. Robert Cain completes the cast.

Alfred A. Santell directed "The Dancer of Paris." It is another feather in the cap of the young man who has already made a name for himself by his direction of Corinne Griffith in "Classified" and Kane's comedy hit, "Bluebeard's Seven Wives."

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors, Homer Laughlin potteries Nos. 1, 2 and 3, St. John's junior choir, the neighbors of Chippewa Heights, Cleveland, Miss Anna Treudel and the Ideal Shirt company for the kindness and sympathy shown us during our bereavement in the death of our beloved son and brother, Fredrick Watchler.

LIFE SAVER LEAVES CITY

C. W. Robbins, Red Cross Man, Visits Pine Ridge.

With visits to Pine Ridge camp Wednesday morning and Rock Springs park in the afternoon after which he met with classes of girls and women at the Y. M. C. A., Carl W. Robbins, American Red Cross life saving examiner, completed his work in East Liverpool.

Captain Robbins talked to the 48 girls who are encamped at the Y. M. C. A. recreation center at Camp Pine Ridge, and then, with the aid of Mrs. Emma Sutton, camp director, gave a demonstration in life saving work.

At Rock Springs park yesterday afternoon, a demonstration was given in which Robbins was the drowning victim and B. C. Cooper, of the local Y. M. C. A., played the role of rescuer. The demonstration included carries, approaches, breaks for drowning grips and resuscitation.

In the demonstration before the women's and girl's classes at the Y. M. C. A. pool later in the afternoon, Robbins was again assisted by Mrs. Sutton.

Mrs. Sutton will continue as life saving examiner here, while Frank Manton and W. Edward Kaiser will be the examiners for the men's and boy's classes.

Three Months Record for One Day Broken Yesterday.

By filing five actions in divorce, a three months record for one day was broken today, it was declared by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine. "We've had two and three divorce actions filed in a day, but the record of five is something new," Mr. Ballantine declared.

The divorce petition of William Oakley against his wife, Claudia Oakley, residing on R. F. D. No. 2, Allendale, N. J., was filed by Metzgar & McCarty, of Salem, and charges the defendant with extreme cruelty. The couple were married at Saddle River, N. J., Nov. 20, 1907.

David McCoy, residing at Empire, has had a petition for divorce filed in common pleas court against him by his wife, Anna McCoy, through her counsel, Ben L. Bennett, of East Liverpool. They were married at New Cumberland, W. Va., May 6, 1910. Gross neglect of duty over a period of three years is the charge in the petition against the defendant.

Attorney Bennett, acting in behalf of Elizabeth Dever, has filed a petition for divorce in court against her husband, Joseph Dever, said to be residing on Eleventh avenue, New Brighton, Pa. They were married Sept. 25, 1920. The charge of gross neglect is made against Dever. The plaintiff seeks a decree of divorce and also custody of her minor child.

Irma Pritchard is said to be residing at the Tutwiler hotel at Montgomery, Ga., according to the petition in divorce filed against her by her husband, Frederick Z. Pritchard, filed by Attorneys Cochran and Crawford, of East Liverpool.

The couple were married at Montgomery, Ala., October 18, 1917. Pritchard declares in his petition that when they were living at Bellefontaine, O., his wife left him June 1, 1922.

Attorney Charles Boyd, of East Liverpool, is representing Genevieve Elsie Dugan in her divorce action against her husband, Raymond Dugan, a section hand on the Pennsylvania railroad at or near Garfield, O., according to the petition which has just been filed. Gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty is charged against Dugan, also the charge of habitual drunkenness for the last three years. In this case alimony is also sought in addition to a decree.

THREE MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED

A marriage license has been issued to Hilbert J. Freed, of Hamilton, N. J., a fireman, and Miss Florence Kleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kleman, of East Liverpool. The couple are to be married by the Rev. J. L. Mauer.

Philip Jeswald, of Leetonia, formerly of Youngstown, and Susie Mauro, also of Leetonia, but a native of Italy, have been granted a marriage license.

Harold E. Ketchum, a tube mill employe, residing at Wellsville, and Blanche Edith Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Incas L. Shaw, of East Liverpool, have been granted a marriage license. They were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon United Presbyterian church by Rev. J. C. Cameron.

Lodge Reunion Planned.

Announcement has been made that the 18th annual reunion of the Lodge family will be held at Kelly's park Saturday, August 7. Frank Mossman, of Leetonia, is president of the reunion association, while Bertha Waddell, of Leetonia, is secretary. An address will be delivered by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle.

Money Being Spent By Townships on Road Improvements

Of the Green road law money that came into this county, with that contributed by the various townships, a total of $32,500 is being spent on No. 1 secondary road work in this county this year.

Eight townships are spending Green law money at this time, but West township is putting more of its own money into road construction than any other of these townships. West is spending $9,000 of its own money on new road work, to which $1,000 Green law money has been added, giving the township a fund of $10,000 for secondary road construction.

Salem township takes second place by spending $8,000 of its own funds, to which is being added the $1,000 received from the state.

Knox township is spending $1,550 of its own money together with the $1,000 state aid, while Washington township has put $1,500 into its secondary road work, plus the $1,000 state aid.

Four other townships, Center, Franklin, Unity and Wayne are each putting $1,000 of their own funds into secondary road construction, and at the same time using the $1,000 appropriated these townships by the state under the provisions of the Green law.

The county commissioners have approved the assessments worked out by the township trustees for the roads now being improved with these funds, and other townships are arranging to proceed with their secondary road work, and within a short time such new road work will be started in Elk-run township, the trustees of that township proposing to improve "Fingerboard hill" road.

Last year every township in the county received its appropriation of $1,000 from the state under the Green law.

To Eliminate Crossing.

The Miller Coal company has notified the county commissioners it proposes to eliminate the dangerous coal track crossing leading from its stripping operation on the Leetonia-Lisbon road. Several weeks ago the commissioners notified the coal company that unless the crossing was removed, it would be done by the county and charged up against the property. The company has not operated its stripping territory for over a year.

$2,000 SOUGHT IN COURT ACTION

An action to recover $2,000 as a service fee against the estate of the late John Todd Kountz has been filed in common pleas court by Lones, Hill & Davidson in behalf of Eliza Thorne against John Kountz, residing on the Lincoln highway, in the vicinity of Stop 55.

The petition relates that the plaintiff took care of the decedant during his life time and a long period illness, extending from February 17, 1919, to December 29, 1924.

When the bill for service was presented to the defendant payment was denied, although a part of the will of the decedent, which has been incorporated as a part of the petition, reads: "I direct that my sister, Eliza Thorne, and Will Malone, each be well paid for their services in waiting on and caring for me." The bill for the service was presented March 8, last, when it was rejected. The court action then followed.

PHYSICIAN TALKS AT CLUB MEETING

County Health Commissioner Dr. T. T. Church, speaking at the noon meeting of the Lisbon Kiwanis club Thursday, urged the erection of a sanitary drinking fountain in the public square to take the place of the pump and old fashioned drinking cup.

"You can never tell the condition of the health, or of the mouths of people who use a public drinking cup," Dr. Church declared. "You cannot be too careful these days."

Dr. Church explained at length the activities of the county health department, of the good that was being done by the county nurse in looking after the health of the rural school children and those in communities under 5,000.

Sale Confirmed.

In the case of the Firestone bank of Lisbon, filed June 26, 1925, against Samantha Pieren and others, a sale has been confirmed, and a deed and distribution ordered.

JUDGE GRANTS TWO DIVORCES

A decree of divorce has been granted by Judge W. H. Spence in the case of Harry L. Wood against his wife, Hazel E. Wood, alimony and the custody of a minor child has been given to Mrs. Wood. The petition in this case was filed in common pleas court April 20, last.

On the grounds of gross neglect of duty, a decree of divorce has been given the plaintiff in the case of Walter R. McGeehen against his wife, Rhoda McGeehen. The plaintiff was represented by Attorney John E. Baukknecht, of East Palestine.

Leave to Answer.

Leave has been granted by the court to Marina McMullen to file an answer by July 31, next, in the case now pending in court against her filed by the Pollock-Forsch company. This is an action to recover a claim of $878.08, the petition having been filed January 21, last.

BULLDOG BASIS OF CIVIL SUIT

John Magill, Lincoln Highway, Named in Court Action.

Alleged misrepresentation on the part of the defendant in the sale of a Boston bulldog is the basis of a suit, which has been filed in municipal court by J. L. Belaney, 709 Edwards avenue, against John Magill, Lincoln highway.

Belaney charges that Magill sold him the dog for $110 and that after the transaction had been completed he learned that the canine had been the property of C. H. Moore and not Magill as he had supposed. The dog was returned to Moore and now Belaney is asking that the court order Magill to return the purchase price.

ECZEMA IN RASH ON LITTLE BOY

Very Itchy. Caused Eruptions. Cuticura Heals.

"My little brother had weeping eczema. It broke out on his forehead in a rash, and was very itchy causing him to scratch. Scratching caused the eruptions to fester and they were very sore and tender. It got so bad that we had to put stockings on his hands at night and he was very cross. The trouble lasted several weeks.

"Cuticura Soap and Ointment were suggested so we purchased some, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and nearly a box of Cuticura Ointment he was healed." (Signed) Miss Minnie Saxsma, Piper City, Ill., Feb. 2, 1926.

Tortured by rash on face

Resinol stops itching and makes skin clear and smooth

Piney Creek, N. C., Jan. 4:—"I had a breaking out on my face that looked like chicken pox. I suffered so from it that at night I would not sleep for hours at a time. I tried various remedies, but nothing did me any good until I tried Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. It stopped the itching and burning instantly and after a few applications the skin peeled off and left my face clear and smooth, instead of rough and bumpy. I don't know of anything better than the Resinol products." (Signed) W. R. Mitchell.

ECZEMA IN RASH ON LITTLE BOY

Very Itchy. Caused Eruptions. Cuticura Heals.

"My little brother had weeping eczema. It broke out on his forehead in a rash, and was very itchy causing him to scratch. Scratching caused the eruptions to fester and they were very sore and tender. It got so bad that we had to put stockings on his hands at night and he was very cross. The trouble lasted several weeks.

"Cuticura Soap and Ointment were suggested so we purchased some, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and nearly a box of Cuticura Ointment he was healed." (Signed) Miss Minnie Saxsma, Piper City, Ill., Feb. 2, 1926.

Tortured by rash on face

Resinol stops itching and makes skin clear and smooth

Piney Creek, N. C., Jan. 4:—"I had a breaking out on my face that looked like chicken pox. I suffered so from it that at night I would not sleep for hours at a time. I tried various remedies, but nothing did me any good until I tried Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. It stopped the itching and burning instantly and after a few applications the skin peeled off and left my face clear and smooth, instead of rough and bumpy. I don't know of anything better than the Resinol products." (Signed) W. R. Mitchell.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO.

Coming down the steps from the street were two figures, a man and a girl. Bee looked, and recognized Delia, gently pretty in a light frock with outer coat thrown back and a snug little round hat—obviously a new hat. Behind her, carelessly at his ease, as always, swinging a bamboo cane, strolled Arthur Rockwell. They made thair way to a table across the room. Arthur hung up his hat and cane, dropped into a chair, and began intently studying the menu. The choice of food was always a serious matter with him.

It was a moment later that Delia saw them. She smiled, and waved her hand. Then, after hesitating and glancing at the absorbed Arthur, she got up and crossed to their table. "It's an age since I've seen you,' she said in an oddly effusive manner. "How have you been?"

"Oh, all right," replied Lou.

"And Bee, I haven't really thanked you for all you did—"

"Oh, that's nothing," smiled Bee.

"I mean getting me the job. It's really pretty good, you know. The work is interesting. Lots of life about the place. Energy and snap. They're starting things on a tremendous scale.

I'm quite a part of it already. And Mr. Kendall is awfully kind and nice." Mr. Kendall was Fred.

It wasn't the Delia of a week or so back. This was a guardedly smiling girl whose eyes studied their faces as she spoke. Those eyes fell now on Bee's apron.

"Well," said Bee dryly, "it helps out."

Arthur saw them now, and nodded off-hand. "Come, dear," he called to Delia, "you haven't told me what you want to eat."

It was nothing, that "dear;" you heard the word everywhere about the Village. But at the sound, Delia's lids fluttered downward and a touch of color crept into her cheeks. "Well —" she began; then: "How awfully nice to have seen you!"

"Look in at the room some evening," said Lou cheerfully.

"I will. Of course, I simply don't seem able to get any time to myself at all." She laughed a little. "We just must have a visit. You girls were so kind. Are you going to Provincetown this summer?"

"I haven't the remotest idea where I'm going," said Bee. "Are you?"

"Well, I'll be working, of course. But"—she squared her slim shoulders —"Arthur has a little shack down there, you know. I—I should be able to run down week-ends. It'll be nice. I've never seen Provincetown. . . . . Coming, dear!"

She moved back across the room.

"Curious," observed Lou, looking after her. "Self-conscious, isn't she?"

"And he'll let her go on—"

"No. Hardly."

"Too bad," said Bee. Then: "I wish to high heaven I could see Provincetown on my itinerary some time in these next few months! Or Central America! Or any place!"

April came, and with it the breath of spring that brings to the city each year a gentle sense of quickening life. The dusty shrubbery in the little triangular park, and the one remaining tall tree at the nothern end, were budding pathetically. Over in Washington Square the hurdy-gurdies were grinding out their staccato melodies while swarms of Italian children played about. There were days of warmth and languor when the thoughts of those young painters and poets and playwrights and designers of scenery whose lives so vividly flavor and color life of the Village were bent eagerly on the coming June migration to Provincetown, that other huddled little Greenwich Village large out at the seagrit tip of Cape Cod. Pretty summery things began to appear in the shop-windows uptown. One after another the theaters were closing. Each day the papers printed long lists of all the important and self-important persons who were sailing on the great liners that steamed so majestically down the harbor, out past the now somewhat ironic statue of Liberty, bound for those lands where the individual may yet taste a measure of freedom.

With the two girls in the little flat on Christopher street life went on with interesting change. Bee found no opening as an actress. Even in the field of "summer stock" nothing offered that promised a reasonable livelihood. So she kept on at the Peacock Feather, and made over her clothes of the summer before.
